Georgians Pledge Cooperation in Tax Reforms

TAX COMMISSION PLANS STATE TOUR AT MEETING HERE

Governor's Appointees Hold Sessions at Rome Today, Augusta Wednesday, Athens Thursday.

WAYCROSS AND ALBANY MAY BE PUT ON LIST

Addresses on Tax Changes Made at Meeting by Leaders of City and State Organizations.

With ten out of its total membership of twelve present, the special tax commission, appointed by Governor Clifford Walker to study Georgia's revenue needs and suggest an equitable stable and feasible plan for a new tax system to the legislature, held the first of a series of public meetings Monday afternoon. The commission met in the office of the governor, completed work of organization, and made final arrangements for hearings in various cities of the state.

Upon nomination of R. C. Ellis, of Tifton, who represents Tift county in the legislature, State Senator T. S. Mason, of Hartwell, was elected chairman; James C. Peters, of Manchester, nominated Mr. Ellis for vice chairman, and Freeman McClure, of Lafayette, another member of the legislature, was named as secretary.

The commission which will conduct these hearings and work out final report and suggestions, is exactly as the governor named it in his announcement of one week ago, with three exceptions. Fuller Callaway, of LaGrange, is unable to serve on account of illness; J. E. Conwell, president of the Georgia Cotton Growers' association, finds that he is unable to spare the time from that organization, and W. B. Baker, of Atlanta, president of the Georgia Manufacturers association, is also unable to serve.

Superstition Allayed.

The number of the commission as originally named was thirteen, but in order to allay fears of any Georgians inclined to be superstitious the governor only appointed two in place of the three who resigned, reducing the number to twelve. Judge U. V. Whipple, of Cordele, and James W. Morton, of Clarke county, are the new members.

In his opening remarks before the commission the governor took occasion to thank members for the service which they are rendering to the state by serving on the commission, at their own expenses. He expressed his belief that it would prove to be the most valuable civic service to the state for the next fifty years, and stressed the fact that the meetings to be held are to be entirely informal and open to the general public.

Later, when the commission considered details of the tour, a resolution, offered by the governor, was

ASK HABEAS WRIT TO WIN RELEASE OF SHARP WELBORN

Jackson, Miss., September 17.—Petition for the release of Sharp Welborn, on a writ of habeas corpus, was filed today by Welborn's attorney, as a result of the refusal of prison authorities Saturday to release him upon presentation of a pardon, issued by Lieutenant Governor Casteel, ten days ago.

Chancellor V. J. Stricker ordered that the penitentiary authorities bring Welborn into Hinds county court here tomorrow forenoon for the hearing on the petition.

ITALIAN GENERAL AS FIUME RULER HAS NO MEANING

Mussolini Disavows Any Ulterior Motive in Act. Jugo-Slavs Happy Over Outcome.

Rome, September 17.—(By The Associated Press.)—Appointment of an Italian military governor in Fiume does not in any way signify annexation by this country, it was authoritatively stated, and any moves made by Italy up to the present have been for the purpose of bringing Jugo-Slavia to see the need for a satisfactory arrangement concerning the disposition of the free city.

It is held that Premier Mussolini did everything in his power to avoid the situation as it is today, when he asked the joint Italo-Jugo-Slav commission considering the Fiume question to finish its work August 31, and begged the Belgrade government to make a definite statement on the commission's report by September 15. Jugo-Slavia, however, let the date pass without coming to any agreement, and this, it is contended, threw the entire responsibility for Fiume on Italy, which for five years had been maintaining the city at her own expense.

AGED SLAV PREMIER OUTPLAYS MUSSOLINI.

Belgrade, September 17.—(By The Associated Press.)—While Jugo-Slavia was celebrating the fifth anniversary of the capture of Monastir and the piercing of the Saloniki front, news was spread today to the effect that Jugo-Slavia had scored a diplomatic victory over Italy—that, as the matter was represented here, the octogenarian Premier Pachitch,

TRIAL OF STIGALL WILL BEGIN TODAY

Counsel for Both Sides Announce Ready for Hearing—Officer Will Plead Self-Defense.

Promising to be one of the most bitterly fought criminal cases in the history of local courts, the trial of Policeman E. C. Stigall, former head of Atlanta's vice squad, charged with the murder of W. H. Hames, private detective, will get under way at 9 o'clock this morning in Fulton superior court.

Stigall is also charged with the shooting of Hames' two companions, Ernest Stanton and, W. H. Kirk.

Solicitor John A. Boykin, who will prosecute Stigall, and Attorney William Schley Howard, of counsel for the defense, made known their readiness for trial Monday afternoon. Numerous witnesses have been subpoenaed.

Stigall is expected to enter a general plea of self-defense, while the state will contend that Hames was unarmed when he and his two companions were attacked by Stigall at Houston and Courtland streets early in August.

The self-defense theory will be based on the alleged belief by Stigall that Hames was trying to "frame" him because he had been so active as head of the vice squad in fighting blind tigers.

MILITARY COURTS BEGIN KLAN PROBE

Governor's Right to Suspend Right of Habeas Corpus to Meet Court Test Wednesday.

Oklahoma City, Okla., September 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—Its two largest cities actually occupied by the military, Oklahoma passed its second day under martial law today without disturbance.

Nowhere in the state except at Tulsa and Oklahoma City was martial law actively visible.

At these places, however, military courts of inquiry were in session and proceeding with investigations ordered by Governor J. C. Walton, into alleged masked depredations and regulations were in effect clearing the streets of traffic and pedestrians between midnight and 5 a. m. Armed guards paced the entrances to the state capitol here, permitting only those to pass who had official business within.

Early tonight word was received from Coalgate that Judge J. H. Linebaugh had adjourned the regular session of district court there until next Monday, explaining that he wished to avoid any question as to the legality of the court's right to proceed. This, with the orders issued preventing the convening of a special district court grand jury here this morning, are the only instances of military interference with courts.

Police Powers Restored.

Civil authorities here tonight held undisputed police powers after Mayor Cargull reported to withdraw the entire police department from duty unless the military relinquished control over it. Colonel W. S. Key, commanding the local troops, immediately ordered the reinstatement of Police Chief Ray Frazier and machine guns which had frowned on the city hall and county court house were removed.

Although Creek county, with Oklahoma and Tulsa counties, fell under Governor Walton's decree of "absolute martial law," no troops yet have been stationed there.

The belief is current that military rule actually will be extended only to a few sections of the state and this opinion has been strengthened by the fact that only a small part of the strength of the state's national guard forces has been mobilized.

The military investigation into acts of mob violence undoubtedly will center in Oklahoma City, whence the governor charged in his proclamation of martial law, the organization of the Ku Klux Klan emanates to all parts of the state.

One-Third Vote Prevents Defeat Of Mayor's Veto

Effort to Increase Plumbing Inspectors' Salaries Lose.

Mayor Walter A. Sims Monday was saved by one-third of a vote from having his veto overridden by general council, for the first time during his administration.

Council voted, 14 to 6, to override veto of a resolution increasing salaries in the plumbing inspectors' office, but the motion was lost in the aldermanic board an hour later when Alderman Bob Gordon, mayor pro tem, failed to cast his vote, causing the motion to be defeated because of failure to receive a two-thirds majority of the aldermen present at the meeting.

The motion received 7 votes, but 11 members of the board were present. Technically the motion was lost because it lacked one-third of a vote of having the necessary majority.

Couch Leads Fight.

The resolution proposed to increase salary of the chief plumbing inspector from $187 to $200 per month, his first assistant from $150 to $175.

AGED RIVERMAN SLAIN BY BULLET; NEPHEW IS HELD

Florence, Ala., Sept. 17.—The body of Andy Pack, an aged river man who lived at Conners Landing, 18 miles below Florence, was found floating in the Tennessee river yesterday afternoon by deputies from the local sheriff's office. Pack had been shot through the heart. It is the theory of the deputies that the man was shot while seated in his boat fishing, as signs showed that a heavy object had been dragged through the mud from the boat to deeper water.

John Pack, a nephew of the dead man, is lodged in the jail here, charged with the killing, although authorities say that there is no evidence in hand to connect him directly with it.

NEW OFFENSIVES ON MOOR FRONTS IS RIVERA PLAN

Columns Totaling 150,000 Troops to Advance in Melilla Zone Within Week.

London, September 17.—A new offensive in Morocco is planned by Primo Rivera, president of the military directorate in Spain.

The Madrid correspondent of the Daily Express quotes the head of the new government as follows:

"We are sending General Aizpuru to Morocco with orders to settle the whole problem there. We will respect our treaties with Raisuli but will make no treaty with Abi-El Krim (the Riff chieftain) and will launch a new offensive in the Melilla zone in accordance with the plans of the general staff."

It is stated in Madrid, the correspondent adds, that the great offensive in Morocco will probably begin within a week with 150,000 troops

Rivera disclaimed any intention of governing without parliament saying that he would form another, truly representative of Spanish opinion, which would create a new constitution for the country.

31 POLITICIANS TO BE EXPELLED

Port Vendres, Franco-Spanish Frontier, September 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—The military directorate formed as the result of last week's revolution has decided to expel 31 of Spain's leading politicians, including former Premier Sanchez Guerra and several prominent liberals and Catalinist syndicalists, it is learned from advices coming over the border. The expulsions will occur this week.

Senor Ventosa, former Spanish minister of finance in several cabinets, who was on his way to France aboard the Barcelona-Paris express, was stopped by the Spanish police at the frontier station near here and informed that he must remain in Spain until the new regime had decided upon his status.

LEAGUE DEBATE CENTERS AROUND NOTED ARTICLE X

Famous Clause Was Subject of Hottest Speeches When Treaty Was Before Senate.

CHILEAN DIPLOMAT LAUDS MONROE POLICY

Delegates Make No Decision on Competency of Covenant in Greco-Italian Dispute.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Geneva, September 17.—The machinery of the league of nations, whirled today as never before. The delegates attacked problems of vast interest and the council of the league in a noteworthy public session frankly debated the question of Italy's refusal to recognize the competency of the league in the Greco-Italian crisis.

The famous article X of the covenant, which was the main subject of debate in the United States senate when the question of American adherence was before the American public, furnished renewed interest before the commission on amendments to the covenant when Senor Alvarez, the Chilean diplomat, presented a powerful defense of the Monroe doctrine, which he declared was worth more to the American states than article X of the covenant ever could be. And this was so, he emphasized, because the American naval and military forces stood ready to enforce this doctrine, which forbade any European state from interfering in a territorial sense in the affairs of the American continent.

No Decision on Competency.

There occurred a lively discussion on the question of the proposed pact for mutual assistance which the commission on the reduction of armaments will later submit to the assembly. It is a project aimed at the prevention of war.

No decision was taken today on the issue of the competency of the covenant, which Italy had defied. Signor Salandra asked for time in which to reply, but Lord Robert Cecil, while insisting that this question must be settled to avoid a future misunderstanding, declared he wanted the world to know that the council had fulfilled its full duty in the Italian affair. It had not rushed in madly, insisting on the league's right of intervention, but had calmly, in observance of the fundamental aim of the covenant, collaborated with the council of ambassadors and had secured an amicable settlement of the conflict.

Chile's support of the Monroe doctrine came when the sub-committee presented a resolution founded on the Canadian amendment and calculated to interpret precisely the celebrated article X, which the Venezuelan delegate said during the course of the debate constituted the real reason why the United States senate did not subscribe to the league covenant.

The resolution, which was warmly supported by M. Rolin, the Belgian jurist, and others, set forth that the council must take into account the geographical and special conditions of each state if it believed military measures should be resorted to because of aggression and that the parliamentary authorities of each coun-

THOROUGHBREDS, HORSE OR HUMAN, NEED JAZZ SPURS

New York, September 17.—Suspecting that music sways the mood of a horse from grave to gay in the same way that a wearied flapped is sent whirling about a dance floor, the National Horse Show association has decided that only jazz shall be played at this year's show which begins November 10.

"The thoroughbred horse, like the thoroughbred girl needs a stimulus to action," says an announcement on behalf of the horse show association. "Music stirs the girl and the horse. The best friend of the thoroughbred horse is the thoroughbred girl and what best suits the girl naturally appeals to the horse."

OVERFLOW PUPILS PRESENT PROBLEM FOR SCHOOL HEADS

Situation Will Be Discussed at Special Meeting of Board of Education Thursday.

Its Plan of eliminating double sessions in white schools with the new $4,000,000 bond issue buildings having broken down before the tidal wave of ambitious childhood that surged through the school house doors September 10, the board of education Thursday will set about the task of providing additional quarters for overflows of pupils in Grant Park, Marcietta Street and, possibly other elementary schools.

Arrangements have been made to house four classes at Grant Park school in a frame dwelling. Conferences between school authorities and City Building Inspector C. J. Bowen have developed a safe and satisfactory remodeling plan, President W. W. Gaines, of the board of education, said Monday.

Call Special Session

The board has been called into special session Thursday to make provision for the overflow of pupils and to authorize more kindergartens for which several schools qualified Monday. The exact figures on kindergarten registration had not been consolidated Monday.

A. Ten Eyck Brown, supervising architect of the bond schools, will report the consolidated bids of nearly two score contractors for the new Girls' High school. The report will be made to the building and finance committee of the board prior to the session of the full board.

Expectations that opening of 13 new bond issue elementary schools would relieve all necessity for double sessions in white schools or for use of frame annexes to any schools began to fade with the first day of the present school year and during the first week, while new applicants for public education piled in day after day, they disappeared completely.

The board is faced with the immediate problem of finding additional

Shooting Victim Declared Former World War Hero

Despite Mystery in Case, Police Are Confident Robbery Was Cause.

Police authorities Monday night, confident that the murder of Lawrence A. Hamilton Sunday night at Third and Peachtree streets was inspired by robbery alone, were momentarily expecting apprehension of his two negro assailants. Clues have been discovered, it was made known, which in all probability will lead to the arrest of the two men, who after fatally wounding the young man disappeared.

Mystery surrounds the life of Hamilton. At an undertaking establishment hours after Hamilton had died from his wound he was identified by Miss Helen Thomas, of 500 Peachtree street, as Lawrence Hamilton, whom she had known in Dallas, Texas, as a young salesman. A bullet wound in the left shoulder of the slain man, which Miss Thomas said he received while a soldier in France, made her positive, she declared, that he was Lawrence Hamilton.

The victim was registered at the Southern hotel under the name of L.

OFFICIALS OF CITY TO STUDY TRAFFIC SITUATION TODAY

Mayor Sims, Chief Beavers, Recorder Johnson and Safety Council Directors Plan Conference.

LICENSING OF AUTO DRIVERS SUGGESTED

Recorder Johnson Urges Establishment of Traffic Patrols to Be on Duty Day and Night.

Establishment of motorcycle patrols, to be on duty day and night on the principal thoroughfares of Atlanta, and requirement of city licenses for all automobile drivers, are suggestions that will be given careful consideration at a conference of city officials called for the mayor's office at 11:30 o'clock this morning.

The conference will be attended by Mayor Walter A. Sims, Chief of Police James L. Beavers, Recorder George Johnson and directors of the Atlanta Safety council, which is taking the lead in making Atlanta safe for autoists and pedestrians.

Suggestions Advanced.

Suggestions for traffic patrols and city licenses were advanced by Recorder Johnson in an interview with officials of the Safety council. A number of other recommendations also will be presented at the meeting, which is expected to be the first step towards formulation of a definite plan of action to be presented to council before the close of this year.

Judge Shepard Bryan, president of the Safety council, with George Deibert, the council's secretary and manager, held a long conference with Recorder Johnson, who promised his complete co-operation in enforcement of all traffic regulations.

"It is not necessary for me to say that I will fine offenders who are brought before me and proven to be guilty," said the recorder. "The records will show that more than 90 per cent of them are being fined according to the amounts set in the traffic ordinance passed by city council. Where defendants fail to appear, they are marked in contempt, and it is the duty of the police department to go after them again."

MINE CONVENTION O. K.'S WAGE PACT

Workers to Resume Jobs in Anthracite Fields on Wednesday, Ending the Strike.

Scranton, Pa., September 17.—Anthracite miners, representing union workers throughout the Pennsylvania hard coal fields, today ratified the new two-year wage agreement drafted by their officers and operators' representatives, in Harrisburg, September 8. They voted to return to work Wednesday and plans were made at once for the signing of the new contract on the same day.

James A. Gorman, secretary of the joint conference which negotiated the agreement, announced tonight the operators' and miners' representatives would go to Governor Pinchot's home at Milford, Pa., for the signing. This is scheduled for one postponement Wednesday. The fact that the contract will not be signed until afternoon, however, will not affect the resumption of operations Wednesday morning.

More than 500 delegates, representing local unions in the three United Mine Workers' districts of the anthracite region, took part in the convention. Their action in ratifying the new agreement, came with comparatively little opposition, although several voiced objections to the fact that under the ten per cent flat wage increase provided for all workers, day laborers, now receiving the lowest rates of pay, will be given a smaller increase than contract miners.

The agreement embraces the four major points of the settlement plan submitted by Governor Pinchot when he called the miners and operators to meet in Harrisburg. These are the ten per cent wage increase; the eight hour day; recognition of the union and recognition of the principles of collective bargaining. Outside of the effect of the wage increase the operation of the eight-hour day formed the principal subject of discussion.

DISASTER CLIMAX TO DAY OF FIRES THRUOUT REGION

Sudden Shift of Wind Turns Back Leaping Flames From Crackling City.

BRUSH BLAZES GET BLAME FOR STARTING

Thick Pall of Smoke Obscures Sky as Dozen Forest Fires Continue to Burn.

BY UNITED NEWS.

Berkely, Cal., September 17.—Beds of flaming embers and crimson coals marked the ruins of 50 square blocks of dwelling houses destroyed by fire, Monday night. The toll of the fire is placed at four lives and about $7,000,000.

More than 500 dwellings were destroyed.

Streets are strewn promiscuously with stray chairs, grand pianos, bed springs, vases, bird cages and other odds and ends of household furnishings. Only chimneys remain standing in the district swept by the flames.

Few of those whose homes were burned were able to save anything from the fire. Many were hard pressed to escape alive.

BY UNITED NEWS.

San Francisco, September 17.—Four persons are dead, thousands are homeless and more than $7,000,000 property damage had been caused in Berkeley early Monday night by fire which swept in on the city from a brush blaze in the hills.

Between 750 and 1,000 buildings, mostly homes and apartment houses, have been destroyed in the worst disaster to the bay region since the San Francisco disaster of 1906.

Three men, believed to be University of California students, are reported to have been caught in the collapse of roofs of their fraternity houses, a number of which were destroyed. An unidentified woman is reported to have been burned to death in her home.

At 7 o'clock Monday night the fire was reported to be under control. A gale, which had blown all day, had died down, and water pressure had increased. For awhile, during the worst of the blaze, streams of water could not be shot to the roof of a building.

The Berkeley Red Cross has taken charge of the situation, and has opened two dormitories for fire refugees.

Gales Pile Up Menace.

The Berkley fire climaxed a series of fires during the day unprecedented in this part of the state. Hundreds of blazes since early morning had menaced propery and life. The gale fanned every blaze into a potential holocaust.

From the forenoon on until darkness, pandemonium reigned in the east bay cities. In 45 minutes the Oakland fire department answered 50 alarms. Meanwhile the gale, sometimes assuming cyclonic proportions,

FLOGGING TRIALS POSTPONED WEEK IN MACON COURT

Macon, Ga., September 17.—Trials of nine men, charged with various offenses as a result of the series of floggings in Macon during the past 20 months, today were postponed in city court here until next Monday. City Solicitor Roy W. Moore in asking the court to set the cases over, stated that new evidence had been obtained which necessitated further investigation and that he would prefer another week in which to prepare for further trial.

Dr. C. A. Yarbrough, Macon dentist, who the state has charged was the "whipping boss," still is to face six charges, according to the solicitor, who said that none of the cases would be nol-prossed. J. F. Alexander, J. E. Bloodworth, J. D. Patrick, W. F. Delamar and S. R., C. F. and J. C. Hudson still are to be tried on various charges growing out of the whipping incidents.

his hearty co-operation to the council in its efforts. He is a member of the board of control of the organization.

Two Steps Needed.

"Two additions to the present system of handling automobile traffic in Atlanta must be made if we are to cope adequately with reckless and speeding drivers," said Judge Johnson.

"Atlanta should have a squad of motorcycle policemen to patrol the streets where speeding is most prevalent, not in a spasmodic manner, but every day, and all day. Take Luckie street, for instance. Two motorcycle men should go on duty there at 8 o'clock in the morning and patrol the street until 4 o'clock, to be succeeded by relief officers who would patrol it until midnight. They should make cases against every violator.

Officers also should patrol Peachtree, Ponce de Leon and North Boulevard and other streets, and it would not take long to break up the speeding habit.

License System.

"The other remedy needed is a license system. The police committee of council ought to be authorized to select three commissioners or inspectors to test applicants for drivers' license and see that all autoists are efficient.

"This not only would guard against incompetent drivers, children under the legal age, and others, but it would give the recorder a new weapon against traffic violators, as he could be authorized to suspend licenses from 30 to 90 days, according to gravity of the offense. Only chauffeurs and truck drivers employed by others are licensed now.

"By charging a reasonable fee for licenses, the revenues would easily pay for the expense of the license system as well as for motorcycle officers engaged in watching speed violations."

try must decide to what extent, if any, it should help to preserve another country's independence.

Many References to Wilson.

There were many references to former President Wilson and the United States during the discussion, which evenfually was adjourned. The French delegate asked that all make haste slowly as he deemed article X the heart of the covenant which should be changed, if at all, with the greatest care.

Today's consideration of the pact on mutual assistance was devoted to article VI, which authorized regional alliances between states as a feature of the general guarantee pact. Italy opposed such local alliances and Japan was hostile to them, unless they were strictly defensive in character. M. Matsuda said they tended to create international distrust, rendering impossible military reductions, and struck a severe blow at the authority of the league, because they diminished confidence in the league's pacific mission. No action was taken on the question. It was remarked that both M. Lebrun, former French minister, and M. Jouhaux who represents the working men on the commission for armament limitation, supported the plan of subsidiary accords and agreements between the states as the best means of relieving tension and paving the way for the cutting down of armament burdens.

SHOOTING VICTIM WORLD WAR HERO

C. Jones, and it was in his personal effects there that Miss Thomas' name was discovered on a postal card addressed to Hamilton. The hotel clerk stated that Hamilton had roomed there for several weeks.

The fact that $60 in money and a valuable gold watch still remained in the victim's pockets caused theories to be advanced that the motive was not robbery. Captain Holcombe stated that evidently the negroes had become frightened and fearing detection by occupants of several automobiles parked near the scene, in addition to several parties in a soda fount at the corner of Peachtree and Third streets, had fled, not waiting to complete the robbery.

According to Pete Matrangas, proprietor of the Terrace Soda company, 601 Peachtree street, Hamilton entered his place about 9:30 o'clock Sunday night and while making a purchase remarked that two negroes were hanging around the corner and advised him to be on his guard. Hamilton then walked out, Matrangas stated and about five minutes later he heard five shots. After the crowd had gathered, he stated, he recognized the dying man as the one who had warned him.

Screams of "Robbery."

Residents of the section, together with passing pedestrians declared that the report of the revolver was preceded by screams of "robbery" and "help." One of the negroes is said to have run down Third street. The other ran dirgctly up Third street to Peachtree street, and down Peachtree street to East Fourth street, where he disappeared around the corner. The negro is said to have passed close by a parked automobile at the corner of Peachtree and Third streets.

Hamilton was found lying on the sidewalk shot through the brain. The bullet entered the right side of the head just above the ear. Dr. Joe Gaston, of Grady hospital, who was near the scene at the time, placed Hamilton in the automobile of Jimmy McClain, of 19 Ponce De Leon place and rushed him to the hospital.

J. F. Heney, of the Atlanta Baseball association, identified him as a ticket seller of the local club. He stated that Hamilton was the man who rescued Bill Stickney from the burning grandstand when the ball park buildings were consumed by fire some time ago.

Detectives L. W. [illegible] and L. C. Whatley were assigned to the investigation.

Son of Birmingham Man.

Birmingham, September 17.—Lawrence A. Hamilton, slain in Atlanta last night, was the son of F. H. Hamilton, Birmingham furniture dealer.

He had lived in Atlanta a year, his relatives here said. Prior to that time he had lived in several places north and east. The family could ascribe no motive for the killing other than robbery from the reports received from the police department of Atlanta.

and his second assistant from $140 to $160. Councilman Couch led the fight on floor of council to override the veto, on the ground that inspectors could get $208 a month working as plumbers.

Mayor Sims had vetoed the measure on the ground that the city did not have money to make any general increases in pay, and that increases were strictly against the program of economy inaugurated at the beginning of the year.

Another unusual action of council Monday was to refer a demand for impeachment of the streets committee of council back to the streets committee itself with power to act, to impeach itself or to vindicate itself, as it chose. Demand for impeachment was made by Charles Hilt, a resident of the Tenth ward, on allegation that the chief of construction, with authority of the committee, had used public street improvement funds to improve private property of former Councilman Carl Dolvin. Chief of Construction Hansell transmitted a message to council explaining that improvement had consisted of taking dirt from the Dolvin property to fill Lillian avenue, using money which had been voted to fill in Lillian avenue.

Use of Room Denied.

Council refused petition of the school department for use of the room on the fourth floor of the city hall in which the city custodian now has his office and in which committee meetings of council are held.

Council referred to its school committee, as a matter of form, a motion to appropriate $112,000 of school bond money now in the treasury to building of the new Boys' High and Girls' High schools.

Petition from a number of negroes, including several negro ministers, for use of a 10-acre tract of city property for an industrial home for negroes also was referred to this committee.

The Salvation Army emergency home complaint was referred to the sixth ward delegation with power to act. Residents in the neighbrohood of 128 East Pine street had objected to location of the home there. Members of the delegation said the home would not be permitted.

New Park Site Plan.

Proposal by Councilman Cassells of the twelfth ward that the city buy a new park site for $15,000 was referred to the city planning commission.

"We have more children to the square yard in Kirkwood than in any other part of Atlanta," Councilman Cassells declared, "and we have got to have parks for them to play in."

The proposed park is in front of the new Kirkwood fire station.

The Ladies' Memorial association bill for $245 taxes was remitted. Taxes were on property from which income is derived to be used in decorating Confederate soldiers' graves.

Capitol View Presbyterian church was given permission to sell tags on the streets October 6 to boost church funds.

County commissioners were asked to clear off underbrush and level for an airplane landing field city property near the Peachtree creek disposal plant. The request was in form of a resolution introduced by Alderman J. L. Carpenter.

The Baptist tabernacle was given permission to build a frame annex on Nassua street adjacent to its present building, which is in the zone where new frame buildings are forbidden by ordinance of council.

Garbage Changes Referred.

Garbage collection ordinances by Alderman Duvall were referred to a joint meeting of ordinance and sanitary committees of council, as had been promised by Alderman W. B. Hartsfield and others following protests against the plan voiced by Atlanta club women.

The Jacob Elsas gift of $50,000 for an outdoor clinic at Grady hospital was appropriated for the purpose. Only about $45,000 will have to be spent for building the clinic. The rest is to be used for equipment, it was stated. Appropriation was made on recommendation of the hospital committee, voted week before last.

Councilman Edgar Watkins' prolonged illness was the subject of resolutions of sympathy and regret, introduced by Alderman I. N. Ragsdale and passed by unanimous rising vote of general council. Resolutions declared that council "regrets the temporary loss of Mr. Watkins' wise advice and counsel" and extends its most cordial wishes for early recovery.

Franklin Sedan—
Now 53% of Factory Output—
Introduces Fall Models

30 Improvements

These latest Franklin cars are the culmination of the many advancements which in one year have sent Franklin popularity to its present remarkable heights.

Thirty new improvements add to quietness of motor and body, efficiency of lubrication, long life, permanency of adjustment, restful driving, simple control, complete protection and good appearance.

These notably increase the motoring satisfaction derived from the powerful six motor, double flywheel, air-pressure cooling system, fuel transformer, rotary air-cleaner, light reciprocating parts, and case-hardened crankshaft—all brought out with the first Series 10 one year ago.

Franklin production for 1923 to date is far ahead of any previous year. And 53% of output is now devoted to the Sedan model alone.

There are reasons for this record percentage.

The Franklin Sedan weighs only 2743 pounds—from 500 to 2000 pounds less than those which claim to compete with it in performance.

Light weight doesn't hammer on rough roads, nor mire in sand, mud or snow.

It doesn't pound the life out of tires.

It adds to riding comfort, and it lessens the load on the engine.

And it makes this Sedan the quickest to start and stop, the easiest to steer. No strength is needed to turn a curve, and the car straightens out again automatically.

This is the perfect car for any member of the family to drive.

The Franklin Sedan is resilient—no rigid rods or braces to transmit shocks. Four-point body suspension and full-elliptic springs leave the tough, three-ply, shock-absorbing wood frame free to flex.

This means protection for the car, comfort for the passengers, and sure road-holding qualities, under all conditions of service. It means that the Franklin Sedan can be used when and where others cannot.

With greater safety! For in no other car is the Franklin's transmission braking system duplicated.

The service brake acts on the drive-shaft, where the force is multiplied 39 times, and is delivered equally to the two rear wheels by the differential.

Consequently, Franklin brakes are the safest to apply with maximum force at top speed.

Their power exceeds the brake efficiency standard by from 70% to 150%, according to speed.

The sum and substance of Franklin Sedan performance is road ability.

Watch the Franklin Sedan pull away from the procession on any road. That tells the story.

Its brilliant new six motor puts it in the front ranks for ability on hills and level stretches.

Its wonderful new air-pressure cooling system will perform perfectly under conditions that would stop any other motor made.

It will run all day with wide-open throttle without loss of power.

It will take the longest grades without a sign of overheating, whether in high or low gear.

Air-cooling and flexible construction let you use the Franklin Sedan in any season, on any road.

Light weight lets you use it without fatigue for hours on end.

That means a higher average rate of speed—

And explains why the Franklin Sedan will outdistance any other sedan over a day's run.

With unequaled gasoline and tire economy!

The Franklin Sedan is the ideal year-round car—the only one that protects itself as well as its passengers.

It has no radiator—uses no water—demands no attention.

It runs lightly where heavier cars dig in. It has less tendency to skid on slippery streets.

Desert roads, and temperatures as high as 125 degrees, are no obstacle to the light weight, air-cooled Franklin Sedan.

It knows no handicaps of road or weather. Its four-door aluminum body with the latest constructional features guards against the shocks and strains of the hardest service.

Every detail is built to last. Upholstery is of heavy Australian wool broadcloth—soft, smooth, long-wearing. Mountings are of lustrous, non-tarnish Duralumin. Floor rug is of Wilton velvet.

From every point of view—comfort and convenience as well as quality—today's Franklin Sedan has the best body that can be built.

Everything that is new, added to everything that the Franklin has previously stood for, explains why Franklin Sedans are selling over twice as fast as the rate of the entire industry.

Thousands of Franklin Sedan owners can confirm our story from actual use.

A ride of 50 to 500 miles is our method of giving you their experience.

More Facts For Business Men and Bankers to Think About

1. Every banker will tell you and prove that he has no badly extended loans—
   His bank was never in finer condition, nor the finances of the whole country sounder—
2. Crops are abundant. Prices are fair—higher than a year ago—except for wheat, and wheat represents only 6% of the value of farm products—
3. Manufacturing has added enormously in the past year to the fixed assets of the country. The soundness of its management is displayed in moderate inventories and a rapid flow of both raw materials and manufactured products—
4. The railroads of the country are hauling a volume of freight never before equalled—
5. Yet retail stocks are low. Here is a fact of greater significance than is generally recognized. And retail buying is active generally—
6. Unemployment is practically nil. In many sections there is an actual labor shortage. Labor is reasonably content, and is showing an increased per capita output—
7. The American Business Man has shown consistent caution and vigilance. Since 1920 he has proceeded sanely and soundly, thereby avoiding any serious over-expansion.

Those things are substantial. They are facts. They give more than a reasonable background for optimism toward a continuation of the Prosperity that is with us.

We frankly recognize that the disturbances and blighting influences of the World War may require a decade to overcome entirely.

We as frankly deprecate indulgence in the engaging conversational side of "normal business cycles", standards of living, European situations and other frightening phrases.

For the fundamental factors of Prosperity in this country are so sound that we believe there need be no fear of a repetition of the conditions of 1920.

Again we say: The country, from every standpoint so far as we can see, is fundamentally sound

FOUR ARE BURIED IN CEMENT SLIDE

Schenectady, N. Y., September 17. Four men are believed to be buried in the Mohawk river near this city under tons of wet concrete which forced them under water when wooden scaffolding on the Great Western Gateway bridge gave way late this afternoon. One of the men is Kenneth Davidson, superintendent of construction for the entire bridge. Six other men have been taken to the hospital, seriously injured.

Amateurs May Transmit During "Silent Hours" In Times of Emergency

Chicago, September 17.—Use of amateur radio transmitters during quiet evening hours prescribed by recent government regulations will be permitted in times of emergency, W. D. Terrell, chief supervisor of radio of the department of commerce, told the National American Radio Relay league convention, which closes its convention here today, and said that on such occasions, when wire communication is cut off, amateur sending would be approved by the department.

When it was suggested that amateur operators adopt an emergency call similar in effect to the SOS used by ships at sea, Chief Supervisor Terrell stated that the department of commerce would be willing to assign such a call and publish it along with the restrictions which would confine it to emergency use only.

A definite plan by which amateurs will assist in time of stress will be drawn up in the near future at a special conference, it was said.

FAIR SITE IS BOUGHT BY CITY OF ALBANY

Albany, September 17.—Real estate and all other property belonging to the Albany-South Georgia Fair association has been purchased by the city of Albany. The property is expected to be used by the city in extending its park facilities and athletic grounds. Negotiations for the property have been in progress for several months, but a number of legal obstacles had to be removed before the city could acquire possession.

BROOKS COUNTY FAIR OPENS NOVEMBER 6

Quitman, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—Date for the Brooks county fair, which is to be the largest ever attempted in the county, is officially announced as November 6, continuing through the week. Secretary Barnes of the chamber of commerce is highly gratified over the prospects for carrying out the fair program this fall, he stated today.

MANY SHIPS CALL AT SAVANNAH PORT

Savannah, September 17.—The steadily increasing importance of Savannah's harbor as a port of call for both American and foreign vessels is attested by the comparative figures for 1918 and 1922 inclusive, which have recently been compiled by the board of trade. In 1918 the ships visiting Savannah numbered 549, representing a register of 1,201,367 tons, while in 1923 the figure was increased to 949 ships with at tonnage of 2,539,607. In 1922 only 165 of the 949 were foreign ships.

POLICE ARE PROBING RECORD OF PHILLIPS

Mrs. L. L. Phillips, 275 East Fair street, alleged bigamous wife of L. L. Phillips, who has been held by officers for four days, pending a thorough investigation of the murder of

William Grant, Ellenwood station agent, was arrested Monday by investigating officers and grilled for information which might throw light on the mystery surrounding the death of the Southern railway station agent.

Officials declined to state whether any new light had been shed on the mystery by the examination of the young woman.

Charges on which Mrs. Phillips were arrested included passage of an alleged worthless check of $20, claimed to have been given a taxicab driver of Macon on the night of August 20, after she and Phillips were driven from that city to Atlanta.

Charges against the woman will be held in abeyance, however, pending a sweeping investigation of the shooting of Grant on the night of September 6, at Ellenwood, near Atlanta, as he sat at his instrument in the depot.

Mrs. Phillips is alleged to have married Phillips in Macon about the middle of August. It is also claimed that she accompanied Phillips to his former home at Flippen street, once, and there met Phillips' first wife.

Phillips was taken into custody Thursday on a charge of beating his board bill, and during the investigation which followed officers learned, it is claimed, that Phillips left his room at 44 Formwalt street about 6 o'clock on the evening of September 6, the night of the murder of Grant, and that he did not return until early the following morning. It is alleged that Mrs. Phillips No. 2 accompanied him.

KILLING OF PRISONER DECLARED ACCIDENT

Chattanooga, Tenn., September 17. (Special.)—Officers today were investigating the killing last night of Roscoe Martin, 30, at Rossville, Ga., by Deputy Marshal W. T. Brandon. Martin had been placed under arrest by the marshal, but broke away and fled. The officer started in pursuit, fell, and his gun was accidentally discharged, killing Martin, according to Brandon.

Convict Is Caught.

Columbus, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—Albert Bonner, an escaped negro convict, was arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriff C. C. Layfield. Bonner escaped recently from the convict camp in Clarke county, where he was sent from the November term of the Muscogee court to serve a term of from two to six years.

Bonner was charged with the theft of an automobile.

ELEVENTH WARD CLUB WILL MEET TONIGHT

Consideration of revision of the zoning ordinance to include sections of the Eleventh ward, not protected at present, will be the chief business under consideration at a meeting of the Eleventh Ward Improvement club at 306 South Whitefoord avenue at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Council will be asked to pass necessary amendments, which will give the zoning commission power to mark off white and negro sections, business, apartment, and dwelling districts.

RUHR CASUALTIES TOTAL 852 PERSONS

Paris, September 17.—Eight hundred and fifty-two persons have been killed or wounded since the French and Belgians took over the Ruhr last January. The statistics follow: Germans killed by allied troops, 65; Germans wounded by allied troops, 90; allies killed by Germans, 20; allies wounded by Germans, 62; Germans killed by Germans, 95; Germans wounded by Germans, 520.

ITALIAN GENERAL POWERLESS IN FIUME

builder of Jugo-Slavia, had beaten the young and aggressive Mussolini on points in the duel over Fiume.

Italy will have Fiume, public opinion agrees, but she will pay for it by concessions on the Italian littoral which the Jugo-Slavs consider adequate equivalent, and it is confidently predicted by the Jugo-Slavs that the port to be developed in the vicinity of Fiume will "make the grass grow on Fiume's quay" within two years.

Can Mobilize in Day.

Details concerning the resumption of negotiations between Jugo-Slavia and Italy are being kept secret by the foreign office and the names of the negotiators are withheld, but it is generally believed the conversations are being carried on by Pachitch and Mussolini personally.

As to Jugo-Slavia's strength, it is declared here that she can mobilize two million men within 24 hours. At present there is a deficiency in artillery ammunition but this can shortly be met.

The supporters of M. Pachitch maintain that he played his trump card in using his influence with France. He is credited with inducing Premier Poincare to bring about quick action in the French parliament on the 300,000,000 franc loan to Jugo-Slavia.

The trip here of Marshal Franchet De Esperey, of France, who accompanied Premier Pachitch from Geneva, is regarded as another fine stroke on the part of the premier, as the marshal's stay in Serbia has aroused a great wave of popular enthusiasm.

The Jugo-Slavs were much heartened by the failure of Mussolini to assume "liberty of action" on September 15, as he had declared he would, and it is now believed the affairs will be settled through negotiations. Great importance is attached to the filing of the Rapallo treaty with the league of nations, thus making it an internationally recognized instrument.

GEORGIANS PLEDGE AID IN TAX REFORM

adopted extending special invitation to all county tax collectors and tax receivers to attend the meeting most convenient for them and give the commission benefit of their practical experience in tax matters, as well as their studies and thought along these lines.

The governor pointed out that in order for the commission to succeed in its objects, it must have the sentiment of both the legislature and of the general public behind it. Therefore, he said, a large part of the work must be educational in nature.

Meetings in Atlanta.

He also suggested, for the first time, that the commission hold a number of meetings in Atlanta in October after the conclusion of its tour of the state, at which time final suggestions from any interested persons would be welcomed and plans made for drawing up its findings for the legislature.

The only members of the commission who were unable to be present at the Monday meeting were Sam Tate, of Tate, and J. D. Haddock, of Damascus.

The commission will leave for Rome early Tuesday morning, where a meeting will be held during the day, and will then go to Augusta at night, ready for the meeting to be held in that city on Wednesday. Thursday Athens will be visited.

It had originally been planned to hold meetings next week at Macon, Columbus and Savannah, but several members suggested Monday night that it would also be advisable to go to Waycross and Albany, where large sections of the state out of touch with the cities originally suggested could be reached. While final decision on this point was postponed until Tuesday, it is probable that these two points will be included in the itinerary for next week.

The commission is to be entertained at Augusta by the joint civic clubs of that city. While the chief portion of the time will be devoted to the business meetings on the tax problem, it is understood that a luncheon and banquet have been arranged, at which time opportunity will be given for discussion with business men and farmers of Richmond and surrounding counties.

Plans in Athens.

In Athens, the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs are in joint charge of arrangements, while Dr. Soule, principal of the State College of Agriculture, is arranging for an inspection of the work being done at that institution.

At the afternoon meeting here Monday a number of organizations whose membership in some cases covers the city and in others the entire state were represented, and all expressed a heartfelt determination to cooperate to the fullest possible extent in devising means of stable, equitable and proper taxation that would raise sufficient revenue to met the entire needs of the state.

Dudley Cowles, chairman of the tax committee of the Atlanta Kiwanis club, spoke on behalf of his organization, stressing the fact that whatever service could be rendered by the Kiwanians, not only of Atlanta, but, of the entire state, would, he felt assured, be gladly rendered.

Walter McElreath, who is a member of the advisory council named by the governor to cooperate with the commission, stated that he had been asked by the Atlanta City club to speak on its behalf, offering every service in its power.

Favor Limited Income Tax.

Eugene R. Black, who is also a member of the advisory council, told of the attitude of bankers of the state. He said that during the recent session of the legislature, legislative committees of the two bankers associations, the Georgia Bankers' Association and the Country Bankers' Association of Georgia, had met in joint session to discuss the tax situation. At that meeting the bankers, he said, had approved a limited income tax for Georgia and, he added, at the convention of the Georgia Bankers' association that followed, this action was unanimously indorsed.

Representative Bussey, of Crisp county, author of a tax bill introduced at the last session, stated that he would be glad to get an opportunity to discuss his bill and the general subject of taxation with the commission at a later date. Governor Walker had already stated that he desired such an opportunity for Mr. Bussey and it was later suggested, and approved by the commission, that every member of the legislature who had introduced a tax bill at the last session be given full opportunity to express his views and explain the reasons why he thought his bill the best.

Confident of Action.

Representative Fermor Barrett, of Stephens county, said that he was convinced that the legislature, when it met in special session on November 7, would adopt some form of tax reform. He belittled the propaganda which he said was being whispered about the state to the effect that nothing would be accomplished at the extra session, and expressed his belief that suggestions to be made by this commission very probably would be the basis upon which the legislators would work out their final solution of the problem.

W. R. Jones, of Meriwether county, who is chairman of the house committee on constitutional amendments, told of the work that had been done by that committee during the last session. He stated that he believed if there had been opportunity for two days' debate on the income tax proposal, the legislature would have passed a limited income tax law. He suggested that members of the commission would do well to study the voluminous reports on taxation which are to be found in the state library and said that this had proven a source of vast information to students of taxation in the legislature.

Facing Progress.

W. D. Anderson, of Macon, president of the Bibb Manufacturing company, said that he was convinced that Georgia was facing an unparalleled period of agricultural and industrial prosperity and stressed the importance of the task this commission has undertaken. He said that manufacturers in the east and north are already talking about "southern competition" and said that the eyes of the industrial world were all turning southward.

Harold Hirsch, of Atlanta, spoke briefly, saying that he had prepared a brief, setting forth his views on taxation, which he would submit to the commission.

C. W. McClure, of Atlanta, also pledged his aid in the passage of constructive tax legislation.

Ready to Pay Share

J. M. B. Hoxsey, of Atlanta, referred to the fact that he represented the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company, one of the largest public utilities concerns in the south, although he is acting as a member of the advisory council solely in a personal capacity. He said, however, that his company believed that more taxes are absolutely necessary in Georgia, and that it is perfectly willing to shoulder whatever extra burden might be placed upon it to meet this need. He said that he favored a limited income tax as a means of raising more revenue.

Haynes MacFadden, of Atlanta, publisher of the Southern Banker and secretary of the Georgia Bankers' association was also called on to speak, but he pointed out the fact that James S. Peters, of Manchester, president of the association, was a member of the commission and deferred to him.

At a short session held by the commission alone, after the general meeting concluded, details of trains, entertainment and stenographic reports of the proceedings of the commission were worked out. It developed that there will be, all told, a party of about fifteen to make the trip to Rome Tuesday, a number of the members of the advisory council having signified their intentions of attending the Rome meeting.

Rome, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—Arrangements have been completed for the entertainment of Governor Walker and members of his tax commission who come to Rome tomorrow to hold the first of a number of sittings in different parts of the state.

The party will arrive in the city at 8:42 and will go immediately to the city hall where the hearing will be had. At 12:30 the visitors will be the guests of the Kiwanis club at luncheon with the Rotary club in attendance. The party will leave Rome at 3:30, returning to Atlanta by the N. C. & St. L., in time to leave tomorrow night for Augusta for the hearing in that city on Wednesday morning.

Barry Wright will head a committee of Romans representing the local chamber of commerce that will appear before the commission. Invitations have been sent to the Floyd county farm bureau, to the Rome League of Women Voters, and to several other local organizations to appear.

Martin Amorous, of Marietta, well known financier, is expected to accompany the commission to Rome.

which has been in session continuously since August 14, when martial law was first declared in Tulsa, has adduced thousands of pages of testimony from alleged victims of floggers and four men already have been sentenced to the penitentiary on the strength of this evidence.

Klan Headquarters Open.

Adjourning late today after interrogating only a few witnesses, the military court here is expected to begin tomorrow an extensive investigation into masked activities either directed or executed at Oklahoma City. In this connection, observers pointed out that only two instances of mob violence have been brought to light here during the last two years, the lynching of a negro during the strike of packing house workers and the beating of a physician about six months ago.

State headquarters of the Ku Klux Klan remained open today, but no statement was made by officials as to the organization's attitude toward the governor's declaration of martial law.

Adjutant General Markham, commanding military forces at Tulsa, hurried here today by airplane for a conference with state officials and afterward issued a statement declaring that military rule in the state will be enforced in the "same orderly manner as at Tulsa." He declined to comment on the purpose of his visit.

The adjutant general returned to Tulsa tonight to continue to direct military activities there.

A company of troops from Enid was to arrive here tonight to reenforce the local contingent, comprising one infantry and one machine gun company.

Of the approximately 300 militia men under arms here, less than 100 actually are on duty. These are at the state capitol, city hall and court house.

Close Legislative Halls.

Troops at the capitol, besides guarding the entrances, are posted at the doors of the house and senate chambers. This is believed to have resulted from rumors that certain legislators are endeavoring to convene the assembly without the constitutionally prescribed call from the governor. Governor Walton has threatened to imprison all legislators who attempt to meet here.

An initiative petition for a bill to empower the legislature to convene without a call from the governor, recently has been submitted the bureau of governmental research here.

Political enemies of Governor Walton have charged that the governor used state highway department employes in checking names on the petition. It was primarily to investigate these charges that the grand jury, which was prevented by the military from meeting today was ordered.

An attempt to test the governor's suspension of the right of recourse to writ of habeas corpus will be made Wednesday in district court at Tulsa before Judge Albert C. Hunt. The court today ordered Adjutant General Markham to appear and hear arguments of counsel for the three men, now held by the military as witnesses, for their release. These men: Ben and Grover Sikes and Earl Sack, confessed to participating in the flogging of a man at Broken Arrow and have been sentenced to 3 years each in the state penitentiary.

WALTON REVEALS MOTIVE FOR PROCLAMATION

Henrietta, Okla., September 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Ku Klux Klan constitutes an "anarchistic force in Oklahoma" and must be driven from the state, Governor J. C. Walton told an audience of perhaps 1,000 persons, many of them delegates to the state labor convention here today.

"The fight on the klan is no longer a religious affair. The organization is attempting to control the government of the entire state," the governor declared.

The Tulsa World is backing him in his fight against the invisible empire, though "nearly all the other editors, reporters and newspaper men in Oklahoma are members of the klan," the governor asserted.

Explaining his Saturday night declaration of "absolute martial law" for Oklahoma City, he said that such action was necessary to "stop the klan grand jury that had been called" to convene today.

POLICE POWERS RETURNED TO CITY.

Oklahoma City, Okla., September 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Oklahoma City police department, taken over by the military late yesterday, was returned to civil authorities today when Mayor O. A. Cargill served notice on Colonel W. S. Key, military commander in charge of the city, that unless Ray Frazier, chief of police, was reinstated at once, the entire police force would be retired by the city and the task of policing the city would be left in the hands of the military.

Military courts of inquiry into the activities of the Ku Klux Klan were in operation today in the two largest cities in Oklahoma, Oklahoma City and Tulsa.

The Oklahoma City court convened today and summoned as the first witness Campbell Russell, former chairman of the state corporation commission.

Military Court.

The military court here is composed of Colonel William A. Graves, 189th field artillery, president; Lieutenant Colonel Paul A. Walker, judge advocate general; Major Lewis A. Ledbetter, 180th infantry; Major Lowery H. Harrell, 160th field artillery; Captain John Amick, 160th field artillery, and Lieutenant Stanley Williams, 189th field artillery.

It has established headquarters in a downtown hotel. It was indicated that Russell was called preliminary to the actual opening of an investigation into alleged floggings executed or directed in Oklahoma county. Machinery of the court is not yet completed, but the full force of the investigation is expected to be in effect tomorrow.

Meanwhile courts throughout the state, including Oklahoma City and Tulsa, are in session. No interruption of regular civil procedure in the state occurred. With the exception that in Oklahoma City a special grand jury summoned to meet today was forbidden by military authorities.

No Formal Order.

Judge George W. Clark, therefore, called the grand jury, but dismissed it at once, holding the veniremen for petit jury duty.

An infantry company and a machine gun company received equipment at the Oklahoma City armory yesterday and were reported stationed throughout the residence sections of the city during the night to clear streets of traffic between midnight and 5 a. m., in accordance with general order No. 1, issued last night. They were ordered to wear arms as inconspicuously as possible. Both companies are Oklahoma City units.

Street car schedules were being revised today that all cars might be in the barns by midnight tonight. Physicians and night employees whose work keeps them on the street during the restricted hours will be issued passes by the commanding officers, it was announced from military headquarters.

Creek County Situation.

Creek county, which, with Oklahoma county (Oklahoma City) was placed under "absolute martial law" Saturday night by Governor J. C. Walton, was still without any vestige of military activity. No troops had been mobilized and all civil authority was undisturbed.

Observers here inclined today more strongly to the belief that but a very small part of the state will actually feel the pressure of the military.

The fact that less than 500 troops are mobilized out of the approximately 5,500 total strength of the Oklahoma national guard lends strength to the belief that the governor intends to press his investigation of floggings only in isolated areas and that the state-wide proclamation of martial law was intended to make ready a method of establishing on a moment's notice a military inquiry wherever the need might seem to appear.

City to Bear Brunt.

That Oklahoma City will bear the brunt of the investigation from now on appeared certain. In his proclamation extending the scope of the military rule throughout the state, the governor declared that the "head and front" of the state Ku Klux Klan organization was in Oklahoma City and that it was this group of klan leaders that he had singled out for his final assault.

County Attorney Tom Wallace, of Creek county, said today he was proceeding with trials in district court there and that he had not been advised of any investigations to be made either by the military or the state attorney general's office.

No official notice of the martial law proclamation has been received by any county official or any city official of Sapulpa, the county seat.

Court In Session.

The regular term of the superior court in Bristow, also Creek county, was in session today.

Bristow had been singled out by the governor as a stronghold of the Ku Klux Klan and last week, following his announcement that no masked parades would be permitted in the state, klansmen numbering several hundred met there and staged a great demonstration. They were unmasked.

At Muskogee, conditions were entirely quiet and Governor Walton, in a message to the Muskogee Times-Democrat, asserted, according to the paper, that unless "an emergency occurred there was no probability that the city or county would be placed under control of the military.

The paper quoted the governor as denying that he had sent Dr. A. E. Davenport to Muskogee last week to deliver an "ultimatum" to the city demanding the resignation of an alleged klan officer there.

Wrong Impression.

"Muskogee has been given the wrong impression of what I am desirous of doing to clean up the situation there," the governor was quoted as saying. "There was no thought of delivering an ultimatum to Muskogee. I had hoped through the use of friendly offices to bring about a healthy change in conditions at Muskogee without the use of martial law. This, I believe can still be accomplished."

Ottawa county, which early in the summer was in the spotlight at the time of the governor's anti-flogging investigations was likewise undisturbed by the martial law edict. There are no national guard units in the county.

The only troop movement in the state was noted at Enid where an artillery company was mobilized with orders to proceed at once to Oklahoma City. Part of the company left shortly before noon and the remainder will follow late today. Light field equipment was taken.

The military court at Tulsa worked today with only one guard officer present, Captain Looney, acting judge advocate of the state.

It was said unofficially at military headquarters that only about 100 troops were still in the city. Neither of the two Tulsa guard units has been called into service.

How to Stop Sour Stomach

Chronic With Many People—Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Bring Quick Comfort—Sweeten and Stop Acid, Sour Risings and Such Dyspeptic Distress.

When the fact is considered that even careful people, those who follow diet rules, get attacks of indigestion, no argument is needed to recommend the best means of relief. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are used by lawyers, doctors, teachers, by business men, high livers, society women, industrial workers, clerks, and the worst abused stomachs in the world, those of a host of travelers.

For thirty years people have learned that they may eat what they like or what is set before them, and no matter what the condition of the stomach, if due to dyspepsia, these wonderful tablets stop gassiness and sour risings, they give the stomach the alkaline effect which overcomes acidity and thus they either avoid distress after eating or else they quickly relieve it. Be fortified. Get a 60-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store and arm yourself against indigestion.—(adv.)

LEHIGH CEMENT

Announces a Southern Source of Production and Supply Birmingham, Ala.

The completion and opening of our new Birmingham plant marks one of the most important steps we have ever taken to meet the increasing national demand for Lehigh Cement. It enables us to serve more effectively the advancing requirements of this great section of the United States, and at the same time permits the application of southern natural resources to southern needs.

This large investment in the South is evidence of our desire for permanent association; of our sincerity of purpose; and of the obligation we feel for the strictest adherence to those business principles which have brought about national endorsement and national distribution of Lehigh Cement.

The blue-and-white Lehigh Cement sign identifies the Lehigh dealers—it insures quality of product, dependable service and a square-deal policy in every respect.

DELAY QUESTION OF LEAGUE POWER

Geneva, September 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—Discussion in the council of the league of nations of the question of the league's competency in the dispute between Italy and Greece was postponed until tomorrow after speeches today by Signor Salandra and M. Politis, the representatives, respectively, of Italy and Greece.

When the meeting opened Hjaimar Branting, of Sweden, declared the Italian occupation of Corfu was contrary to the provisions of the league covenant and might be establishing a precedent, affecting the prestige of the league.

Lord Robert Cecil said the council had done everything it should have done in the Greco-Italian controversy, and had seized upon every means to obtain a settlement which, he added, was the great object set forth in the covenant. The council very properly had not rushed the matter, but had collaborated with the conference of ambassadors.

Debate on Issues.

The debate on the issue on the league's competency began with the introduction of a resolution which was later adopted, providing that the council would formally acknowledge the last communication from the conference of ambassadors concerning the terms of settlement of the Greco-Italian conflict and add the words:

"As this dispute, which was admitted to the council by the Greek government, gave rise to diplomatic negotiations conducted by the conference of ambassadors, the council considered its duty was to establish relations with the conference in order to assist in the work of pacification."

The council also said it took note of the ambassador's action and welcomed the fact that this action ended a situation which had aroused intense anxiety.

Despite the fact that the meeting was not announced as public, a big crowd was present when M. Branting arose. The Swedish spokesman said all friends of peace would welcome a settlement and he was well aware that the activities of the league council had brought an effect on the final result because the ambassadorial body had accepted the suggestion of the council.

Concessions Made.

Both parties to the dispute had made concessions and the permanent court of international justice which was created by the league would place a role in the question of indemnity. But, he pointed out, one party to the dispute had denied the competency of the league.

It was true that the council had not supported the Italian viewpoint, but he regretted that it had not made a clear statement of its attitude. The world peoples who looked to the league as the great guarantee of their future security were waiting to learn this attitude.

Any act, like the occupation of Corfu, which was clearly contrary to the covenant and did not conform to the solemn obligations of the states, he said, would, in his opinion, diminish the chances of the league in its great task of settling further conflicts.

"We firmly believe," added M. Branting, "that the will for peace will be strong enough among the peoples of the earth to induce all countries to support the covenant."

high at any price

Substitutes are generally more expensive in the end than genuine articles. Housewives have learned—they KNOW this is true where bakings are concerned.

Self rising flours are classed as substitutes for plain flour and good baking powder. The use of these special mixtures is very liable to result in false economy, failures and waste on bake day.

Remember there is a big difference, in many ways, between biscuits and other bakings made from these so-called self-rising flours and those made from good plain flour and a dependable leavener. Try the experiment—make a baking from each—convince yourself.

You will find the baking made from flour and baking powder far more attractive in appearance. It will raise higher—retain its full food value and taste better.

For best results, do not fail to use Calumet, the Economy Baking Powder, and a reliable brand of plain flour.

Just think of it—the sale of Calumet is 2½ times as much as that of any other brand. It contains only such ingredients as have been officially approved by the United States Food Authorities. It is pure and sure.

You save when you buy it—you save when you use it.

Prepare for War, Work for Peace, Only Ways Open

Washington, September 17.—A world conference to halt competition in air craft building again was urged by Alvin Owsley, commander of the American Legion in a statement tonight which said that with conditions as they are "America must either work for peace or prepare for war."

"Let no man," Commander Owsley said, "charge a legionnaire with being a pacifist, but there must be a check put on the big air fleets of Great Britain and France, or we, the people of the United States, must proceed and build a fleet of war planes equal to that of any nation."

NEGRO MAN IS HELD FOR DEATH OF WOMAN

Lula Hixon, negro, was stabbed and instantly killed Monday night by Albert Wood, a negro man, with whom she is said to have had a quarrel about his supper. The crime was committed in front of 111 Butler street. The victim of the cutting died before she could be taken to Grady hospital. Witnesses said that the quarrel started in front of 119 Butler street, but that the woman ran when Wood started after her with the knife. He is said to have followed, and to have stabbed her several times. Wood was arrested.

Another decree dismisses all the civil governors and confirms the proclamation of martial law throughout the country.

The new head of the government, Captain General Primo Rivera, has invited all the managing editors of the newspapers and news agencies to a meeting at the ministry of war at which he will explain the workings of the censorship.

COMMERCIAL TREATY REPLY PROMISED.

Washington, September 17.—Ambassador Moore at Madrid informed the state department today that he had conferred with the new Spanish Premier-General Primo Rivera and had been promised an early reply with respect the commercial treaty in process of negotiation between Spain and the United States.

An American draft of the treaty was transmitted some months ago, and conversations with the former ministry have been going on with a prospect that a complete agreement soon would be completed. The treaty is the first of a series of commercial pacts which are in prospect to readjust the agreements between the United States and various nations on a basis made necessary by changes resulting from world-war conditions.

housing facilities for two schools and with prospects that when the drive to enforce the compulsory attendance law gets in full swing even more schools will be taxed beyond capacity.

For the term beginning in February it is already conceded that more junior high school housing facilities must be found.

Total Attendance.

Total actual attendance recorded up to Monday was 37,172 in elementary schools, senior high schools and the Hoke Smith Junior High school. Enrollment indicates that 3,000 more will be in attendance when the other three junior high schools open October 1. At least 1,000 more will be added when the negro junior-senior high school opens, probably at the beginning of the February, 1924, term.

The natural increase in attendance from kindergarten and first grade children who will enroll at the beginning of the February term will boost the totals several thousand more. Mid-year promotions from the lower sixth grades will more than fill the seats left vacant in elementary schools by mid-year promotions of upper sixth pupils into junior high schools.

GALE-FANNED FIRE SWEEPS BERKELY, CAL.

tore off roofs of several schoolhouses.

As the fires swept into Berkeley, thousands assembled to fight it. The University of California campus was saved only by dynamite and combined efforts of thousands of students. Coeds fought with the men to save their classrooms, sorority houses, and dormitories. Classes had been dismissed in the general panic.

Finally the wind changed its course at a time when the flames were sweeping directly toward the campus and headed for the business district, where they burned as far as Shattuck avenue, the main street of the college town. The shift turned the tongues of flame back into the burning area, proving an effective back fire.

Four Hurt in Frisco.

Fires in San Francisco Monday resulted in serious injury to four people. One was hurt in Oakland and two firemen had narrow escapes by jumping from second story windows. A blaze that threatened the barracks at Fort McDowell, Angel island, is reported to be under control.

In Marin county a brush fire is sweeping the slopes of Mount Tamalpais.

This section of California is under a thick pall of smoke, from dozens of forest fires burning in many counties. Telephone and telegraph service is so badly interrupted it may take days before the extent of damage can be learned.

At about 8 o'clock Monday night, a sea breeze sprung up and fanned the Berkely fire into renewed activity. However, the wind blew it back towards the hills. The fire at that time, while reported checked, was not under complete control.

The fire for a distance of more than half a mile is only one row of houses away from the University of California campus, with cinders showering down upon the campus and city. One fire started on Channing way, across the campus from the big blaze, but was quickly checked.

Mrs. Phoebe Hearst's old residence is among the houses burned.

MOONSHINERS' LAIR INVADED BY RANGERS

Dallas, Texas, September 17.—Acting on a report by citizens that heavily armed moonshiners had established a strongly fortified and barricaded stronghold near Mesquite, Dallas county, and had made defiant speeches threatening to shoot any one who invaded their territory. Two Texas rangers and two deputy sheriffs searched a part of the Trinity river bottoms yesterday evening. The officers were armed with a machine gun, sawed off shot guns and pistols.

On their return, they reported finding parts of a liquor still, which they confiscated, one barrel of mash and other evidence that whiskey recently had been manufactured in that vicinity.

After some investigation four youths were arrested by the officers and lodged in the Dallas county jail for further questioning. The youths were picking cotton in a nearby field at the time of the raid, the officers said.

PLAN HAY INDUSTRY IN SOUTH GEORGIA

Moultrie, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—The Southwest Georgia Melon Growers' association, of which J. J. Parrish, of Adel, is the active head, has started a movement for the purpose of developing the hay industry in southwest Georgia and north Florida. The melon growers received the idea from their success with watermelons. They believe that they can do as much with hay as they did with melons, by standardizing the product and the movement to organize the hay growers is meeting with encouragement, it is said.

It is pointed out that the crop is a companion crop to watermelons and that hay generally follows melons. Some times the melons fail and if the proper steps are followed the hay can be made the big end, Mr. Parrish and his associates believe. The melon growers are being pledged to produce good hay, cure it with care, establish grades and sell a standard and labeled product. It is stated that the Melon Growers' association already has 2,000 members and that these have learned the value of preparing an article for market.

It is proposed to center on peavine hay, a crop that can be produced after melons have been grown and shipped.

SCOUTS START WORK AT SAVANNAH MEETING

Savannah, Ga., September 17.—The first troop of Boy Scouts in Savannah to get together and reorganize for fall work was Troop 18, of St. John's church. As a preliminary to taking up their fall activities, members of the troop are now spending five days on a camping trip at Camp Strachan. Scoutmaster W. A. Jonnard is being assisted at the camp by Robert C. Topping, scout executive.

MAINE PRISON FIRE RAZES 8 BUILDINGS

Thomaston, Maine, September 17.—Eight buildings of the Maine state prison here were destroyed by fire tonight at a loss estimated at $500,000. Many of the inmates worked side by side with the Thomaston and Rockland fire departments and two companies of coast artillery in combatting the fire. One building housing 140 of the 205 prisoners was burned down.

RHINE FLEET VALUED AT 30 MILLION MARKS

New York, September 17.—Walker D. Hines, who spent nine weeks in France completing his work as arbitrator of the German-Austrian Rhine craft settlement, announced today on his arrival on the steamship France that he had appraised the fleet at thirty million gold marks. The boats were allocated to the allies as reparations.

Ban Grade Crossing.

Savannah, Ga., September 17.—Announcement is made today that the Central of Georgia railroad is carrying in its budget for the present fiscal year the sum of $183,500 to do work that will practically eliminate many grade crossings with the ever-increasing danger which the grade crossing makes possible under the present laws of traffic in the state. In addition the road wages a continuous campaign for educating the public up to the point where it will co-operate with the railroad in cutting down the number of accidents which occur at crossings.

K. C. COPS ARREST FOSTER AT MEET

Kansas City, Mo., September 17.—William Z. Foster, of Chicago, radical labor leader, was arrested and held for investigation here tonight after an address by him at a hall under the auspices of the labor defense council. Bond, fixed at $2,000, had not been furnished at midnight.

TO HOLD TREUTLEN FAIR AT SOPERTON

Soperton, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—Secretary S. Courson announced today that the Treutlen fair would be held here September 24-29 this year. This will be the third year of the fair in this county and each year has proven a great success.

The agriculture exhibit will be of unusually good variety and much interest is being shown in this department. Live stock, and poultry will rank among the best of any section, for this county is noted for having one of the largest hog farms in the state, the Hall Hampshire farm, and a very large poultry farm, the Cox poultry farm.

To Hold Clinics.

Savannah, September 17.—(Special.)—Post graduate clinics of the Medical Association of Georgia will be held in Savannah the latter part of October, it is announced today. Physicians of Carolina and Florida will be invited by the Georgia Medical Society—the local organization, the oldest in the South—to join the Georgia doctors here for these clinics.

HEALTH CONVENTION AT SAVANNAH SOON

Savannah, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—Pursuant to the action of the last convention of the Medical Association of Georgia, arrangements were made this afternoon by the local medical men and the board of trade for a health convention to be held in Savannah in October, the date to be agreed upon later. The convention is to be in the interest of the proposal to press before the legislature measures for health betterment in Georgia. Governor Walker, Dr. Rankin, of the North Carolina board of health; Dr. Newell, of the United States reclamation service, and the state health board officials are expected to be on the program of the October meeting.

TRADE EXPERT URGES CUBAN FAIR EXHIBITS

Louisville, Ky., September 17.—American manufacturers are urged to make exhibits at the Cuban International fair to be held in Havana during February, 1924, by R. L. McKellar, of Louisville, foreign freight traffic manager of the Southern railway system, who announces that he will be glad to assist manufacturers in arranging for exhibits at the fair and to give them any additional information in regard to it that may be desired.

"The primary object of the fair," said Mr. McKellar, "will be to place producers and sellers of all classes of commodities in contact with buyers. Exhibits by American manufacturers will be especially welcomed and it is hoped that many of our manufacturers will take advantage of this opportunity to display their products before Cuban buyers, as it seems assured that their European rivals will be largely represented."

LAWRENCEVILLE BOY WINS MARINE DIPLOMA

Washington, September 17.—(Special.)—Upon the completion of his studies in the Marine Corps institute here, Charles H. Griner, of Lawrenceville, Ga., has been awarded a diploma of efficiency in the advertising course. He also received a letter from Major General Lejeune, commandant of the marine corps, praising his excellent work in completing the course and passing the final examination.

Griner joined the marines at Atlanta during the early part of August, 1922. For several months he was stationed at New Orleans, La., later being transferred to duty in the Philippines. He visited Japan, Hawaii and Guam as a member of one of the marine guard companies aboard one of the ships of the Pacific fleet. He studied the complete advertising course and graduated while he was performing his regular duties as a marine.

Cotton Deteriorates.

Sylvania, Ga., September 7.—(Special.)—Farmers have been making use of good weather this week for gathering cotton. The deterioration in the crop had already come, however, and it is now thought that the average in this county will be about two bales to the plow, or about ten thousand bales for the county.

WHAT, WHERE, WHY IS YOUR COLON?

The Most Critical Part of Your Anatomy and Physiology.

It is a wise man who understands his colon and keeps it in perfect working order. Health, happiness, vigor and long life are the gifts which an active colon can give you—and a lazy colon can take away.

But, back to our question:—What is your colon; where is your colon; why is your colon? Listen attentively for only a minute and you may learn something that may add half-a-century to your life.

Your colon is the last five feet of your digestive canal. It is your sewerage system; your garbage can, so to speak. Keep it clean and you are well and happy; let it stagnate and it will distill the poisons of decay, fermentation (gas) and putrefaction into your blood, poisoning your brain and nerves so that you are restless, irritable and blue; poisoning your heart so that you are weak, listless and lazy; poisoning your lungs so that your breath is heavy or foul; poisoning your stomach and digestive organs so that you are bloated, belching and uncomfortable with gas pains; poisoning your blood so that your skin looks yellow, sallow and unhealthy; poisoning every part and organ of your body, through your blood, making you look and feel old and ugly long before your time; making your joints and your back stiff, your eyes dull and your brain sluggish.

By the perfect law of Nature, your colon should empty itself three times a day—within an hour after eating. Does your colon work that well? If not, it has lost its tone. What do we mean by tone? Your colon is a hollow muscle. Its walls are made up of long, muscle fibres or muscle cells which, by their contraction, empty the colon just as you would squeeze a rubber hose pipe. These muscle fibres should contract three times a day—within an hour after each meal. If they do not contract, they have lost their tone—their power to contract.

But, there is a practically perfect remedy for lazy, flabby colons. This remedy quickly restores the tone, is absolutely harmless and decidedly pleasant to take. Clip this article and take it to your druggist. Tell him to give you a bottle of that new preparation, called Colotone—the colon tonic. It will cost you one dollar if you are pleased with it, nothing if you are not pleased with it, for every druggist has been instructed to refund the price and ask no questions if his customer is not thoroughly satisfied.

But you will be delighted with Colotone for it will make you feel like a different person. Your eyes will sparkle with vitality and alertness; your brain will be clear and active; your complexion will be fresh and transparent, reflecting the purity of your blood; your digestion will be thorough and your appetite keen—for your food will taste delightful and will agree with you; you will sleep and awake refreshed; your system will be full of vim and vigor; you will feel younger, stronger, vigorous—you will enjoy the pleasure of living.

Get started on Colotone today. Nearly every person over twenty-five or thirty years of age, and many younger, need Colotone more or less. You will be simply delighted with it. Colotone cannot possibly do you any harm—it can only do you good. Try it on our guarantee. It will help you live long, well and happily.—(adv.)

ROME CITY COURT OPENS SESSIONS

Rome, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—Two weeks behind its scheduled opening date, the city court began its regular September session here this morning with a heavy week of criminal business before it.

The morning session was taken up with the trial of Adolphus Bray, a white man, charged with having liquor in his possession. He was found guilty and was immediately rearraigned on a charge of assault and battery. The trial of this latter case consumed a good portion of the afternoon.

The court's regular term should have begun on the first Monday in this month, but the opening was carried over one week because of Labor day and another because of the Confederate reunion. It will take at least three weeks to dispose of the business slated for the session, it is believed.

Delegates Chosen.

Rome, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—At a meeting of the directors of the Floyd County Nurses' association held this morning, delegates were chosen to the state health convention which will be held shortly in either Atlanta or Macon. The body voted in favor of Atlanta as the meeting place.

Grand Jury Meets.

Rome, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—The grand jury which was convened during the July term of the superior court met again this morning for the purpose of completing its unfinished business. There are many matters to get attention yet, it is stated, among them the disposition of many jail cases.

When the body's presentments will be made is not yet certain. It is expected that this will be as soon as its work is completed, which will probably be about the middle of the week.

Canning Contest.

Rome, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—Floyd county's canning contest will be held here Thursday afternoon at the girls' club home. At this time, a team of two club girls will be chosen to represent Floyd county in the district canning contest to be held at the Floyd county fair on October 3, 4 and 5. Winners of the district contest, in which entrants from Carroll, Fulton, DeKalb, Haralson, Polk, Floyd, Bartow, Gordon, Candler, Whitfield, Lumpkin, Hall, Gilber and Fannin counties will be entered, will be given a trip to the international live stock show in Chicago later in the fall. There will be no state canning contest such as was held at the Southeastern Fair last year.

Demonstration Council.

Rome, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—The Floyd county home demonstration council will hold a meeting on Thursday for the purpose of making final plans for the Floyd county fair and for the winding up of the year's business. The meeting will be held at the Girls' club home at 10 a. m.

Revaccination is not necessary, according to law, in Great Britain, but is compulsory in France, Germany, Italy and Japan.

INJUNCTION HEARING AGAINST ROADHOUSES

Savannah, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—September 24 has been set, it is today announced, for hearings in the cases of temporary injunction proceedings against several roadhouses in the Savannah territory to close them as alleged public nuisances, following activity in prohibition enforcement. Judge Barrett granted temporary injunction against Jordan's Cafe, Victory Inn, the Bee Roadhouse, and against th eplace of business in the city of Sam and Joseph Berner. The law may be enforced against places in which even one illicit sale of liquor has been showed and the places may be closed to all business for a year.

Negroes Will Meet.

Quitman, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—What is regarded as one of the most important movements in the county since the adoption of the county-wide agricultural program is the meeting of the negro farmers of the county which has been called for next Thursday morning at the courthouse in Quitman, when the negroes will undertake a similar program of agricultural pursuit which will keep step with the plans of the white farmers.

The call for the negro mass meeting, originating among the negroes themselves, is accepted as one of the most encouraging features of the general movement in the county to get away forever and for keeps from the one-cotton crop idea, which has proven a failure under boll weevil and rain conditions.

THE OMNISCIENT GUIDE—The steps of a good man are ordered by the Lord.—Psalm 37:23.

OUR CONSTITUTION!

The week of September 17-22—this week—is being generally observed all over the United States as "Constitution week," for the reason that on September 17, 1787, just one hundred and thirty-six years ago, the constitution of the United States was signed, and a federal government with a satisfactory balance of power between the seventeen states and the central authority established.

The observance this week is confined largely to schools, civic clubs and organized groups of Americans who feel the importance not only of reverence to the greatest document of state ever written in any tongue, but of a closer study of its tenets, which form the basis of national security, and sustain the free institutions of popular government, and set up the principles upon which all laws are framed.

The people of this nation today can undertake no more serviceable a study than that of the great and immortal charter of constitutional government in this country. It is lamentable that the popular mind is deficient in a thorough and comprehensive understanding of this great fundamental, that in all of the intervening years, with changing social and economic conditions, has been amended only nineteen times. Its marvelous strength, as illustrating the even more marvelous wisdom and vision of the fathers in building a people's government, is best demonstrated by its practical adaptation, in all of the vitals that bind and govern a great people, to the conditions of today, as well as to the conditions of that natal day of a western republic.

One of the principal functions of democratic government is to protect minorities and restrain majorities, and yet to govern by majority and not by minority. It is this thought that appeals most in one's study of the American constitution, for it builds these safeguards in no uncertain language, and our laws are supposed to carry the constitutional fortifications into practical use.

The bill of rights of the federal Constitution—

Guarantees free speech, religious freedom, freedom of the press, and the right of peaceable assembly.

Admits the necessity of a well-regulated militia, and thus sanctions the right of the people to bear arms for their own protection.

Forbids any soldiers being quartered in any house without the consent of the owner or in a manner prescribed by law.

Safeguards property rights, and protects the home from searcl except by legal warrant.

Prohibits the taking of private property without due process of law.

Protects individuals against being held to answer for a crime unless lawfully accused, and from being tried more than once for the same crime, if once acquitted.

Allows the right for accused person not to testify against himself.

Safeguards private property being taken for public use without just compensation.

Insures the right of speedy trial by impartial jury of fellowmen in district in which crime was committed.

Grants the accused person the right to know the nature and cause of his accusation.

Gives power to accused to compel witness to appear in his behalf.

Insures trial by jury in all suits where the value in controversy exceeds twenty dollars.

Requires that no bail, fines or punishment be excessive, cruel or unusual.

Prevents any state from depriving anyone of any constitutional right.

In this day of night riding, "regulating," "vigilanting," and self-constituted community guardianing by processes of terrorizing, flogging, kidnaping, and other acts of violence, in defiance of law and in capitalization of the mob spirit of lawlessness, it is well to go back to the fountainhead, upon which the security of government rests, and study again the inhibitions against defiance of constituted law enforcement; and the safeguards thrown up to protect the sacredness and the sanctity of a judicial system created by this immortal charter.

The constitution of the United States guarantees "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," which may be the reward of the humblest as well as the mightiest.

The constitution of this nation is the most constructive governmental document ever framed by man. It builds. It is all American. And it ill behooves him who would destroy to hide behind its folds in an attempt to justify his acts.

CUTTING DELEGATIONS.

The cutting down of the republican representation from the south in the national convention of that party, as announced by the national committee, is in line with the instructions of the convention of 1920, and with the work assigned to a special committee, of which Bascom Slemp, now secretary to President Coolidge, is chairman.

Under the new order no delegates will be allowed from congressional districts which do not maintain a republican organization, and do not cast, as shown by the last general election, a minimum of 2,500 republican votes.

While the south is not specifically mentioned in the order, which will apply as well to any state in the union, it was of course directed at the south. It is a modification of the original report made by the special committee to the national committee, which made the unit vote for eligibility to convention representation even larger than the 2,500 finally agreed upon. Its purpose, viewed from a strict political standpoint, is three-fold; first to throw the overwhelming voting strength of a national convention to those states having formidable republican organizations and votes; second, to cut down the large negro representation in the convention from the south; third, to assist, if possible, in the hopes of the party to build up stronger white republican followings in the south in national elections.

It is significant that this order from the national committee comes so shortly following the official connection of ex-Representative Slemp, a Virginian, with the white house, and indicates that systematically the president's secretary, who is undoubtedly to manage the southern end of the Coolidge campaign, is already actively at work getting the stage in order for the big drama.

BANKERS ARE HELPING.

During the last thirty days a number of commodity loans, through the auspices of the federal land banks and with the cooperation of large financial institutions in New York, have been made in the interests of farmers. One of these loans was for $20,000,000 to Texas cotton growers and another for $6,000,000 to North Carolina growers. Millions have already been loaned for the movement of the crops.

Next week a large number of bankers will meet in Atlantic City to discuss ways and means of helping farmers finance their needs. A nation-wide study will be made, and bankers will be present from every state. Cooperative marketing in particular will be studied. "How to save the farmers millions of dollars annually" is the announced aim of the meeting.

Agriculture is the keystone of economic welfare. The bankers are realizing that more today than ever before. Cooperation between the banker and the farmer—between all elements entering into the commercial and industrial life of a people—is an essential.

It is gratifying to see business interests, and especially the bankers, taking such an active part in bringing about a healthier economic condition among the producers.

The vacationists may now return home and send postcards to their summer friends, in the usual style: "It's cool enough here to sleep under blankets."

No "Joy"-Rides Now.

The motoring editor of the Coffeyville Journal takes this view of it:

"They still call motoring joy-riding despite the fact that it is developing into a nerve-racking ordeal. And every time a man takes his car out on a transcontinental highway, he takes his life in his hands. A Coffeyville man who drove to the north lakes this summer reports that he was near nervous prostration at the end of the five days' journey home. And conditions are almost as bad on our graveled highways hereabouts. What with dodging other motorists and eating dust, there is no joy in motoring any more and precious little pleasure."

GROUP TO ENTERTAIN CLUBS OF SAVANNAH

Savannah, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—On September 20 the Young Men's Dynamo, "the Hundred and One inner-energy, inter-activity, super-progressive group" of the Savannah board of trade's "Famous Four Hundred and One" of the thirty-eight hundred membership, will entertain the presidents and represenatives of the several luncheon clubs, civic organizations, to work out a concerted winter campaign for Savannah's development and progress. Officials of the Rotary club, the Kiwanis club, the Civitan club, the Lions' club and the American Business club will be present.

COOPERATIVE COLONY WILL ENLARGE SCORE

Savannah, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—The Fairfield Colony, composed of about a hundred families of Finlanders, situated in Wayne county near Jesup, is preparing at the beginning of its third year to make extensive improvements and enlargements, according to advices received here today. More new families of the same nationality are to join the colony in the next few weeks and the cooperative corporation is being reorganized to place specialists at the head of each department, dairying, hog raising, poultrying, drainage, construction of buildings, clearing and breaking of wider land areas, and administration. One new stockholder is an experienced truck grower, and while the colony has succeeded in growing cabbages and potatoes in large quantities to ship in carlots, the variety of products will be multiplied the coming fall and winter and spring. More fruit and nut trees are to be planted this winter and additional barns and other buildings are planned.

Seeks Sheriff's Office.

Summerville, Ga., September 17.—(Special.) — Politics in Chattooga county are beginning to warm up, despite the fact that the primary election for county officers will not be held before next spring. W. H. Godwin, a well-known citizen of Dry Valley, formerly of this place, is the first aspirant to make known his intentions of becoming a candidate. He states that he will be in the race for sheriff, opposing Frank Thomaron, incumbent.

It is rumored that there will be at least four candidates for the office of sheriff, including Sheriff Thomason and Mrs. Godwin.

Chattooga Tax Rate.

Summerville, Ga., September 17.—(Special.) — The Chattooga county board of roads and revenues has fixed the county tax rate for the year 1923 at $13 on the $1,000.

Five mills were levied for school purposes, in addition to the above rate, and in a number of districts where local taxation is in operation a rate of from two to five mills is levied.

Chapter III.—England's Problems.
BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

England was king in the international trade of the world in 1913. Sixty-two per cent of her total trade was with other countries. Her currency was sound and inflexible. By this I mean her total governmental expenditures were paid each year by receipts from taxations. She had a density of 371 people per square mile, against 313 for Italy, 311 for Germany and 191 for France, yet in 1914 her per capita income was $243 as against $112 in Italy, $146 in Germany, and $185 in France. She had then outstanding 223 millions of dollars of bank notes, and 144 millions of dollars of gold reserve. In other words, for every dollar of notes outstanding, she had 64 cents of gold to pay with.

During the war she increased her circulating bank notes to 2,333 millions of dollars. To put it in another way, her circulating bank notes increased during the war 10 1-2 times, while the gold reserve increased only 1.7 times. For every dollar of bank notes outstanding at the end of 1918, she had only 16 1-2 cents in gold to pay with. On July 21, 1924, the note circulation was equal to $4.84 for every person in England. On October 15, 1919, it was $50.62.

What happened? With a far greater increase of money than of goods, the prices of articles went up and the purchasing value of the money went down. Taking the average wholesale prices in July, 1914, as 100, we find that prices for the same articles averaged in 1918, at the close of the war, 232. That is to say, and due chiefly to inflating the currency, an article which cost $100 in 1914, cost $232 in 1918.

War Cost 77 Per cent Borrowed.

In spite of the fact that England during the war raised more money than any other European belligerent by taxation still she was forced to borrow money for 77 per cent of her total war expenditures. To put it more concretely, Britain spent 41,900 millions of dollars exclusively for the war, and raised 7,730 millions of dollars by taxation. For every dollar spent for war, she raised 23 cents from total taxes. The difference, 34,170 millions, plus another 1 1-2 millions of dollars for expenses of government other than for war, she raised by borrowing money and by inflating her currency.

How did she raise the 36,000 millions of dollars, 97 per cent of which the mighty moloch of war demanded?

(1) By selling her liberty bonds and increasing her national indebtedness from 3,165 millions of dollars to 37,221 millions of dollars, more than 1100 per cent.

(2) By increasing her note issue as stated above from 230 millions of dollars to 2,333 millions.

It was easier to stop the war than to stop inflation. Prices continue to rise with every new issue of money. The increase in the note circulation increases the floating debt of the state, which issues treasury bills in exchange for bank notes, and in addition leads to the depreciation of the currency. Inflation is theft by the state. Who gets the money so stolen? The nation as a whole is neither richer nor poorer as a result of the increase of note circulation, just as in the case of the increase of the domestic debt. However, in both cases, the owners of war industries are enriched at the expense of the wage earning, salaried and bondholding classes.

$10,000 Shrinks to $3,000.

By 1920 the wholesale index figure was standing at 307, as against 100 in 1914. Let us suppose that in June, 1914, an Englishman died, leaving $10,000 of life insurance to his wife and three small children. She, on the recommendation of a reliable trust company, reinvests her money in a splendid high grade municipal bond, maturing in 1920, netting 4 per cent interest. The transaction is completed and she received her money in 1920. But with the $10,000 she can only get $3,000 worth of goods in 1920. For her industry and thrift, she loses $7,000. This is not overdrawn. It is a true illustration of what has happened in every part of England. But it is clear enough to show us that the danger to a well balanced society in times of war is not always enemies without. Some of the most insidious ones work quietly within, and of all enemies within a nation during such times inflation is the most disastrous.

Since the war England has been trying to regain her lost ground. She has tried deflation. She has decreased her paper currency from the high mark by almost 20 per cent, or 440 millions of dollars. But it has been accompanied by the worst industrial depression in her entire history. Appalling bankruptcies, many suicides, great failures, increasing unemployment. The English social and industrial order has been shaken to its very foundation. The wage workers today, the second most powerful political group in England, demand a reduction of the domestic debt by a capital levy on swollen fortunes. They declare they cannot support the overhead tax and maintain a decent standard of living. One or the other must go. Unemployment government dcles now equal one million dollars a day. The number of men and women out of work has increased 130,000 during the past thirty days as this is written, and winter is coming. So is hunger and suffering and death. The government, harassed by the Ruhr invasion and the breakdown of international trade, is faced with the greatest problem ever faced by a great power. How can she come back?

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY O. O. M'INTYRE

New York, September 17.—It is a world of fantasy that lies back stage at the Hippodrome happily rescued from oblivion. Grease painted faces and grotesque costumes under the heavy calcium glare, that burns like the white hot flame of Phidias, give a startling touch of unreality.

The swaying elephants trumpet their restlessness and there is the staccato beat of horse hooves against stalls. Dainty creatures in spangled ballet dresses walk up and down the runways with ludicrous looking men who wear baggy pants and putty noses.

A group of midgets—two score of them—sit on upturned buckets playing cards and chattering in strange, thin voices. Their overlord, a big-chested fellow with fierce black mustachio, eyes them as one would so many sheep.

In a cleared space a group of buck dancers are practicing new steps to the jingle of their heel bells. The foil and feeder of a cross-talk act sits in a trapeze—to get away from the crowd and think up new gag lines.

White-faced clowns recline on a tumbler's roll of carpet. They seem hopelessly apart and their occasional smiles are sad. They appear to be conscious of suffering some sort of blight, yet without them the Hippodrome would not be the Hippodrome.

The hayseed comedian is sewing another patch on his white linen coat. He is the husband of the human puff ball who gracefully floats on in a dance interpretive of the soul's awakening. There is the tearful lady who has just received her notice and must go back to touring the minor circuits. Jealousy, she sniffs.

When the whistle sounds for "curtain" the motley gathering galvanizes into action. A sudden primping among women and a seriousness among men. They, at least, are facing reality.

The susceptibility of New Yorkers was emphasized in lower Broadway the other day when a joker began looking up the Woolworth building and pointing to a "human fly." The crowd gathered but could see nothing. The joker kept repeating that he could see him. In 15 minutes the police reserves had to be called to disperse the gathering and the joker sneaked quietly away.

The quidnuncs—as the society weeklies call them—are excited over the rumor that one of the gayest young blades in town is shortly to wed a flower girl who has for several years had a stand near Fifth avenue. He is rich in his own right and has been the leader in fashionable social affairs. The girl is a beautiful brunette.

In the early days of Maxim's, a beautiful young cigarette girl married a prominent New York youth. He was attracted to her while in company of a group of rounders. She induced him to give up his profligate ways and after a probationary period of six months, in which he had apparently reformed, they motored to Jersey and were married. In less than ten days he went off on a spree and after a stormy week she left him. A year later they patched things up and were married again. He became an invalid and she went to work at a hotel news stand and now supports him.

On Forty-ninth street west of Broadway the police look for automobile thieves. For some reason or other this is where they hang out. They caught one the other day who confessed stealing seven cars in one evening.

MOSQUITOES SUSTAINED.

The South Carolina legislature authorized the building of a dam across the Catawba river. The dam created a pond in and about which there were stagnant places where the malaria carrying mosquitoes might breed. The owner of some land about half a mile from the pond brought suit against the power company which constructed the dam, alleging that the sickness produced by the malaria carrying mosquitoes had led to the removal of tenants from his land and consequent depreciation in the value of the land. He won a judgment on this claim.

The case was carried to the supreme court, where the judgment was reversed. It appeared to the lawyers in this court that the skeeters had not confined their malaria carrying activities to this particular bit of land or these particular tenants but had distributed the disease to all sections near the dam. Wherefore the nuisance was a public one, and the law does not entitle a plaintiff to damages for an injury from a public nuisance unless he can show that his particular injury is different in degree or kind from the injury suffered by the public in general. And since the act which created the nuisance was authorized by the legislature, it cannot be considered a public nuisance! So the court declared.

The supreme court held that the plaintiff had no private cause of action unless he could show that the authority conferred upon the power company by the legislature was negligently exercised or that his injury was peculiar to himself and different from the injury suffered by the rest of the public affected.

There was a somewhat analogous case in Wisconsin or Minnesota a few years ago. Men employed on a job won damages from the contractor on the ground that the water he supplied for drinking was polluted and as a consequence the men developed typhoid fever. Luckily for those men the legislature had not conferred authority on the contractor to do the job.

This idea of holding those responsible who wittingly or carelessly spread disease is apparently growing. The South Carolina court took notice of the fact in rendering this opinion. "As a matter of supreme public opinion," the court said, "the affirmance of this judgment, opening the flood gates of litigation would not only bankrupt the useful institutions which mark the progress of this state, but would bar forever the development of millions of horse power in the streams that now 'run wanton to the sea'." The court was romantic. The pond could have been rendered mosquito free with very little attention.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Mosquito Bites.

How to prevent and relieve them.. Miss A. A.

Answer.—Rub the spot with a bit of moistened soap, or touch it with tincture of iodine, or a drop of peroxide, or a drop of glycerin, or if there are many bites, bathe with a bowl of water containing either a tablespoonful of household ammonia or a heaping tablespoonful of saleratus. Send a stamped self addressed envelope for instructions about the use of mosquito dope and the prevention of mosquito breeding. It is only the female of the species that bites; she does it for the sake of posterity.

Uriah Heep Hands.

What to do for my hands; they perspire summer and winter. Mrs. L. A.

Answer.—Paint the palms with a solution of 20 grains of chromic acid in one ounce of water, and allow to dry, once daily for a feek or 10 days. This has one drawback; it gives the skin a yellowish discoloration. If that would be objectionable, substitute the following ointment:

Formalin	1-2 drain
Menthol	2 grains
Lanolin	1-2 ounce
Petrolatum	Enough to make 1 ounce

A bit of this the size of a pea may be rubbed into the palms each night for a week or 10 days. The ointment should be dispensed in a collapsible tube, if possible. Formalin is the standard solution of formaldehyde of about 40 per cent strength (liquor formaldehydi) commonly used for disinfection and deodorizing.

Social Sayings of The Savior

No. IV.

"AM I MY BROTHER'S KEEPER?"

When the first man was lost in the world God found him, asking, "Adam, where art thou?" When the second man disappeared God sought Cain, asking, "Cain, where is thy brother?" The moment there were two men in the world, individual responsibility, one for another, began.

But the world is still asking with stinging sarcasm, "Am I my brother's keeper?" This ancient inquiry is the fundamental basis of Christ's teaching of the brotherhood of man. The world is still slaying its brothers in war and automobile recklessness. Human life is the cheapest thing in the universe today.

The safety first movement in industrial life has done more to bind capital and labor together than any other phase of social Christianity since the Galilean carpenter announced the brotherhood of mankind.

Cain's conscience haunted and hounded him, driving him a fugitive from one place to another, where everything and everybody seemed to be "big eyes" accusing him. Public sentiment against the reckless auto driver should be so universal that he would exile himself with only his accusing conscience.

EDITORS ARE URGED TO HELP FARMERS

Valdosta, Ga., September 17.—Members of the Eleventh District Press association, as they conclude their convention here tonight, had before them for consideration an appeal from Jack Williams, editor of The Wayeross Journal-Herald, that they become leaders in all progressive movements in their respective communities, especially in enterprises relating to the agricultural industry.

In an address prepared for delivery here today, Mr. Williams urged the editors to assist in placing more fine milch cows with farmers before continuing construction of more creameries. Diversification in farming was recommended by him as a step leading to an improved condition for the planters and business men.

"An interesting comparison of the dairying possibilities of Georgia and Denmark recently was made by The Cordele Dispatch," said Mr. Williams during the course of his remarks, "in which it was shown that Denmark is a little country, one-third the size of the state of Georgia, and with 500,000 more people than Georgia. Yet Denmark ships millions of pounds of food to England and other countries, and three million pounds of butter to the United States. Fifty years ago they were teaching their people vocations—and agriculture was the predominant theme.

Did It Scientifically.

"They made it their duty to make 'good' butter; to love and revere Dutch history, language and literature. Today, they make their butter and bacon in cooperative creameries and packing houses owned by the producers and send us three million pounds of butter each year. They have an educational system that is a wonder and have the greatest number of savings accounts in their banks of any people in the world, according to population.

"If a little country like Denmark with its long cold winters can accomplish all this, just think what a wonderful future sunny Georgia has in the dairying business, with her thousands of fertile acres; natural pasturage for more than nine months in the year, and a demand right at our doors for everything we can raise.

"As an example of what is being done in the dairying business in Crisp county, we quote the following news item from The Cordele Dispatch:

"'A Crisp county tenant farmer has this year brought into his treasury nearly six hundred dollars in cream sales and not a dollar of it has gone for feed. He did that with eight cows. He has paid for the cows with the cream, has a hundred dollars besides, and has sold 75 pigs.'

"With the view to assist farmers in purchasing cows, various methods have been adopted. In Waycross, for instance, several public spirited men ordered a carload of cows which were furnished to local farmers, and those who were not able to pay in full were accommodated by one of the banks. At the present time, The Journal-Herald and the chamber of commerce are conducting a campaign to create a development fund of $10,000—the fund to be supplied by one hundred men, who will name a board of directors to have charge of it and say just how it shall be invested. To date, twenty-five men have enrolled, subscribing $2,500.

Leadership Urged.

"We, as newspaper men, should never grow weary in telling of the wonderful achievements our communities and the state as a whole are making. While the work being done is largely the work of our own people, with our hard-earned capital, people of other sections are turning their attention to Georgia, and we should insist that the railroad companies again inaugurate their homeseekers' rates and do their part in bringing to the front the advantages of this, the most favored section in all the known world," he asserted.

"Be a leader," he urged, "an editor who merely chronicles events and happenings from his editorial columns is a historian, while he should be a general in the front ranks. The paper should inaugurate movements and then be willing to shoulder the success or failure of these movements. It must do things in addition to telling what others are doing."

Newspapers in this district should assist farmers to purchase more dairy cows, he continued, adding that as more dairy cattle are acquired other things on the cow, hog and hen program will follow as a natural sequence.

NUMEROUS EDITORS ATTEND MEET

The editors of the Eleventh District association held their regular meeting in this city today. The meeting opened with the call to order by President B. T. Allen, editor of the Pearson Tribune, followed by the invocation by Rev. N. H. Williams, pastor of the First Methodiste hurch. Mayor Peeples delivered an address of welcome, response being made by Editor Royal Daniel, of the Quitman Free Press.

President C. D. Rountree, of the State association, D. B. Bickers, associate editor of the Savannah Morning News, and Editor J. J. Williams, of Waycross, were among those who addressed the gathering. The morning was devoted to a business meeting at which matters of interest to the association were discussed. The editors attending the meeting included, R. C. and W. L. Hay, of Willacoochee; Royanl Daniel and Mrs. Daniel, of Quitman; Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Trimble, of Milltown; B. T. Allen, of Pearson; J. J. Williams, of Waycross; L. W. Herrin, of Millwood; C. D. Rountree, of Wrightsville; D. G. Bickers, of Savannah; H. H. Wind, of Cairo; W. T. Shytle, of Adel, and J. Kelley Simmons, formerly of Nashville. The visitors were guests of the Times at luncheon.

Questions and Answers

Any reader may obtain a personal reply to any answerable question of fact or information by writing to Washington Bureau, Atlanta Constitution, 1322 New York avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C., enclosing 2 cents in stamps. Legal, medical and marital advice can not be given, nor can extended research be undertaken. Unsigned letters can not be answered. All letters are confidential.

Q. Briefly, what is the alien restriction law?

A. The number of aliens of any nationality who may be admitted into the United States in any fiscal year is limited to three per cent of the number of foreign born persons of such nationality resident in the United States as shown by the census of 1910; and not more than twenty per cent of the annual quota of any nationality may be admitted in any month.

Q. What became of the desk and chair used by Lincoln while in congress?

A. According to the Lincoln Memorial commission and the Lincoln museum, there is no record of what became of them. It seems that very shortly after his term in congress all the desks and chairs were changed and no record was kept as to what became of them.

Q. If the president-elect and vice president-elect died before their inauguration, and there was no time to elect others, who would act as president?

A. The secretary of state, providing he was constitutionally eligible—that is, 35 years old, native born and 14 years a resident of the United States—would act as president until another election was held.

Q. What was the name of the car on which Lincoln's body was carried to Illinois?

A. The body of Lincoln was carried to its final resting place in the first real Pullman car ever built, called the Pioneer. It was built in Chicago in 1864 on the site of the present union station in a shed belonging to the Chicago & Alton railroad. At the time of Lincoln's death the fame of the Pioneer was widespread and it was suggested that the fine new car should be the funeral coach of the murdered president. This involved cutting wider clearances all the way from Washington by way of Philadelphia, New York and Albany to Springfield, Ill Gangs of men worked night and day in order to complete the necessary alterations on the tracks in order that the Pioneer might be a part of the funeral train.

Q. What railroad had the first passenger service in the United States?

A. The Charleston & Hamburg railroad in the late fall of 1830. The following year construction was begun on the Boston & Lowell railroad and in the same year a passenger train was put in service between Albany and Schenectady on the new Mohawk & Hudson railroad.

Q. How did the expression "Four Hundred" originate?

A. During the preparations for the centennial celebrations of 1889 a Mr. McAllister said there were only about four hundred people actually in "society" in New York. The phrase caught the popular fancy and has been much used since.

Q. What is known as the Doge's palace?

A. The residence for four centuries of the dukes (doges) of Venice situated on the Piazzetta adjoining the Plaza of St. Mark; founded about 814 and subsequently destroyed and rebuilt five times. The present reconstruction was begun in 1340; the Gothic facade dates from the first half of the fifteenth century. Its architecture makes it one of the most striking buildings in Europe. On the east the palace is connected by the famous Bridge of Sighs with the old prisons. The building is rich in historical memories.

Q. Who was Mohammed, when did he live?

A. Mohammed, or Mahomet, was the founder of Islam, the creed of which is "There is no God but God (Allah) and Mohammed is his prophet." He was born in Mecca about 570 A. D., and died June 8, 632 A. D. About 610 he began to formulate his doctrines, which spread rapidly and were further extended by force of arms until at the time of his death he had a powerful following. The religion established by him has flourished ever since. Can you refer to Washington Irving's "Life of Mahomet?"

Q. How is "laughing gas" made and is it injurious to take?

A. Laughing gas is made by heating solid ammonium nitrate in a flask. The result is water and nitrous oxide. While laughing gas (or nitrous oxide is the safest general anaesthetic we possess, fatalities have occurred from it. The term "laughing gas" is used because the patient is apt to laugh or exhibit other emotion if but a little gas is administered.

Q. What is the food value of an alligator pear?

A. This fruit is very unusual in that the flesh has a high fat content, 10 per cent on the average. The water content is 81 per cent and the carbohydrates are 7 per cent. The fuel value is high, 512 calories per pound.

GEORGIA TO OBSERVE 'CONSTITUTION DAY'

Georgia joins the nation today in observing the 136th anniversary of the "cornerstone of the republic"—the constitution of the United States. Many civic organizations will observe the day with special musical programs, appropriate addresses and other patriotic entertainment features.

Throughout the nation Tuesday marks the beginning of special ceremonies and features of observing "Constitution Week." These observances, in many sections, will continue through the remainder of the week.

Governors of many states have issued proclamations asking proper celebration of the historic event which dates back to September 17, 1787.

In Atlanta, the Kiwanis club has arranged a special program for Tuesday and Kiwanis clubs throughout the state have designated Thursday of this week as a day on which special meetings will be held to commemorate the event.

In many schools and churches in Georgia appropriate exercises will mark some period of the day's activities which will be devoted to observing the spirit of "Constitution Week."

More Jap Contributions.

Washington, September 17.—Additional subscriptions of more than $100,000 to the Japanese relief fund were reported today to the American Red Cross, bringing the total to $8,104,800.

What Is More Beautiful Than a Table Properly Set With Matched Sterling?

Nothing looks more beautiful on a fair white linen cloth than good silver which has been well cared for, and there is a particular feel about Sterling silver that makes it very pleasant to use.

There is a feeling of satisfaction in the possession of silverware—especially is this true in households where the requirements of modern culture have been inherited along with heirlooms of one and two centuries ago.

Our Sterling silver becomes the Heirlooms of Tomorrow.

BOWDOIN IN CHARGE AT CORNER STONE EXERCISES TODAY

The program for laying the corner stone of the Edmund A. Ware school for negroes at 3 o'clock this afternoon was announced Monday by Sutton. The Ware school will be the first of 13 for which cornerstones will be laid during the next seven weeks.

The program, at which Mr. Sutton will preside and to which white as well as negro patrons of the public schools are invited, will be as follows:

1. Song, "America," by school children.
2. Prayer, Rev. B. F. Fraser, pastor Wesley Memorial church.
3. Address, Jesse O. Thomas.
4. Dedicatory poem: "Edmund Asa Ware," by Thomas Jefferson Flanagan.
5. Statement by W. L. McCalley, Jr., chairman of building committee board of education.
6. Address, W. Woods White. (Introduced by W. W. Gaines, president of board of education.)
7. Masonic ceremonies, in charge of Joe E. Bowdoin, grand master, state of Georgia.

Industrial Engineer Indorses Sims' Views On State Tax Laws

Mayor Walter A. Sims' recent assertion that Georgia's need is economy in government rather than more tax laws and that an income tax would tend to force industries away from the state and defeat all programs for building up Georgia's industrial wealth was indorsed by an eastern industrial engineer in a letter to the mayor made public Monday.

"The state of New Lork has from time to time passed many tax laws which are greatly affecting industries within the state and there is now a decided move on the part of industries located within the state to move either to New Jersey of Pennsylvania, all because of these burdensome laws," A. L. Moorehead, industrial engineer for the Erie Railroad company, wrote to Mayor Sims.

Mr. Moorehead's work as industrial engineer is concerned largely with fostering enterprises along the railroad in orde to ncease its taffic. He said said that the mayor's statement on the the tax question was quoted in the Wall Street Journal.

Mayor Sims' suggestion that Georgia try to cut down state expenses rather than to increase state revenues was made in an interview published in The Constitution in connection with city hall gossip that he might be a candidate for governor of Georgia either next year or three years from now.

Society to Preserve Historic Birthplace James F. Cooper

The Cooper house, historical birthplace of James Fenimore Cooper, located at 457 High street, Burlington, N. J., has been purchased by the Burlington County Historical society to be preserved as a museum and as a headquarters of the society.

James Fenimore Cooper is author of the "Leatherstocking Tales" and numerous other stories. William Lyon Phelps, professor of Yale university, classes him as one of the world's greatest romantics" and as the man who stands preeminently as the creator of American literature out of American subjects.

Adjoining the Cooper house is the birthplace of Captain James Lawrence, whose heroism as commander of the Chesapeake made memorable his words, "Don't give up the ship." Captain Lawrence was born October 1, 1781, and James Cooper was born September 15, 1789.

About half the money for the complete transaction has been raised by membership subscriptions to the society. Officials plan to secure the remainding funds by subscription of one dollar or more from each subscriber. A custodian will act as guide to tourists visiting the Cooper house.

CAPITOL GOSSIP

Attorney General George M. Napier was back in his office Monday after spending the last few days of last week in Asheville, where he represented Georgia at a convention of secretaries of state, securities commissioners, and other state officials from all sections of the United States.

There were more than fifty officials in attendance, he said, and discussions developed many matters of great interest in regard to administrative work in state government. Mr. Napier was particularly interested in reports of several state purchasing agents present. Only a few of the states have these officials at present.

ROAD CONTRACT LET.

Georgia's highway board Monday awarded a contract for the construction of 5.03 miles of gravel road surfacing on the highway between Rockmart and Dallas, in Polk county. The contract was let to W. K. Russell, of Cedartown, whose bid for the work was $23,600.76. This project is number 303 in state records.

PARDONED AFTER 19 YEARS.

Pardoned after serving 19 years in the state prison farm on a charge of murder, F. M. Allens, of Coweta county, Monday called on Governor Clifford Walker to thank him for restoring his freedom.

Allens, who was accompanied by his wife, said that he was anxious to start life over again, but that he did not know what he would do since conditions have changed so much while he was in prison. He is eager to secure work. In his younger days he was in the furniture business.

BIG GAIN IS SHOWN IN MOTOR VEHICLES

Remarkable increase in number of motor vehicles registered in the United States has continued in the first six months of 1923 without any sign of falling off in rate, according to the bureau of public roads of the United States department of agriculture. On July 1, total registration of motor cars and trucks amounted to 13,002,427 since the first of the year. In these figures, allowance has been made for registration and non-resident registrations as far as possible, it was stated.

"Rate of increase is the same as that which has prevailed since 1916, during which time registrations increased from 3,512,996 to 13,002,427 in a period of 6 1-2 years, the statement reads.

"Trucks and commercial cars now number 1,371,058, an increase of 92,254 since January 1, and rate of increase is greater than that for total registration of all vehicles."

The table issued by the bureau shows registrations as follows: Private passenger cars, 11,571,181; taxicabs, busses and cars for hire, 60,188; trailers, 24,111 and motor cycles, 141,521. The numbers of the last two classes of vehicles are not included in the registration total.

Total registration revenue reported is $167,240,937, of which $134,733,225 is applicable to road work by or under the supervision of state highway departments.

In 27 states gasoline taxes were collected, amounting to $8,669,174, of which $4,977,864 is applicable to road work by or under the supervision of state highway departments. Revenue from this source will be materially increased in the latter half of the year when the gasoline tax laws of several additional states, including Georgia, where the special tax has been increased, go into effect, it was stated.

CUTS ARE ANNOUNCED IN HUDSON PRICES

Reductions in prices of Hudson automobiles, effective immediately, was announced Monday by J. W. Goldsmith, Jr.-Grant company, Atlanta dealers for Hudson and Essex cars.

The exact reduction was not mentioned in the telegram to the Atlanta dealers from the Hudson Motor Car company, but further information is expected Tuesday and will be made known immediately upon receipt.

Pending receipt of specific information of the decrease in prices of the Hudson car, Harry Cohen, sales manager, stated that reduction in prices went into effect Monday and that persons purchasing cars before the exact amount of reduction is known, will get a rebate of whatever amount is involved in the cut in prices.

ARMY ASSOCIATION OF U. S. TO HOLD MEETING THURSDAY

After suspending meetings for the summer months, the Association of the Army of the United States will resume its regular meetings at 6:30 o'clock Thursday night at the Chamber of Commerce.

At this meeting election of officers for the coming year will be held, and a local chapter of the Reserve Officers' association will be formed. Every reserve, national guard, and regular army officer in and about Atlanta is urged to be present to help start the season off with a bang. Reserve officers are particularly urged whether or not they are members of the A. A. U. S.

Macon Banker Dies In Atlanta Hospital After Long Illness

Charles McKinnon Boifeuillet, former banker of Macon, died early Monday morning at Wesley Memorial hospital following an illness of eleven weeks. Mr. Boifeuillet was the brother of John T. Boifeuillet, of the state public service commission, and of Mrs. J. A. Peacock, of Dublin.

He was 57 years old, and had been engaged in the banking business for more than 40 years, having entered the employ of the late R. F. Lawton at the age of 17. He was afterwards affiliated with the Merchants' National bank, the American National bank and later with the Citizens' & Southern bank, of Macon. He was forced to resign his position with the Citizens' & Southern bank last May on account of ill health. The bank retired him on full salary because fo his long and faithful service.

Besides his brother and sister, Mr. Boifeuillet is survived by numerous nieces and nephews. Among the nieces are Mrs. F. R. Jones, of Atlanta; Mrs. John A. Crawford, of Toccoa; Mrs. Piercy Chestney, of Macon; Mrs. W. Edward Clark, of Augusta; Mrs. Will C. Myers, of Florence, Ala.; Mrs. Annelie Brown, of Dublin; Mrs. Kathleen Robinson, of Greensboro, N. C., and Mrs. Saryline White, of Dublin. His nephews are George C., Charlie B. and Ernest S. Thompson, of Atlanta and Paul M. Thompson, of Augusta, J. B. Jemison, of Thomasville; Richard Jemison, of Toledo, Ohio, and Loring Guyton, of Dublin, Ga.; John A. Roderick and Marion Peacock, of Dublin, Ga.

The body will leave Atlanta Tuesday morning and will be met in Macon by the Elks who will take charge of the funeral. He was a member of Macon lodge, No. 230. H. M. Patterson in charge.

JUDGE WILL SENTENCE LEM GLEASON TODAY

Sentence will be passed Tuesday on J. L. ("Lem") Gleason, alleged "speiler" for the old bunco gang, who plead guilty in Fulton superior court Monday before Judge John D. Humphries. Having previously announced that he would demand a trial, his plea came as a surprise. He was charged with larceny after trust.

"BUS" FISHER SOUGHT BY MRS. L. M'FADDEN

Mrs. Lena McFadden, of 746 South Ridgewood street, Daytona, Fla., has requested the aid of The Constitution in locating her son, "Bus" Fisher, who left home on a walking tour of Georgia, September 6. He was last seen by friends in Folkstone, Ga., accompanied by his collie dog. He is six feet tall, has dark hair and eyes, and was wearing brown overalls.

FEDERAL GRAND JURY MEETS AGAIN TODAY

Without returning any bills, the federal grand jury, which convened Monday morning, adjourned in the afternoon until Tuesday morning, when it will resume consideration of evidence against various defendants. Findings probably will be made public Tuesday afternoon.

OFFICERS LOOKING FOR H. M. DAVIS; BIGAMY CHARGED

Deputy marshals of the municipal court are seeking H. M. Davis, for whom a bigamy warrant was taken out Monday morning by Mrs. H. Donaldson, of West Lake avenue, who alleges that he induced her to become his wife last Friday without revealing the fact that he already had a wife and five children.

According to Mrs. Donaldson, she married Davis Friday night after a short acquaintance. They went to a new house on West Lake avenue and spent the night. Saturday morning, she told Judge T. O. Hathcock, a woman with five children appeared at the house.

Davis seized an opportunity to make a quick getaway, she said, and has not been seen since.

COOLER WEATHER WITH FAIR SKIES FORECAST TODAY

Fair weather, with another drop in temperature, was forecast Monday for Atlanta today. General outlook for the week, but the first half should be weather, Meteorologist C. F. von Herrmann indicated. There is a possibility of showers the latter part of the week, but the first half should be fair and cool. Cloudy Tuesday, with showers probably Wednesday, is the Washington forecast for Georgia.

"Nights continue to be cool and should be tinged with fall," said the forecaster. "Rains prevailed in Oklahoma and other sections of the southwestern states Sunday and caused considerable damages to cotton crops in that vicinity. Cotton will suffer in all sections if rains continue."

WEST PREPARING NEW MONEY SHEET FOR CITY COUNCIL

City Comptroller B. Graham West began Monday to prepare a tentative city finance apportionment plan to present to the finance committee of city council at its meeting next Monday. The new budget, known as the "October apportionment sheet," is made to adjust differences between income and expene which developed after the adoption of the "June sheet," which is the most important apportionment arrangement made during the year.

It is understood that the finance committee may try to scale down expenses even to the extent of dropping more employees from the city pay roll in order to finish the year 1923 without a deficit to be carried over to 1924.

The January and June sheets are both based on estimates of the probable revenues of the city. The actual income during the first eight months of the year offers a more accurate basis for estimates when the October sheet is prepared, enabling the finance comimttee to act with certainty as to how much money will be available.

ATLANTAN HONORED BY MEAT PACKERS

W. E. Anderson, of the White Provision company, Atlanta, Monday was awarded the Silver Jubilee button by the Institute of American Meat Packers at the eighteenth annual convention in Chicago. The award is presented for a period of 25 years' loyal and faithful service, and is made to all members of the institute who qualify. Mr. Anderson was the only Atlantan to qualify out of the 115 who received the award.

The button is diamond shaped and bears the monogram of the institute with the numeral 25. Charles E. Herrick, president of the institute, made the presentation, in which he said that the meat packing industry of the United States was one of the largest industries of the nation. The packing industry is one of the most highly organized and efficient of the great American businesses, the speaker declared.

CHURCH ASKS RETURN OF PRESIDING ELDER

Rev. L. A. Townsley, presiding elder of the West Atlanta District conference and candidate for the bishopric of the A. M. E. church, held his last quarterly conference for the year in the Cosmopolitan A. M. E. church Sunday. Rev. W. J. Williams, pastor, spoke on the exodus of the negroes from the south.

A resolution was offered by the trustees and members of the church requesting return of the presiding elder and pastor for another year.

Banner Season Is Expected On Gridiron This Fall

Candidates in All Sections Of Country Have Responded To Call of Various Coacches

Great Things Expected of Haughton, Who Has Charge at Columbia This Season; Few Intersectional Games on Schedule.

By Robert Edgren

Evidently this will be a banner football season. From all sections of the country come reports of record squads of young huskies answering the call for practice. Over 350 candidates reported to Coach Andy Smith out in California.

The quiet of the Kentucky Hills was punctured the other day when one fourth of Centre College's entire student enrollment trooped out for the first football drill. The East no longer monopolizes the attention of embryo gridiron stars.

The game this year will be little changed. Spectators will not require special coaching, because the officials wisely decided to let well enough alone and refused to do much tampering with the rules. It is a welcome change from a few years ago when wholesale experiments were made with forward passing and other rules and spectators hardly knew what to expect.

One lamentable loss this season will be the almost total absence of intersectional games. The Big Three-Yale, Harvard, Princeton--passed a rule forbidding long trips and inter sectional contests. This move tended to discourage other colleges from scheduling games with opponents in other sections.

It seems that some heavy-thinking professors suddenly discovered that students wasted a few minutes of their time each week through undue enthusiasm over their team's big football games. Along these lines of research it was found that even the players themselves might be absent an entire day from recitations because of a trip to Chicago or some football town.

The learned professors raised such a raucous howl that athletic authorities became alarmed and decided to restrict football activities this season. Which to many is all foolishness.

HAUGHTON'S RETURN A FEATURE

There's nothing more thrilling than games between representative elevens of the various sections. These contests tend to promote better understanding and feeling. Last year I watched Princeton defeat the University of Chicago in one of the most remarkable games ever played. Both teams gave a magnificent exhibition of skill and grit.

Chicago's defeat was tempered by the thought that Princeton might soon again come West for another game. But friendship that grew from this game were surprised to learn that faculty barriers would soon go up against future intersectional games.

It is to be hoped that the mistake of not encouraging intersectional contests will be thoroughly realized this season and that conditions will be different in 1924.

While the absence of intersectional battles will tend to restrict public interest this no doubt will be made up by following the exploits of many coaches on new jobs. After the 1822 campaign there was a general shifting of head coaches. This happened in all parts of the land.

The biggest single move was the return of Perch Haughton to active coaching. There's something unusually facinating about coaching football teams. Since the world war, Haughton did no active coaching but each year he couldn't resist the temptation to go out to Soldiers' field and see how the Harvard squad was coming along for the big battles with Princeton and Yale.

A Sample of Discipline.

Haughton naturally was in a receptive mood when Columbia made its offer last winter. Determined to recover lost gridiron prestige, Columbia cast about for the coach best equipped to handle the job, and singled out Rockne, of Notre Dame, and Haughton. Rockne could not answer the call because of his Notre Dame contract. It was different with Haughtoh.

He had no coaching connections at the time and readily agreed to come to Columbia.

Haughton's success at Harvard could be explained in one word—organization. The founder of the famous Harvard system is an expert on the mystery of detail. Nothing escapes him either in the preparation or the playing of a game.

Under the Haughton system, each player has certain duties to perform and he knows to an inch just where he should be during each play. And the young husky who thoughtlessly commits errors is in for a rough time With Haughton discipine is religion He is the boss at all time.

Up at Harvard they tell a story of Haughton and one of the greatest kickers the Crimson ever developed. The coach specially instructed this star not to punnt over 38 yards in a certain game.

The game of thegame rolled around

The kicker, getting his first real chance, was anxious to exhibit his skill before the packed stands. The quarterback barked out orders for a kick. It was a big moment for the young star. He gave the ball a tremendous bot, sending it nearly 60 yards. The catcher made a brilliant runback. Harvard soon recovered the ball and had to kick. Once again the ball went sailing far down the field

Suddenly a substitute darted out from the Crimson bench. He replaced the star kicker. Crestfallen, the youngster came to Haughton on the bench.

"What's the matter, coach, I never kicked better in my life?" he asked.

"Go to the locker room, remove your suit and keep off until you know what 38 yards are," was Haughton's laconic reply.

It was two weeks before that young man returned to the line-up. Never again did he need a reminder about obeying orders.

The only thing that goes with Haughton is results. Under Haughton Columbia should soon get results. (Copyright, 1923, for The Constitution.)

'BUDDY MAC' IS RACE WINNER

Columbus, O., September 17.—Buddy Mac, owned by J. P. Whalen, of Cleveland, and driven by Nat Ray, today won the King, $3,000 stake for 2:08 pacers, which was the feature of the opening day's racing of the fall grand circuit meeting here. Whalen's gelding proved the class of the field and won each heat pulled up.

Marmaduke, favorite in the 2:11 trot, behaved badly, breaking in each of his three miles. The Major, which sold in the field, won the first two heats, while the third mile went to Hollyrood March.

After Prince Direct had won the first heat of the 2:18 pace and lost tne second to the favored War Bride, Driver Wolverton was relieved and Valentine substituted. After leading for three-quarters of the distance in the final mile, Prince Direct went into a break and War Bride won easily.

The summaries:

2:11 trot, three heats; purse $1,000: The Major, b g, by Binjolla (Conley) 1; 1! 3. Hollyrood March, b g, (Earnest) 4; 4; 1. Fair May, br m, (Cox) 6; 2; 2. Marmaduke, Alisal and Etta Wise also started. Best time 2:05 3-4.

The King Stake, 2:08 class pacing: 3 heats, purse $3,000: Buddy Mac, b g, by Wiloe (Ray) 1; 1; 1. Lambert Tobb, b g, (Cox) 2; 2; 4. Wanda May, gr m, (Valentine) 7; 3; 2. La Paloma, El Verso, Rifle Grenade and Edward Marque also started. Best time 2:02 1-4.

2:18 pace, 3 heats, purse $1,000: War Bride, b m, by Walter Direct (Stokes) 2; 1; 1. Prince Direct, b g (Wolverton-Valentine) 1; 2; 8. Ruby Gatewood, b m, (Palin) 3; 4; 2. Pete Green, Van Lou, Careta Todd, Rex Malloy and Henry Ford also started. Best time 2:06 1-4.

KELLY MAKES RECORD.

Chicago, September 17.—George Kelly, first baseman of the New York Nationals, was the hero of an old-time batting bee today, in which the world's champions easily defeated Chicago 13 to 6, in the final game of the series, thereby earning an even break.

Kelly established what is believed to be a world's record in modern baseball when he smashed out three consecutive home runs, in three consecutive innings, the third, fourth and fifth. In addition he drove out a double and a single, making five hits in as many times up. Five homers were made during the game, Meusel and O'Farrell getting one each, and Kelly three.

Guy Bush, a recruit pitcher from Greenville, Miss., made his first appearance as a major league pitcher on the mound for Chicago and prevented the Giants from scoring in the last inning.

Auditorium To Be the Scene Of Scrap Between Old Rivals; First Bout Starts 8 O'Clock

Each Fighter Holds One Decision Over the Other — Fuzzy Woodruff Will Act as Referee—Large Crowd Is Expected.

THE COMPLETE CARD

Battling Bud, Atlanta, vs. K. O. Jeakle, Toledo, 10 rounds, decision.
Battling Barnett vs. Eddie Cook. 10 rounds.
Carter Morgan vs. Benny Regan, 6 rounds.
Young Collins vs. Jack McMullens, 6 rounds.
Tom O'Rourke vs. Bandy Lewis, 6 rounds.
Referee: Fuzzy Woodruff.
Place: Auditorium.

"He's another Benny Leonard—and if you don't believe me, just watch him tonight."

Samuel Jordan, manager of K. O. Jeakle, Toledo's 22-year-old son of swat, was speaking, and the subject obviously was his protege who will meet in mortal combat in the arena of the Auditorium tonight that wonderfully willing Battling Budd.

Jeakle had just finished his last warming up in the gymnasium, stepping at a pace that was dizzy, to say the least. He is fast as a streak, clever with his mittens, and cool and crafty.

"If he isn't the exact replica of Champion Leonard, I don't know what I'm talking about," chirped Mr. Jordan, reassuringly. "And I'm willing to wager he takes young Mr. Budd for a ride."

There were no takers that moment—but it is evident that Budd still clings to his hundreds of admirers, and he will be strongly supported, vocally anyhow, when the rival factions come to grips tonight.

Woodruff to Referee.

Their 10 round mill to a decision is the chief attraction to a 38-round card. Fuzzy Woodruff, dean of local referees, will shed his collar and coat and roll up his shirt sleeves so that he will be better able to follow the lightweights about the ring and haul them from each other in the event of a clinch or so.

With Jeakle packing a record that bodes ill for any man who would block his path, a lively time is promised for one and all. Sam Jordan claims that he is the only fighter ever to floor the redoubtable Sid Barbarian, right now the greatest drawing card in Detroit and other midwestern centers, Jeakle putting Barbarian down three times.

Ever Hammer, of Chicago, was one of the most recent victims of the Toledo flash. And in fact a thorough search of K. O.'s record fails to reveal anything that might be called a blot.

So, Atlanta fans are expecting to see a real scrapper in action—or rather two of them—and Mr. Jordan declares they will not be disappointed.

The preliminaries measure up to, and probably surpass, those staged by the American Legion Post No. 1 in recent months, what with Battling Barnett, of Atlanta, working against Eddie Cook, of Savannah, in the 10-round semi-final.

Bout No. 1 tonight is arranged for 8:30 o'clock. Ladies will need no tickets—and gents will be admitted for the usual prices of $1, $2 and $3.

SIKI TO MEET GEO. GODFREY

Philadelphia, September 17.—Battling Siki, the Senegalese boxer, was today signed to meet George Godfrey, in Philadelphia, October 8, in an eight-round no-decision bout according to an announcement made by Jack Hanlon, of this city. Godfrey helped train Jack Dempsey against Tom Gibbons and Luis Angel Firpo.

BOBBY JONES AND EVANS IN TIE AT AMATEUR MEET

Both Shoot 149 for Low Score in Medal Play; Atlanta Boy Makes Final Round in Par

Tess Bradshaw Withdraws, While Charlie Black Turns in Card of 173—Bobby Shows Great Improvement in Game.

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY
(Sports Editor, The Constitution.)

Flossmoor, Country Club, ill., September 17.—(Special.)—The two golfers whose names are most frequently mentioned when dopesters talk of the probable winner of the national amateur golf title for 1923 showed the way to the rest of the field in the 36-hole qualifying round, which came to a close here today, Bobby Jones, national open champion, and Chick Evans, once holder of the Atlantan's present title, and many times amateur crown owner, tying for the low medal at 147 strokes. The other contestants were correspondingly closely bunched and indications are that this tournament is going to produce torrid competition.

Bobby, who had scored a 75 in the first half of the test Saturday, played even better golf this morning, getting a 74 and apparently had the medal just about sewed up, as no golfer is going to give par much of a beating on this layout, and trimming the old gentleman was all the Chicagoan had to do in order to nose out Jones. The fact that Evans almost succeeded is proof nough that he is the man to watch, although Francis Ouimet did a 73 today for the lowest 18-hole round of the tournament.

The battle for scoring honors gave the gallery enough thrills to last until the match play gets well under way. Evans first assumed the lead only to throw away his advantage, but succeeded in regaining the stroke at the turn. Then he wilted under the strain and from one up became one down over a stretch of two holes and was not able to make up the ground, until unburdening himself of a beautifully executed birdie at the 17th. And poor putting on the 18th cost Evans the bacon, as he had a splendid chance to deliver.

Putting Touch Bad.

Bobby's really fine score today would have been much better had he been doing the brilliant putting which featured his round Saturday. Bobby has come along slowly in this tournament, but his game is becoming sounder every day. He was not hitting his shots properly Saturday, and nothing but putting, which bordered on the miraculous kept him near the top of the list, but today the situation was far different.

The trouble Saturday was a hook on practically every one of his tee shots, but it has been corrected and Bobby was never off line today, and in the fairway his irons were working in jam-up style. Up to the green we have never seen him playing better golf.

He scored easily today and had sizable putts for birdies on all save one green, the sixth, where he was short with his approach shot and used three to get on, running down the putt for the par figure. Bobby used up 35 strokes today, compared to 29 Saturday, yet his score was one stroke better, which should give some idea of the splendid stuff Bobby was showing from tee to green.

Driving Splendid.

His driving was beautiful and he was consistently in front of his partner, Jimmy Ward, of Kansas City, who was just as consistently out in front of Bobby Saturday, when the Atlantan's tee shots were peppering Flossmoor's rather extensive area of rough. Two of his pokes were stepped off and measured well over 275 yards.

On the 518-yard first hole, Bobby was well over the pin with his second and on the tenth, another long affair, he had a putt for a three, and finally took a five when the ball went in the cup on his fourth shot and hopped out. These golfers are not managing to make two shotters of the long holes without any alarming regularity, although Gardner and other heavy artillery men have succeeded in doing so occasionally.

Atlantans on hand to see Bobby battle for the amateur crown are now thoroughly convinced that the boy is about ready for the grind. He has been having his troubles, but is rapidly packing them away, and now needs but to regain his putting touch in order to rule a top-heavy favorite. In fact he is already that, selling in the pools at 5 to 1, and mighty hard to get on at that.

The fact that Chick Evans is right on his best game is making him the choice of the westerners and Francis Ouimet has his following, but Bobby looks like the real thing just now and nearly everybody appears to be thinking along this same line.

Gets Good Start.

Bobby started like he was after the course record, scoring a birdie four on the first. He followed a 275-yard drive with a brassie that put him beyond the pin. Then two putts were used for the four. On the short second Bobby landed on the green, stuck and used two putts for a three.

Then Old Man Trouble began to enter the argument at the third, which is one of the holes where Bobby has had to fight hard for any sort of score. He had a good drive and fair enough second and was on with his third. His approach putt was within a foot of the cup, but Bobby became careless, barely tapped the ball and it refused to drop, Bobby taking the first of two 6's he compiled during the round.

Bobby then set in for a fine tussel with par and held on, having difficulty in doing so but one time, that when he was just short of the sixth green with his second and used three strokes to get one, going down in one putt, however. On this long streak he had three chances to slice off strokes by sinking putts of about ten feet each, but not one would go down. He was exactly a par at the turn, 36.

Bobby's card and par:

Par out ....535 444 344—36
Jones out ....436 444 344—36

Misses Putt for a Five.

On the tenth Bobby laced out a double of magnificent swats, his drive of 275 yards being followed by another belt with the wood and he was on the green. Bobby sent his approach putt possibly three feet beyond the cup and missed coming back, taking a par five instead of the four which appeared to be a certainty as he stepped up on the green.

A great shot out of a shallow trap at the short eleventh saved Bobby from going over par at this hole. He hooked his tee shot, went wide of the green and landed in one of the various traps which entirely surround the green. It seemed that he was doomed to take at least a four, but his recovery was brilliant, the ball stopping less than a foot from the cup. And an east three resulted.

Bobby's drive from the twelfth tee halted right where he wanted it to, just short of a treacherous little creek, but he half topped with his brassie and the ball stopped 30 yards from the green. Had the ball climbed a foot higher it would have been a remarkable shot, but it didn't have the height needed to pull over the long hill which extends from the creek to the green. He went on with his third and used two putts, getting a par five.

Makes Easy Three.

On the short 13th Bobby had an easy three, coming close to a two as the ball rimmed the cup. On the fourteenth, which we are inclined to believe is becoming the hardest hole on the course for Bobby to play, he again pulled his drive, but not quite so badly as he did Saturday when he was forced to waste a stroke chipping back into the fairway. This time he went close to the woods but stayed out and had a fairly good lie in the rough. He went over the pin by 25 feet on his approach shot and the ball stopped on the lip of the cup on the first putt, Bobby taking a par four which apparently satisfied him, as it was one of the few times he has registered so nicely on this hole since beginning his practice rounds a week ago.

Par four's came easily on the fifteenth and sixteenth, but Bobby cut off a stroke by getting a birdie four on the 17th, one of the most difficult holes on the course. He hit a tremendous drive right down the middle, but hooked his second, being green high, however. He came out in fine style and was left with a three foot putt which he rammed down.

Encounters Trouble.

Bobby encountered plenty of trouble on the final hole, starting by hooking his tee shot into the rough. After carefully studying the situation Bobby elected to dig into the ball with the wood instead of putting the iron to it, and succeeded in getting out, but the pellet took an unfortunate kick and went into a trap, short of the green. Bobby was weak in recovering and took four to reach the green. He missed a three foot putt for a par five and took a six.

Bobby's card and par:

Evans Starts Well.

Evans, starting in the afternoon, knew that he had to trim par in order to finish ahead of Bobby, and began in powerful fashion, scoring a birdie four on the first and a par three on the second, sinking a long put for the three. Yet this gave him no lead, as Bobby had traveled the same distance in the same number of strokes in the morning.

Chick went into the lead at the third with a par five, Bobby having negotiated this hole in six, and Chick held on through the fourth when he had a bit of good luck with his third, the shot being overplayed, but refusing to drop into a deep trap. Chick almost holed out the chip but finally took a par 4. He began to show signs of cracking after getting a par 4 on Number 5, and a five on the par 4 sixth hole brought him back even with Bobby.

Chick's drive was splendid, netting at least ten yards more than Bobby did during the morning, but the Chicagoan hooked his second badly and went into a trap. He was barely on in three and took two putts. After he had gone through the seventh and eighth in par figures, Chick scored a birdie three on the ninth and went again into the lead.

Gets in Trouble.

After getting off a fine drive from the tenth tee, Chick ran into a session of embarrassment brought on by his iron clubs and badly pulled two shots, being in the rough to the left of the green with his third. He managed to reach the edge of the green in four and took two putts for a six, once more becoming even with Bobby.

On the short eleventh, Chick hooked his tee shot and ended in a trap. In an effort to come out with a putter, he messed up the shot and was forced to resort to niblick for his second. This time he came out strongly and was left with a six foot putt which he sent down for a four, Evans work here put Bobby into the lead and there was no change unil the seventeenth, when Chick registered a birdie four.

On the eighteenth Chick uncorked a long drive straight down the middle and followed this effort with another mighty belt, the ball stopping on the far edge of the green. It seemed that nothing could deprive him of the honor as all he needed was a four. He was short with the approach putt, the ball curling to the right and halting ten feet from the cup. He made a brave effort to run it down, but missed by inches and the medalist's distinction became knotted.

Play-Off Not Certain.

It had not been decided tonight whether there would be a play-off or not, all depending upon the turn affairs take when the match play gets under way tomorrow at 9:30 o'clock.

Bobby is in the tough section of the draw. There is no doubt about that. In the lower bracket he is found with such sterling warriors as Francis Ouimet, Chick Evans, Willie Hunter and others, while in the upper bracket Jesse Guilford and Jess Sweetser have things pretty much their own way, although Rudy Knepper and Bob Gardner are in this section.

Bobby's opponent for Tuesday is T. B. Cochran, of Wichita Falls, Texas, a veteran southern golfer who has held the Texas amateur title several times. This is his first fling at national honors in several years and he qualified with 161, being one of the winners in the play-off, Eddie Held, Russell Martin and Cochran triumphing over A. Donald Anderson, Chris Dunphy and E. H. Bankard. If Bobby should get by Cochran, and we see no need for worry, he will get Max Marston in the second round, Marston being a heavy favorite over his opponent, I. M. Simpson.

Road Not Rough.

As far as the semi-finals the road does not look extremely rough for Bobby. In his immediate section of the lower bracket are Max Marston, J. M. Simpson, T. B. Cochran, Jones, Joe Wells, Carleton Wells, H. K. B. Davis and George Blossom.

Jones and Marston should win, which would bring them together in the second round, and we believe Bobby would get by Max, perhaps not by any big margin, but the chances are that he'd go through safely and that is enough. Next to Bobby, Marston seems to be the most dangerous man. With Max out of the way, Bobby should have no trouble becoming a semi-finalist.

In the lower section of this bracket the semi-finalist is purely a toss up. Ouimet will have no stern opposition to combat Tuesday as he meets A. Haines, Rockford, Illinois, golfer who has never displayed any great amount of class. But on Wednesday Francis will be up against a real problem, as he must play the winner of the Chick Evans-Willie Hunter bout of Tuesday, the feature match of the first round. The luck of the draw threw Evans and Hunter, who qualified together, against each other, and some fine golf should be produced. In the third round, Captain E. F. Carter, the former Britisher, will probably be around to contest with either Ouimet, Hunter or Evans.

Charlie Black, Jr., another of the Atlanta entries, finished the 36 holes in 173 strokes, which, of course put him out of the running, but his score today was five strokes better than Saturday, Charlie registering an 84 today. Bad breaks on the green prevented him from having a lower score.

Tess Bradshaw picked up after encountering much trouble early in his second round.

Upper Half.

Guilford and Jacobs, Weber and Cummings, Herron and Martin, Sweetser and Seckel, Shute and Held, Sweet and Allis, Frainey and Frownes; Gardner and Knepper.

Lower Half.

Marston and Simpson, Cochran and Jones, Joe Wells and C. F. Wells, Davis and George Blossom, Haines and Ouimet, Evans and Hunter, Manion and Francis Blossom, Von Elm and Carter.

Tech Gridders Show Big Improvement in Scrimmage

B YJOHN STATON.

Another scrimmage was held at Grant field yesterday afternoon. This engagement was an improvement over the initial encounter of last Saturday, both offensively and defensively. As usual, the varsity lined up against the scrubs and endeavored to put them to route.

For the first time this season, the scrimmage was begun with a kick-off. Wycoff topped his initial attempt, and Huffines, playing tackle for the scrubs, scooped up the ball. He was downed without material gain. Coach Alex was not satisfied with the kick and brought the ball back. The next attempt went long and high, Nonemacher receiving it about his five-yard line. He was shortly downed by Bob Reeves.

The scrubs started a series of runs from punt formation which carried them well into the varsity territory, before a complete diagnosis of the system was completed, "Muggesy" Smith and Nonemacher advanced the ball well under the stimulus of hard charging interference.

Nonemacher and Smith, unfortunately sustained injuries early in the scrimmage which prevented them from further participation. Nonemacher on a line buck, came head to head with Joe Usry. Usry did not feel the blow, but Nonemacher was knocked out for about five minutes. He finally rose to his feet, reeling and groggy.

"Muggesy" fell by the way-side when Felton McConnell broke through and blocked the punt tht "Muggesy" was about to get off. As the two fell together. The scrub twisted his knee under him, and he was carried to the showers.

With the exception of the first few minutes, when the varsity had difficulty in solving the punt formation used by the scrubs, the first string defense was better than that exhibited on Saturday. The linesmen were working more as a unit, and would pile up the scrub forwards like a stack of hay.

Varsity Shows Up Well.

Offensively, the varsity had a good day too. The attack was working with a little more precision, and there was decidedly less fumbling. The varsity cracked out two or three touchdowns in mid-season form, literally rushing the opposition off its feet.

Claire Frye, "Bip" Farnesworth, and Gus Merkle were not able to indulge in the fireworks. Frye and Farnsworth were not even out in uniform. Both have sustained injuries which require time to heal, and Coach Alex is running no chance of losing them for a season by rushing the recovery. Under ordinary circumstances, both will be out in uniform by the latter part of the week.

Merkle strained his hand in the scrimmage Saturday, and Coach Alex was wary about risking a more severe injury.

The remainder of the squad is in fine physical condition, in fact slightly better the last seasons, which was exceedingly good in itself. And it is well that such is so, for Coach Alex has promised a scrimmage every day this week.

No one will be admitted to the field this week or next unless they have signed pass from Coach Alexander. No photographers will be allowed on the field until the first game, nearly two weeks off.

The team is approaching the crucial part of its training now, and it is well that inquisitive eyes should not see all that goes on down at Grant field for about two weeks. No student will be allowed in the grand stands unless he presents his receipt for fees to the gate keeper. This rule is air tight, and there will be no violations.

With a scrimmage on the menu every day, there is lot which the public will miss, but public will have the opportunity of seeing everything when the real match play begins.

Miss Alexa Stirling Shoots 81 in Canadian Golf Meet

Is Second in List of Qualifiers—Miss Glenna Collett Noses Out Atlanta Player by One Stroke.

Mount Bruno Golf Club, September 17.—(Special.)—Miss Alexa Stirling, of Atlanta, with a score of 81, was second in the list of 26 players who qualified today in the 18-hole preliminary round to the Canadian ladies' open championship. Miss Glenna Collett, American woman champion, turned in the lowest card, 80.

Miss Stirling's card was:

In ....357 653 544—42—81

Miss Collett's card was:

Out ....464 454 425—38
In ....457 544 544—42—80

Both the American girls played perfect golf, driving consistently, approaching flawlessly and putting with deadly effect. Miss Collett just missed par (79 for ladies) by rimming the cup on a short putt on the ninth hole.

Mrs. W. A. Gavin, of Huntercomb, England, the present title holder, was off her game and turned in a card of 90.

Miss Edith Leitch, the British player, was also down the list with 92. Fifty-four entrants, representing Canada, the United States and Great Britain, teed off in glorious weather, with the course in perfect shape. Of these there were 26 who scored 100 or less and qualified. Eight ladies with 101 will play of tomorrow for six places on the qualifying list.

The following competitors qualified:

Miss Glenna Collett, Providence, R. I., 80; Miss Alexa Stirling, Atlanta, Ga., 81; Mrs. D. C. Hurd, Hamilton, 86; Mrs. H. Hutchings, Winnipeg, 88; Mrs. Hope Gibson, Hamilton, 88; Miss Sydney Peplar, Toronto, 88; Miss Ada MacKenzie, Mississauga, 89; Mrs. W. Gavin, Huntercomb, England, 90.

Miss Edith Leitch, Suttonheath, England, 92; Miss Marjorie Annabel Royal, Montreal, 92; Miss Kate Robertson, Beaconsfield, 93; Miss R. Murdock, Humbervalley, 93; Miss Helen Paget, Royal Ottawa, 93; Mrs. K. Bearisto, Winnipeg, 94; Miss Sybil Kennedy, Royal Montreal, 94.

Mrs. Spaulding, Niagara Falls, 95; Miss S. Meehan, Cedarbrooke, 96; Miss Highbie, Chicago, 97; Miss H. Meehan, Cedarbrook, 98; Miss E. Nesbitt, Hamilton, 98; Mrs. M. K. Rowe, Toronto, 100.

Miss E. Kinsella, Country Club, 100; Mrs. Ivor Ross, Royal Ottawa, 100; Miss K. Christie, Lambton, 100; Mrs. H. Cronyon, Toronto, 100; Mrs. S. B. White, Royal Montreal, 100.

Miss Mayer Low Medalist In Woman's Golf Tourney

Turns in Card of 76—Mrs. T. T. Williams Comes Second With 77—Mrs. Lowndes Is Off Game.

BY MRS. CLARENCE BRADLEY.

The qualifying rounds in the chase for the cup in the Maier & Berkle tournament was played yesterday morning over the Piedmont golf course. Miss Rosalie Mayer carried off the honors of the day with a fine score of 76. Mrs. T. T. Williams was second with a fine 77.

The qualifying round was played in a high wind, making the long drives from the tees hard to control, and had it not been for the high winds Miss Mayer and Mrs. Williams would have turned in a much better score as they were both putting up a fine brand of golf and broke the Piedmont course record for women.

Mrs. Dozier Lowndes, former southern and the present city champion, was decidedly off her game yesterday and was forced to take an 80 for the eighteen holes. Mrs. L. J. Robinson, former Michigan state champion, was off her game also and had trouble on the putting greens and came in with an 83. However, Mrs. Lowndes and Mrs. Robinson are due for a comeback today.

The Cards:

Miss Mayer:
Out ....455 534 454—40
In ....345 534 543—36—76

Mrs. Williams:
Out ....464 535 444—39
In ....454 535 543—38—77

Mrs. Lowndes:
Out ....365 724 553—40
In ....355 535 545—40—80

Mrs. Robinson:
Out ....464 654 644—43

The Pairings.

The pairings in the first flight for today are as follows: Miss Rosalie Mayer (5) plays Mrs. Clarence Bradley (14), Miss Mayer conceding Mrs. Bradley 7 strokes. Mrs. Dozier Lowndes (2) plays Mrs. Don M. Dickinson (19), Mrs. Lowndes conceding Mrs. Dickinson 13 strokes. Mrs. T. T. Williams (10) plays Mrs. Charles Collier (15), Mrs. Williams conceding Mrs. Collier 4 strokes. Mrs. L. J. Robinson (6) plays Miss Mae O'Brien (14), Mrs. Robinson conceding Miss O'Brien 6 strokes.

In the second flight Mrs. L. W. Granade (23) plays Mrs. Jesse Daniels (27), Mrs. Granade conceding Mrs. Daniels 3 strokes. Mrs. Cyrus Strickler (19) plays Mrs. Charles V. Cornell (24), Mrs. Strickler conceding Mrs. Cornell 4 strokes. Mrs. Howard Muse (25) plays Mrs. Charles M. Sciple (30), Mrs. Muse conceding Mrs. Sciple 4 strokes. Miss Jimmie Pattillo (33) plays Mrs. Joseph Van Ness (37), Miss Pattillo conceding Mrs. Ness 3 strokes.

In the third flight Mrs. Norman Cooledge (43) plays Mrs. Lee Giblin (50), Mrs. Cooledge conceding Mrs. Giblin 5 strokes. Mrs. Blalock drew a bye. Miss Henrietta Davis (37) plays Mrs. Wycliffe Goldsmith (45), Miss Davis conceding Mrs. Goldsmith 6 strokes.

It is requested that the matches be played in the mornings owing to the crowded condition of the golf course in the afternoons.

OFFER MADE FOR BIG RACE

New York, September 17.—An offer of $50,000 for a match race between Harry Sinclair's colt, Zev, winner of the Kentucky Derby and generally acknowledged three-year-old champion of the American turf, Admiral Cary Grayson's horse, My Own, has been forwarded to the owners of the two speedsters by the Maryland state fair.

Admiral Grayson might be willing to accept but it is not believed that Sinclair will want the race because Zev is entered in the $50,000 Latonia Derby and might be the one selected to run against the British champion, Papyrus, in the international championship race in October.

My Own is one of the most formidable opponents of Zev for the honor of carrying the American colors against Papyrus as the American horse has not yet been selected.

For a six furlong race for the two-year-old championship between Sarazen and Happy Thoughts, both undefeated this season, the Maryland fair offered a purse of $15,000 Sarazen has won five races.

Makes Long Drive.

Boston, September 17.—Myron D. Smith hit a golf ball 410 yards from the seventh tee of the Sandy Burr course yesterday. The club professional measured the distance. Smith had the benefit of strong wind and sunbaked turf.

Hardwar, on the bank of the Ganges river, is a popular spot for ablution, and its bathing ghat and temple of Gangawara are annualliy visited by 300,000 pilgrims.

V. M. I. TO PLAY ON SATURDAY

Lexington, Va., September 17.—The V. M. I. squad has been worked unusually hard during the past week of practice. The coaches realize that the Marine game, on September 22, will be one of the hardest of the season, and are consequently exerting every effort to make the initial game a victory for the "Flying Squadron."

As yet no regular first team has been picked. The men have been shifted promiscously from one position to another in order to help the coaches line up the men in the places they best fit.

The three hard fought scrimmages of the past week have given the members of the varsity squad an opportunity to show their ability, and it is very probable that the coaches will definitely decide on the line-up for the game with the "Devil Dogs" by Monday at least.

The loss of "Skeets" Farley, star quarter of the past two years, who is now attending the University of West Virginia, is still worrying the coaches. The question as to who will take his place is yet undecided. Three men are being thoroughly coached for the position, but no selection has been made so far. The seating capacity of the V. M. I. stadium has been doubled and the largest crowd that has ever attended a game in Lexington is expected.

W. HOOVER LOSES TITLE

Duluth, Minn., September 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—Handing Walter Hoover the worst defeat he has ever suffered, W. E. Garrett Gilmore, of Philadelphia, today won the Philadelphia gold challenge cup which carries with it the world's singles sculling championship.

The race, postponed from Saturday, was rowed on the St. Louis Bay mile and a quarter course. The time was 8:39. Gilmore won by four lengths, ten seconds ahead of the former champion. The former champion said he was twentyy pounds over weight. Asked if he had anything to say about a report that friction between himself and the Duluth Boat club officials interferred with his training, Hoover said:

"Well, if I should say anything now you might think it an alibi. I want Gilmore to have full credit for winning this race."

Taking with him the challenge cup, which is valued at $2,500, Gilmore with his young bride and coach Frank Muller, of the Bachelors Barge club, left here late today for Philadelphia.

Weather conditions were not of the best for the race. The air was cool and brisk but the water was choppy. Gilmore rowed in impressive fashion. Hoover never threatened the Philadelphian.

When Hoover won the gold challenge cup at Philadelphia in June, 1922, defeating Gilmore and several other scullers he finished in 7:34, said to be a world's sculling record for the mile and a quarter.

BOB ROPER TO ARRIVE TODAY

Captain Bob Roper, contender for heavyweight championship honors, will arrive in this city today. Roper has been with his wife and baby at Roanoake, Va., where Mrs. Roper and Bob Junior underwent operations. Roper sends word that both are rapidly recovering from the effects of the operations.

The object of Roper's visit is to take up tentative offers that he has received since his last visit here, offers that will probably lead to Bob meeting either Firpo or Dempsey in the immediate future.

Through the sickness of his family, Roper was forced to cancel a number of engagements he had booked. Incidentally, the enforced vacation set him back in piling up a knockout record. Previous to his departure for Roanoke, Bob engaged in seven bouts in 29 days, scoring six kayos and winning the other by a referee's decision.

FORMER TECH STAR TO COACH AT AMERICUS

Americus, September, 17.—(Special.)—Clarence Saunders, former Tech star, has been signed to coach Americus High school football eleven, it was announced here today. He will arrive Monday and begin work immediately. Saunders was signed through the efforts of a party of Americus High school alumni interested in developing football as a sport here.

There is much good material out of which Saunders will forge his letter men. Captain Bobby Hooks is the only man sure of a position on the team. Workouts will begin Monday afternoon at the playground under thed irection of Saunders, with approximately 40 candidates reporting for practice.

IMITATION USHERS GET IN BIG FIGHT

New York, September 17.—Not all the counterfeiting in connection with the Dempsey-Firpo bout was done by bogus ticket scalpers, Tex Rickard learned today. Counterfeiters also made a few illicit dollars on the fight by driving along Broadway near Forty-Second street the evening of the big battle and hawked, at $1 each, a whole load of red caps which were clever, although cheap, imitations of the head gear worn by Rickard's army of official ushers.

Several hundred of these ushers got in, it appears. And they not only wondered at will right down into the ringside section on the authority of the dollar lids, but many of them gathered a pretty penny in tips for ushering paid patrons to seats in the arena.

SOUTHERN SHOPS TEAM TO PLAY IN COLUMBUS

The Southern Shop baseball team of Atlanta goes to Columbus Wednesday to play the Southern Shop ball team of that city on that date.

This game is under the auspices of the Columbus Shriners and is for the purpose of raising funds for the Christmas basket fund.

The game itself promises to be well worth seeing as both clubs are loading up with star players and they will present lineups that will assure the Columbus people of a good game.

Danny Clarke Crashes Out 3 Homers During Afternoon, Increasing Record to 21

Locals Go on Batting Spree and Win First 12 To 4, While Sixth Inning Rally Nets 9 to 8 Win in Second Contest.

BY ROY E. WHITE.

The Boston Red Sox team should be proud of its purchase of Danny Clarke from the Atlanta if one day's play counts for anything. Monday afternoon he was directly responsible for Atlanta winning a double-header from Little Rock. The scores of the games were 12 to 4 and 9 to 8.

Danny hit his 19th and 20th home runs of the season in the first game and then hit his 21st homer in the second game. Not only did Clarke hit well, getting five out of seven times at bat in the two games, but he stole home in the third inning of the second game on a beautiful slider, and stole two other bases and then won the ball game in the sixth inning, when he singled with two men on base.

The double victory places the Crackers only one full game behind Memphis, and the Crackers have an excellent chance to gain third place.

Was Poor Exhibition.

The two games, witnessed by a good Monday collection of baseball fans, were not what would be called a good exhibition of the national pastime, although the average spectator could enjoy such games, were it not for the long drawn affairs which took three hours and thirty-five minutes to play.

Kid Elberfield sent Gould to the mound in the first game for the Travelers but he lasted only four innings for the Crackers were certainly on a batting spree, nicking him for 10 safeties in his abbreviated time on the mound. Johnson relieved Gould and pitched a fairly neat game but he also fell the victim of Crackers' bats and a total of four runs.

George Dumont, curve ball artist for the Crackers, won his game, not through his good pitching but through good hitting on the part of his mates. George's curve was not working so well, Little Rock getting 11 hits, which were not used to any great advantage.

In the second game—a short affair—both teams hit well, each team using two pitchers, that were decidedly unsteady. The second game was a home game for the Crackers, being a tied affair from the last Little Rock visit here. The umpires, ordered to officiate but one game, left the park immediately after the first affair and McCall, pitcher for Little Rock, and Johnny Brock, Cracker catcher, did the umpiring very creditably.

Crackers Score First.

The scoring in brief for the first game follows: Atlanta—Barber singled after two men were out in the first inning. Clarke hit one to center for his 19th homer of the season, scoring Barber ahead of him. In the third, a single, a sacrifice by Guyon, an infield out and Clarke's infield hit gave Atlanta one more.

Five were added in the fourth when Gould was sent to the showers. Niehaus singled, and went to second on Gould's error. Ring beat out an infield hit. Brock's single scored Niehaus and Ring scored when Philbin booted Dumont's easy roller. Moore sacrificed. Guyon was safe on a fielder's choice when Dumont was out at third. Brock and Guyon scored on Barber's single. Barber took second on the throw to the plate. He went to third on a wild pitch and scored on another. Moore singled, stole second and third and scored when Guyon was out on a delayed steal in the sixth inning. Clarke's homer scored another in the seventh inning. In the ninth two hits, two walks and two fielder's choices gave Atlanta two more.

Little Rock scored one in the fourth on a double and two singles. Another was added in the sixth on a single, two infield outs and another single. Two more were added in the eighth on an error, two singles, a wild pitch, and an infield out.

Travelers Score 8 Runs

In the second game Little Rock scored all eight runs in the fourth inning. Six runs coming off the delivery of Camp and two off R. Niehaus. Smith and West singled in succession. Philbin doubled, Tucker singled, Williams was an infield out. Richburg singled, Zoellers singled and Niehaus was sent to the mound for Atlanta. Bandrimer walked, Hurt was hit by a pitched ball and Smith ended the agony by flying out.

Atlanta scored four in the first on a walk, an infield out, a fielder's choice, a home run by Clarke—his twenty-first—an error, a stolen base and a single. One other was added in the third inning, when Clarke walked, stole second, went to third on an infield out, and then stole home on a neat slide under Smith.

In the fourth inning Miller walked, went to second on a wild pitch, took third on an infield hit by Moore and scored on Guyon's infield out.

SERIES WILL START SEPT. 25

Shreveport, La., September 17.—The "Dixie series" for the class A baseball championship of the south will open in Fort Worth September 25, it was determined here today at a conference between President Martin, of the Southern association; President Roberts, of the Texas league, and representatives of the Fort Worth and New Orleans clubs.

Two games will be played in Fort Worth, September 25-26, and the clubs then will move to New Orleans for three games, Saturday, Sunday and Monday, September 29-30 and October 1. If additional games are necessary to decide the championship, the sixth game will be played in Fort Worth October 3, and if a seventh contest is necessary, a coin will be tossed to determine where it shall be played. The championship goes to the club winning four games.

In the event a scheduled game is postponed or tied, the clubs will remain in the city where it occurred and play it off.

Paul Le Grave, secretary of the Fort Worth club, won the toss for the scene of the first game as well as the privilege of naming the umpire in chief for the initial contest.

Sixteen players of each club were declared eligible for the series. Fort Worth's list is: Stoner, Pate, Wachtel, Johns, Ross, Goodbred, Haworth, Moore, Kraft, Rapp, Tavener, Phelan, Hoffman, Sears, Calvo and Edington. The New Orleans eligibles are: Foss, Robinson, Walker, Bogart, Dowie, Martina, Knaupp, Thomas, Mitze, Whittaker, Schick, Henry, Tucker, Gilbert, Ewoldt and Winn. No player is eligible who was not with the clubs 30 days prior to the close of the season.

President Roberts announced his selection of umpires as Monroe, Sweeney and Lem Weir, and President Martin named Bill Brennan and Bill Guthrie to represent the Southern.

Paul Wachtel, of the Panthers, will be allowed to use his "spit" ball in the event he works in the series. No request was made of the Southern representatives to allow Joe Pate, of Fort Worth, who is also registered as a "spit" ball pitcher, to make use of this delivery. Pate it is said, "fakes" his "spitter" more often than he actually uses it.

Who's Who in National Amateur

BY INNIS BROWN

Willing, Bockenkanup, Cummings

DR. O. F. WILLING.

In spite of the fact he is near the two-score mark, Dr. O. F. Willing, of Portland, Oregon, is a post-war golfer, at least so far as a national reputation is concerned. One might go even further and say that since the beginning of the current year, the doctor has become an international figure. For all that, he did not make any serious effort at golf until since the war.

The venture of the American Walker Cup team to the British Isles was the medium of the doctor's leap to fame, and surely it was a case of "if you don't know me now, you will be a long time in forgetting me," so far as British golfers are concerned.

His first chance came in the St. George Gold Vase tournament. This is a thirty-six hole medal play affair, and at the end of the first round, Dr. Willing was leading the field. At the close of the day he found himself tied for first place with Francis Ouimet, but lost in the play-off.

Then came the British championship and with it further laurels for Willing. Such respect for his game as his showing in the St. George's Vase tournament had engendered was quickly enhanced. He went methodically about his task from the start and turned aside all opposition until the fifth round, where he encountered Roger Wethered, the eventual winner. He took Roger to the seventeenth hole before surrendering.

In the Walker Cup matches he was one of the real heroes. He was not chosen to start in the foursomes, but on the second day he was assigned eighth place on the team against W. A. Murray. Whether purposely or accidentally, his assignment proved the placing of the right man in the right place. This pair was late in finishing, due no doubt in part to the doctor, who plays very deliberately. By the time they had finished the fifteenth hole all other returns were in and the results were a tie. It was up to Willing. He proceeded to dig in. He took the sixteenth hole to become one up, and then on the treacherous seventeenth he laid a chip shot dead for a par 4 and won the hole and match, giving the American team possession of the cup.

Dr. Willing has played in but one national championship over here, that of 1921. He qualified easily and defeated Reginald M. Lewis in his first match. In the next round, he ran into Bobby Jones in one of his brilliant moods, and the doctor was stymied back of an out-going nine holes of 33 in the morning. He was never able to get back this loss.

He won the Oregon state championship last year, and has figured prominently in Pacific northwest circles for the past three years. However, in the recent championship, he was deprived of his title by Bon Stein. Dr. Willing does not rate with the mighty wallopers in the long game, but he is deadly when he gets within range of the putting greens. His mashie play is brilliant and his putting unerring. He is a fighter from first to last.

Richard Bockenkamp.

Like several others of the younger generation of high class players, Richard Bockenkamp of St. Louis first began to attract national attention as a golfer in 1919. With a record of several local achievements on the public course at Forest park, the St. Louis youngster was found among the list of those who had qualified in that championship, but he lost his first match to J. N. Stearns, Jr., on the thirty-seventh green.

This showing in his first national championship was not altogether surprising, because earlier that season he had achieved the distinction of proving the runner-up in the Western amateur and the Trans-Mississippi within successive weeks.

He did not enter the 1920 championship, but came back in 1921 at the St. Louis Country club. He qualified and won his first match, defeating Eddie Held, a companion of his early days at Forest Park. In the second round, he lost to Chick Evans by 7 and 5 in thirty-six holes.

Bockenkamp has figured more or less prominently in the Western championship for the past three yearr and not long since again finished as runner-up, whom he had eliminated in the national amateur at the St. Louis Country club, who defeated him.

Bockenkamp has held the Missouri state championship and the St. Louis district title as well on more than one occasion. His chances of winning the amateur championship at Flossmoor can hardly be said to be good. However, he looks like a pretty sure bet to qualify, and is more than likely to win his first match or two, unless he has the luck to draw one of the topnotchers right off the bat.

No. 20—Dexter Cummings.

A faith in the future materialization of promises accounts for the listing of Dexter Cummings, of Chicago, along with the notables who will take part in the approaching national amateur championship at Floosmoor. It may be added, however, that the game has seen stranger things than would result fom the cutting of quite a swath in this coming championship by young Cummings.

Up to this year, this youngster had failed to put over a victory that would convince that he had the faculty of wining, which is something else than the ability to play all strokes in golf well. In 1921, he tried out in the western amateur championship, but failed to qualify. Last year he turned in a total of 147 for the 36 holes, four strokes back of Chick Evans, who won the medal. However, he was beaten in his first match by T. B. Cochran, of Wichita Falls, Texas.

It was this year's intercollegiate champioinships which provided Cummings with his stepping stone to greater fame. Advance dope indicated that Rudolf Knepper was the logical winner, but the dope was unmindful of Cummings' ability. In the seventy-two holes of play, Cummings averaged 75 per round, which led Knepper and the field.

As advance indications had it, Knepper reached the final all right, and with him came Cummings. Most of the critics thought that in spite of the fine game he had shown, the youngster would be stopped by the Sioux City star, but when final returns were in, Cumimngs was the champion.

The promising feature about Cummings' game is that he can handle the ball. He not only hits it far, but straight, which is something else and of vastly more importance. Make no mistake about the advantage of long hitting, provided the ball stays on the fairway. The further they travel from the tee, the shorter the distance to be negotiated on the second, and the shorter the distance to be traveled with the second, the better the control that can be exerted.

Young Cumnimgs apparently has all that goes to make a great golfer. In addition to his mighty driving, he plays the rest of his shots well, and is a reasonably good putter. He lacks experience, but in spite of that fact, he may provide an anxious day for one or more of the better knoyn stars in the coming conflict.

Grid Prospects at Mercer Brighter Than Ever Before

Abundance of Material Greets Coach Robinson at Initial Practice--Many Veterans Return.

BY MILTON K. WALLACE.

Macon, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—The prospects for a winning football team at Mercer this year are much brighter than those of recent years is the concensus of opinion of the supporters of the Orange and Black. Today began the second week's grind of hard practice, both morning and afternoon workouts being held.

Forty odd candidates answered Coach Robinson's first call last Monday, nine letter men returning to the fold. The letter men to return are Poore, Felder, Herndon, Gaines, Barron, Smith, Ellison, Rice and Cecil.

An abundance of backfield material is on hand. Norman Felder, sensational little halfback from Valdosta, who attracted so much attention last year with his broken-field running, is back on the field of conflict and if anything, looks even better than he did last season.

Dave Rice, fullback of last year's crew, is looking good and has a strong bid to occupy his former berth. Captain "Kid" Cecil, who will lead the Orange and Black this year is also appearing good. The "Kid" is probably the most consistent ground gainer that Mercer has ever produced. The other backfield candidates are Bowling, Chapman, Poore and Hill.

Many Men Compete.

From present indications it would seem that there will be two men for every position, for there are few who stand head and shoulders above the other varsity candidates.

Baxter Coke, of Memphis, Tenn., is said to be the season's find for the Baptists. The elongated Tennessean is being given a trial at the guard position and is looking good. He was a candidate last year and practically had a place sewed up but was forced to quit on account of other duties.

The battle for the end positions is a merry one. "Consuello" Smith, three-letter-man, is back on the scene and it is conceded that his berth is already made. The battle for the other end is being waged between Sid Ellison, Joe McClain and "Julius Caesar" Wood.

Three Players Sold.

Richmond, Va., September 17.—The sale of Nelson Greene, southpaw pitcher; H. B. Malonee, outfielder, and Abie Hood, shortstop, to the Brooklyn Nationals, was announced today by the Richmond, Virginia league club. Greene and Malonee were with the Colts throughout the season just ended, while Hood played with Greeneville of the Appalachian league. They will report to the Dodgers in the spring under an optional agreement to be returned to Richmond if they fail to make the major league grade.

Player Suspended.

Chicago, September 17.—Suspension for the rest of the National league season was the sentence handed Cliff Heathcote, Chicago outfielder, by President John Heydler today. In the fourth inning of yesterday's game with the New York Giants, Heathcote was called out by Umpire Charles Moran while attempting to steal second base. Heathcote grabbed Moran by the shoulder in arguing over the play, and from the grandstand and bleachers volleys of pop bottles were directed at the umpire. Heydler, who was here for the memorial services for "Pop" Anson, was in the grandstand at the time.

"Fight film on your teeth daily"
No prettier teeth without that

Do you know that leading dentists all the world over now advise a new way of teeth cleaning? They urge people to fight film.

Millions of careful people follow that advice. You see the results in whiter teeth wherever you go today.

The offers you a ten-day test to show what that method means.

What film does

Film is that viscous coat you feel. Much of it resists the tooth brush, clings and stays.

Soon that film discolors, then forms dingy coats. That's how white teeth lose luster.

Film also causes most tooth troubles. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Few people who brush teeth in old ways escape some film-caused trouble.

Two better ways

Dental science has found two ways to fight that film. One acts to disintegrate the film at all stages of formation. The other removes it without harmful scouring.

Those methods were subjected to many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Now careful people of some 50 nations employ it, largely by dental advice.

Far cleaner teeth

Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, also its starch digestant. One is there to neutralize acids, the other to digest starch deposits. Every use of Pepsodent gives them manifold effect.

That means far cleaner teeth. And they come without harm to enamel, without harsh grit.

These things are bringing a new era in teeth cleaning. You see the results in whiter teeth among careful people everywhere. Now we urge that you obtain them for the people in your home.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Asheville Engineer Says He Thought The End Was Near.

B. C. BRYSON

B. C. Bryson, 150 Westwood Place, Asheville, N. C., for nearly twenty years an engineer on the Southern Railroad, recently had the following to say regarding his remarkable experience with the Tanlac treatment:

"In my opinion Tanlac is the best stomach medicine and tonic money can buy. Five bottles have brought me complete relief from a case of indigestion that had troubled me for ten years.

"I was troubled after eating with heartburn, gas, smothering sensations, pains about my heart, and often could not keep down anything I would eat. Most every night I would walk the floor, being too nervous to sleep, and my health had become so wretched that I was sometimes forced to lay off from my work for two weeks at a stretch. To tell the truth, I got in such a bad fix that I made up my mind I hadn't much longer to live.

"In my case Tanlac has come up to every good word I ever heard and read about it. Every sign of indigestion has left me, I eat anything I want, sleep like a log and am in first-class condition in every way. I certainly have the best of reasons for praising Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Historic Kenmore Receives Visit From Virginia Legion

Horace Smith, Jr., Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, Mrs. Vivian Minor Fleming (formerly Miss Emily White, of Athens, Ga.), president of the Kenmore Association, and Captain Gunyon Harrison, of Post 55, standing in front of the mantel at Kenmore, in Fredericksburg, Va., specially designed by George Washington in the house of his brother-in-law, Fielding Lewis, who made the first American guns. When the American Legion of Virginia was entertained Kenmore was opened on this occasion for its first public reception.

BY MARTHA GOODE ANDERSON

An event of patriotic interest and social importance was the reception given at Kenmore, in Fredericksburg, Va., at which members of the American Legion of Virginia were guests of honor. As is well known, Kenmore is the beautiful estate which was rescued one year ago by a few determined women with the vision of what it would mean to future generations. It was once owned by the kinsman of the man who invented the machine gun (Col. I. N. Lewis).

The project is of especial interest in Atlanta, as the president of the Kenmore association is Mrs. Vivian Minor Fleming, formerly Miss Emily White, of Athens, with whom the idea originated.

To Preserve Traditions

There was never a more enthusiastic gathering of men and women who had worked together at home and abroad to preserve the traditions of a great country. It is noteworthy that Colonel Fielding Lewis, owner and builder of Kenmore, had made the first American gun and his picture, which hung on the wall, seemed to smile a welcome on the men whose guns had won the World war.

The receiving line was composed of officers of the Kenmore association and of the D. A. R. They were prepared to receive about 500 guests and the scene was highly picturesque, blending as did the past and present—the soldiers of the present day American army foregather ing in the home of America's greatest chief, for Washington is said to have spent much of his time here.

The forms of the soldiers were silhouetted against the orange light streaming through the mullioned windows, and one glimpsed the past commander of the national legion and many other officers. Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis was a guest of honor.

Betty Washington's Home

This mansion of Betty Washington Lewis (George Washington's sister), being the only Washington home uncared for by any patriotic society, or appreciative owner, was on the verge of being cut up into building lots, a sort of architectural orphan, which extended pleading hands for the right to be rescued from the fate of a tenement entourage. Its association with Washington with Rochambeau, with Lafayits appeal. Its beautiful mural decorations, designed by Washington, and executed by Hessian soldiers, who were prisoners at the time, strengthened it's claim to recognition, while its matchless colonial architecture aroused an appreciative and protective spirit in the women who banded together, and set to work enlisting interest in all sections of the country, until, in one year, $17,000 was collected—a little more than half the purchase price.

The salvaging of Kenmore has stirred the imagination of all those who are affected by a fight against odds—a few women making a heroic stand to save one of the most historic places in America; and because Washington was a national character, to make of this place a national shrine.

Notables Are Interested!

The interest taken in it is most gratifying. The work was made the subject of a beautiful speech in Fredricksburg last year by Calvin R. Coolidge, now president of the United States, who said: "Kenmore should be saved for its own sake, but it must be saved for the sake of patriotic America."

Charles Moore, commissioner of fine arts in Washington; Irvin Cobb, John Barton Payne, Mark Sullivan, Henry VanDyke, and many others have given it the stamp of their approval, and have added to its significance by doing things to further its success.

It is impossible to speak of Kenmore in terms of materialism, as its associations give to it an overtone of romance, but one is tempted to say that its situation on the Dixie highway, between Fredericksburg and Washington, makes it one of the most accessible of places.

PAR CLEARANCE GETS MOST TIME

Washington, September 17.—The Federal Reserve board's advisory council spent half of its first meeting of the fall session today with a discussion of the controversial par clearance question, but when it adjourned tonight members declared little progress had been made and there was no indication of the form of recommendation that may be made. The problem of dealing with banks whic hfail to adhere to the voluntary free collection system appeared no easier for the council to solve than it has been for the board.

Besides the question of par clearance, the council took up half a dozen items affecting the mechanical end of the banking business, but all, it appeared, were laid aside for further discussion.

Members at Variance.

Views of the various council members on the par clearance question were said not to be unanimous. The so-called Claiborne-Adams plan for a regional free collection system within each reserve district was laid before the council by Acting Governor Platt of the reserve board. It was this program that apparently held off action by the board after it had decided several months ago to invoke "Regulation J," its own ruling, which would have placed a penalty on the business of banks not members of the reserve system but whose checks passed through reserve banks.

The question of limitation upon branch banking was not touched today, it was said, and there were indications that it may go over until the end of the meeting with the remote possibility that it will not be discussed at all at this session. The tendency seemed to be to await the decision of the supreme court in a case now on the docket before any policy is suggested.

BARBER IS CLEARED OF MORSE COMPLICITY

New York, September 17.—William A. Barber, former attorney general of South Carolina, today was cleared of complicity in the Charles W. Morse case when Federal Judge Hutcheson dismissed the indictment returned against him April 27, 1922.

What Women Wear

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE

Pockets, Little and Big, Real or Fake, Are Used to Decorate the Straight, Scant Frocks of Autumn. Show Pockets that Are Not Real—real pockets that did not show. Such is the mode of today and the mode of Victorian days.

You may not remember it, but the old-time pocket was a very convenient contraption—with the opening cleverly hidden on one side of the seam of a voluminous gathered or gored skirt. There was skill in the making of such pockets. They were made of cotton lining to give them strength and lined with silk to give them elegance, and then given an inch facing of the material of which the skirt was made, so that the pocket might be as inconspicuous as possible. Every frock had a pocket, but the opening were deep and grew wider with their depth. Not lipstick, rouge and a cigarette case, but peppermint drops, a volume of Byron and a bottle of smelling salts were stowed away in these nineteenth century substitutes for the present-day bag.

Some of the pockets are what the dressmaker calls "pocket effects." They haven't even a slit at the top, or if they have it is tucked shut so as to remove the temptation of making use of it. Sometimes a corner of a gay handkerchief is thrust into one of these pockets, but then the handkerchief like the pocket is purely decorative.

One of the cleverest ideas in the use of pockets for autumn is to have two of them, one on the bodice and one right below on the skirt. The sketch shows how this idea is carried out with embroidered tasseled pockets in a blue serge frock. Bernard, of all French dressmakers, has been most prodigal in the use of pockets. Suits, wraps, coat frocks, all seem to have a pocket or two. Sometimes the "pocket" is simply a band of fur sewed where a pocket would normally be. That is all.

In the rivalry between the straight, scant frock and the frock of bouffant dimensions, which is still going on, the pocket plays an interesting role. If the wide full skirt of our grandmothers does eventually return, then, no doubt, the old-time pocket, will return, too. So far it has not been evident, though in some of the new fur wraps a pocket with a vertical slash for an opening is placed at the right side. This is not visible save when the right hand is thrust into it, the left hand being used as it has been for some seasons to hold the fur wrap together at the front.

Smart arrangement of pockets, one above the other, for blue serge frock. Pockets and collar are embroidered.

A GOOD MODEL FOR MATURE FIGURES

4486. The combination of plain and striped material here portrayed is very appropriate for this style. The long lines and "V" shaped vest are especially becoming to women of mature figure. Ratine and linen or gingham and chambray could be used for this model.

The pattern is cut in seven sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size requires 5 3-8 yards of one material 36 inches wide. To make as illustrated requires 2 yards of plain material and a 3-8 yards of striped material. The width at the foot is 2 1-4 yards.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

The HOUSEHOLD

HOW TO DRESS YOUR BOY.

On the one hand there is the boy who yearns passionately to dress like a man—neckties, stiff collars, long trousers and all.

On the other hand, there you are, his mother, who realize that the little boy dressed like a big boy or the big boy dressed like a man looks second rate.

Of course it is pointless cruelty to insist on a boy's wearing clothes that he hates, but it is just as foolish to let him select clothes that make him look hoodlumish. Usually you can find common ground of approval. You will find for instance that little boys have an enormous liking for "pants' pockets." It is a simple enough matter to add these to suits that do not possess them. Examine a ready-made suit and you will see that they are simple to make.

Little boys also usually like suits showing the combination of light shirt and dark trousers. This they think looks like "big men's clothes." It is easy enough to make suits of this sort. A small remnant of any sort of firm white material will make the blouse and an equally small amount of kindergarten cloth, galatea or firm linen will make the trousers.

Neckties are usually coveted by little boys, but necktics are annoying to the mother or nurse who must keep track of the little boy's clothes. They are sure to become spotted with food. At meals one must be forever warning: "Tommy, do look out; your tie is going right into your soup." And then the ties on sailor suits are of the sort, usually, that have to be pinned in at either side. They must be sewed or pinned in after each washing.

So if possible effect a compromise. Promise pockets galore if ties may be omitted. There are middy blouses and sailor suits to be had that have a lacer in the front instead of the tie, and these should be the ones selected. And little sport blouses are worn without ties. Just remind the little boy that when men wear sport shirts they omit the tie also.

BEAUTY CHATS

ANSWERED LETTERS.

Reader: Any exercises that elongate the spinal column and make the muscles of the back more supple will tend toward adding to the height. The exercises you mention are all very good for this purpose.

E. M. S.: Fever blisters come from impurities in the system, either from a bad digestion or a cold. In the latter case, the whole system is poisoned because of the depleted action of the skin, and the fever blister is one of nature's ways of relieving the system. Peroxide will help bleach the scar left from these blisters.

Clipping the ends of the hair will help it grow stronger. The sulphur that you are using on your scalp must be good for it, or it would not follow that your hair is so improved by it; in fact, many hair tonics have a little sulphur in them. Shampoo about once in three weeks.

Bobbie: It sometimes takes several treatments to entirely destroy the roots of superfluous hair, but usually one treatment with the electric needle will kill the hair follicle.

M. E. F.: An oily skin usually indicates a sluggish condition of the digestive organs. Pimples and blackheads follow naturally. Some help may be gained by treating the trouble locally but the only way to overcome it is to get at the cause for it. A good ointment or a cream in which there is some sulphur will purify and help heal the pimples. A simple astringent like witch hazel will relieve the oiliness and the blackheads will yield some through cleansing the pores.

Pandora: There is no way to make the eyes any larger than they are by nature.

Pale Face: An astigmatism is a defect in the formation of the eye. It is generally supposed that there is no cure for it, but the defect in vision through it is easily corrected in glasses.

Mrs. Anna J.: A calorie, when used in speaking of food, is a measurement of value, meaning heat producing or vitality. When deciding just what amount of nourishment you need, use the average number of 1200 calories that most people need in a day, and experiment with this watching your weight. If you are overweight then, take a lesser number of calories each day for a time.

Mildred M.: The white spots that appear sometimes upon the nails are deposits of lime. The cause for them is supposed to be a lack of circulation. A paste made of equal parts of pitch and myrrh will bleach them off. Rub the paste into the nails at night and wear loose gloves to protect the bed linen. A little oil will remove the paste from the finger tips next morning.

E. J. M.: I am very sorry, but I do not know any place where you could sell the dark brown hair switch.

Tomorrow: Comfortable Feet.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Reception at Woman's Club Will Be Given This Evening

The Blue Bird orchestra, composed of a group of young Atlanta men, will compliment new members of the Atlanta Woman's club with their music at a reception this evening. Members of the organization have expressed great pleasure in being able to cooperate with the organization. A varied program will be given and the orchestra will be presented to guests of the occasion by J. A. Harris, director.

In the absence of Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, the president, Mrs. Norman Sharp, first vice president, will be official hostess. Guests will be received in the banquet hall by officers of the club and the hospitality committee, with several others who have assisted in arrangements for the entertainment. All members of the club and their husbands are invited, as are members of the junior insurance group of Mrs. Capers Andrews' committee.

Miss Edna Horine will be seen in her interpretation of the peacock dance, which will be an artistic feature of the entertainment. Miss Horine is an Atlanta girl who has pursued her studies in dancing for several years, having become one of the most artistic dancers in the south. She studied under Mrs. William Clare Spiker of this city and Alexis Kosloff, of New York, noted Russian instructor of dancing.

Following the musical program and the dancing, a new film production will be staged by the Savini Motion Picture corporation as a courtesy to the club. The name of the picture is withheld as a surprise to the audience.

Those of the hospitality committee who will assist the officers in receiving members of the club are: Mrs. Wilmer Moore, chairman; Mrs. Bun Wylie, Mrs. Christian Clarke, Mrs. T. T. Stevens, Mrs. Charles Phillips, Mrs. Kellum Melton, Mrs. Harry Goodhart, Mrs. J. A. Carlisle, Mrs. Frank McCormack, Mrs. O. H. Matthews, Mrs. B. M. Striplin, Mrs. John R. Hornady, Mrs. E. M. Miss Helen Artley Is Honor Guest At Birthday Party

Mrs. Allen Artley was hostess Monday afternoon, at her home on East North avenue, in compliment to her young daughter, Miss Helen Artley, in celebration of her seventh birthday.

The rooms where the little guests were received were attractive in decorations of yellow marigolds and white asters.

Little Miss Artley wore a dainty frock of white net, trimmed in pink ribbons.

The table in the dining room was overlaid with a cover of lace and adorned in the center by a birthday cake, bearing seven lighted yellow tapers.

Various games were enjoyed by the little guests and attractive and appropriate prizes were given.

Invited to meet the young honor guest were Misses Mary and Virginia Hart, of Lakeland, Fla; Misses Laura Troutman, Ida Akers, Martha Ewing, Dorothy Ewing, Helen Cay Parker, Courtney Rucker, of Savannah; Mary Barili, Esther Grace Schaeffer, Helen Sinkler and Emogene Artley, Jean Hardwick, Robert White, William Akers, Alfred Barili and James Branch.

Dr. and Mrs. Newton Are Complimented.

Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Newton, who have recently returned from Japan after a long period of service there, and are the guests of their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Underwood, were complimented with a large reception Monday afternoon given by the members of St. Mark's Methodist church.

Fall flowers were used in the decoration of the church rooms. Tea was served from a long table overlaid with a lace cover which held in the center a large silver basket filled with asters.

The decorations were in charge of Mrs. S. Clifton Orr and her committee; Mrs. W. O. Foote, assisted by her committee, served punch.

Receiving with Dr. and Mrs. Newton were Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Mitchell.

Tech Woman's Club Holds Meeting.

The Georgia Tech Woman's club met Friday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. A. B. Morton, on Highland View.

After a short business meeting, called to order by the president, Mrs. J. W. Watters, the meeting was turned over to the hostesses, Mrs. Morton, Mrs. Cannon, Mrs. Jermess and Mrs. Jefferies, who had arranged a musical program.

After the program the social hour was opened, greeting each other and meeting the new members.

DAILY CALENDAR OF SOCIAL EVENTS

Rev. A. G. Shankle Is Given Birthday Party.

An interesting affair of recent date was the miscellaneous shower given Rev. A. G. Shankle, at Grace church. The recreation room was lighted with vari-colored lights, the tables, from which a lovely dinner was served, being decorated with many bright colored flowers, while the pastor's table held a beautifully decorated birthday cake.

A most interesting program was enjoyed and during the evening Mrs. Shankle was presented with a handsome bouquet lamp, after which a wagon, containing numerous gifts, was drawn in by little Mr. Hogue, whose birthday was also celebrated.

Talks were made by several church members and many good wishes extended Mr. and Mrs. Shankle, who have endeared themselves to Grace church.

Teachers Will Be Entertained.

Quitman, Ga., September 17.—Much interest centers this week in the reception which is to be given the city school teachers at the country club Friday evening. Every Friday evening the members of the club carry out basket suppers and an informal program of music, cards and dancing is enjoyed. Next Friday evening 30 or 40 teachers will be the guests of honor and the club officers and members will be their hosts. An elaborate program has been arranged for the occasion.

Writers' Club Will Give Dinner.

The Atlanta Writers' club will meet for the first club dinner of the season on Tuesday, September 18, 7 p. m., at the Burns Cottage.

Reservations are limited to eighty, accepted in the order received. None will be accepted after 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. Reservations will be made through Dudley R. Cowles, Walnut 3379. Plate $1.00, to be paid at door.

Speakers for the evening will be J. B. Nevin, Harry Stillwell Edwards, Fuzzy Woodruff and Loyd Wilhoit.

Mrs. Daman To Entertain For Daughter

Mrs. Cuno Daman will entertain at an informal swimming party and tea dance Saturday afternoon at the Brookhaven Country club for her daughter, Miss Margaret Kemp.

Mrs. Daman and Miss Kemp have given up their apartment on West Peachtree street and are occupying Mrs. Fitzhugh Lee's country place, Mon Repos, at Marietta during Mrs. Lee's absence in Texas. Mrs. Lee, who has been spending the summer in Marietta, is leaving to join Colonel Fitzhugh Lee, who is in command of the Seventh Cavalry at Fort Bliss, El Paso, Texas.

Psychology Talk This Afternoon.

A lecture of unusual interest and benefit will be given by Mrs. Rose Mae Ashby, psychologist, Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the assembly room of the Carnegie library. The subject will be "The Basic Laws of Life." Mrs. Ashby will interpret the application of these laws in every day affairs in life.

Both men and women who are interested are invited to attend.

Mrs. Charles M. Jerome Discusses Art Lectures

Mrs. Charles M. Jerome, chairman of art of the Atlanta Woman's club, in commenting on the art lectures to be given by the art department of the club, says: "In presenting this course of lecturers by Mrs. Hinman on 'The Evolution and Philosophy of Modern Art,' the art department of the Atlanta Woman's club feels that it is not only offering cultural and educational opportunity to those who will avail themselves, but that in thus giving of its time, talents and money, it is doing valuable constitutive civic work that is worthy of substantial support of all who are interested in the betterment of our city, and the building of a future Atlanta that will accord with the highest ideals of good citizenship and substantial, practical education.

"That knowledge and appreciation of the work of our best American artists should be confined to a small group of art lovers is as mistaken an idea as would be the suggestion that only a few chosen ones should be given the opportunity to hear the opera and concert stars which visit us each season, or that books by our finest authors should be available only to a few intellectuals. Because a painter's work is difficult and expensive of transportation, but he and the public, outside the large art centers, are deprived;;; the of a deserved clientelle, and the public of the pleasure and privilege of enjoying good pictures, which are an essential element in the furnishing of a home in good taste, and a broadening factor in the appreciation of the beautiful and good in life.

"Until the city, some individual or organized group provides a municipal art museum, our little gallery affords the only suitably lighted place in which to show paintings. It is always open to the public free of charge, and we are happy to carry on.

"Funds from the lecturers will be devoted to bringing exhibitions from our best American painters to Atlanta, and we are trusting for the response they deserve.

"The series of six lecturers begins Tuesday morning, September 18, at 10.30 o'clock at the Woman's club. The fee is $1.50 for the course."

Miss Goldsmith to Wed Mr. Knox.

Mr. and Mrs. William Harper Glenn have issued invitations to the marriage of their niece, Miss Mariana Turner Goldsmith, to John Sumerville Knox, on Wednesday, October 3, at 9 o'clock in the evening at 1120 Peachtree street.

New Striped Coats

Dashing Stripes! Subdued Plaids!
Fur Collared with Badger and Red Fox
THE Coats Seen All Along Fifth Ave.!

—Where is the woman who has not longed for a coat of this new silhouette—the long, slim style developed of IMPORTED plaids and stripes—soft, woolly and warm—the coat that "goes" with everything!

—Splendid fabrics! Notice this fact, and consider it well, after you exclaim over the smartness of the styles, and the price! Perhaps you KNOW what these materials cost by the yard. Next, think of the becoming effect of fluffy, flattering badger fur, RED FOX, or raccoon. You'll take a second glance at the price, to be sure there is no mistake!

—For motor! For general wear! See pictures of them above. The tall woman will probably be most interested in the ones with stripes running round and round, or the plaids; the shorter woman will like the stripes running up and down—for well she knows how stripes add to her height.

—Tall or short—no THOUGHTFUL woman will let today slip by without investigating this Fashion Event No. 9!

Miss Pauline Ware entertained informally Monday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Ware, on Piedmont avenue, in compliment to her guest, Miss Mary Page Melvin, of Selma, Ala.

Bridge was played in the reception rooms, which were attractive in decorations of pink roses and ferns. Supper was served at the conclusion of the game at the individual tables, which were adorned in the center by slender vases of pink rosebuds.

Miss Ware received her guests wearing a gown of light blue crepe, braded in crystals.

Miss Melvin wore a gown of nile green, trimmed in silver lace.

Twenty friends were invited to meet the charming guest of honor.

Miss Melvin will be honored with a series of parties this week.

Mrs. T. R. Fraser will entertain this afternoon at a sewing party for Miss Melvin and Mrs. G. I. Siler, of LaFayette, Ala.

Commercial High Faculty Luncheon.

The annual luncheon given at the Atlanta Woman's club on Saturday, by the faculty of the Commercial High school was in honor of their new members. Mrs. Wise, the principal of the school, who has recently returned from France, gave an enthusiastic account of her travels.

Luncheon was served in the banquet hall of the club, where the forty-six guests were seated at long tables, decorated with roses and baskets of autumn flowers. Miss Marian Nelson welcomed the new teachers into the faculty. Mr. Counselman responded for the new members. The guests were Mr. Gaines, president of the board of education; Mr. Sutton, superintendent of schools; Mr. Hunter, assistant superintendent; Mr. Bixler, director of vocational guidance; Mrs. Ellison, president of the Parent-Teacher association, of Commercial High and Mrs. Milam, secretary.

Mrs. Wise gave an account of her European trip. As guests of the American committee for devastated France, her party inspected the work of rehabilitation now being done by this committee, visiting town after town in France, where a royal welcome was accorded them.

In addition to the honor guests the following members of the Commercial High faculty were present: Miss Baker, Miss Burtchaell, Mrs. Winkler, Mrs. Waddill, Miss Lawrence, Miss Green, Miss Williams, Miss Severence, Miss Steinheimer, Miss Sinclair, Miss Pierce, Miss Fletcher, Miss Barnwell, Miss Cunningham, Miss Parks, Miss Carlton, Miss Converse, Mrs. Colvin, Miss Powell, Mrs. Rawls, Miss Thompson, Miss Barker, Miss Smith, Miss Bale, Miss Oliver, Miss Duffee, Miss Aiken, Miss Gardner, Miss Wootten, Mr. Tillery, Mr. Park, Mr. Dennard, Mr. Counselman, Mr. Boswell.

Delegates Chosen To Attend Fifth District Meeting

Mrs. Norman Sharp, first vice president of the Atlanta Woman's club, has appointed ten members of the club as official delegates to the Fifth District meeting, at Lithonia, Thursday, September 20.

These representatives will meet at the Georgian Terrace at 9 o'clock, on the morning of the twentieth, and motor through the country to Lithonia, which is about 30 miles from Atlanta. The meeting opens at 1:30 o'clock, in the lecture hall of the Lithonia Methodist church, the first session lasting until noon, when a luncheon will be served to the visitors by the two federated clubs of Lithonia.

The following members of the Woman's club will attend as delegates: Mrs. Norman Sharp, Mrs. H. H. Goodhart, Mrs. James P. Williams, Mrs. William Dunn, Mrs. J. P. Billups, Mrs. P. M. Striplin, Mrs. A. P. Treadwell, Mrs. John R. Hornady, Mrs. George Turner, Mrs. Cleve Webb, Mrs. Norman Poole.

Mrs. Sharp urges all members of the Women's club to attend the meeting, assuring them that much inspiration may be gained by the reports of other clubs, as well as much valuable information gathered concerning the plans and workings of the federation.

El Paso Wedding Is of Interest in Local Society

The marriage of Mrs. A. L. Crowley and Edward C. Brinkmeyer, which took place in El Paso, Texas, Thursday, September 13, is of interest in Atlanta, the home of the bride.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Chamberlain at the priests' residence of St. Patrick's Cathedral in the presence of a few close friends.

Miss Katherine Burdett was maid of honor and Adolph Smith was the best man. During the ceremony Miss Teresa Torpey played "I Love You" on the piano.

The bride wore a gown of Havana brown canton crepe heavily beaded in a floral design with henna and steel beads. Her hat was of gold lace trimmed with metallic cloth flowers of rose and blue. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Her ornament was a handsome necklace of pearls, the gift of the groom.

Miss Burdett wore a white georgette, with a bandeau of braided silver. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses, tied with pink tulle streamers.

After the ceremony dinner was served at the Hotel Pasodel Norte.

Mr. and Mrs. Brinkmeyer will make their home at the Gardner hotel in El Paso. Mrs. Brinkmeyer has been in El Paso for but a short time. Mr. Brinkmeyer is in business in El Paso.

Orchestras Answer Query--- "What Do the People Want?"

BY LOUISE DOOLY.

Atlanta orchestra fans, looking forward to the opening of a symphony season October 7, will be interested to know that Providence, R. I., is so elated over its incipient orchestra that it even gets jocose on the subject, and is willing to quote Eugene Fields, who said once:

"Cast if you will your pearls of thought before the western hog—
But never go to Providence to try it on the dog"

Of course, the lines were written many years ago, the editor carefully explains who makes the quotation, dating it back to the days when Providence had about as much culture as Chicago did before the time of Theodore Thomas and the Chicago Orchestra.

Yet, the Providence editor points out, while Philip D. Armour was making the proud boast that he coined into dollars everything in the hog's anatomy save the grunt, already enough "feeling for culture" was pushing its way through the packing house atmosphere to guarantee, and before many years to make actually popular, Theodore Thomas' once "visionary ideal" of symphony orchestra music for the pleasure of "the peepul."

While the Providence editor's commentary is on the cultural aspect your ochestra's value to a city, much space is being given likewise by the newspapers and magazines of the country to the matter of financial support of orchestras in small cities.

Increase in Number.

The matter may well engage a general attention in view of the astonishing rise in the number of symphony orchestras, formerly the privilege of only a few larger cities, and in these cases usually subsidized by a single rich man or a group of the rich, but now the boast also of many cities of population not much larger than Atlanta's.

One of the most interesting situations of any orchestra is that of the Rochester, N. Y., organization, supported, as it is well known, by George Eastman, the kodak king.

Mr. Eastman would question the accuracy of the "support" term in the last statement. He prefers to say that his motion picture business supports the symphony orchestra. The popular partonage of the movies which he exhibits, together with the fact that his movie theater houses and the concerts will in the time of the orchestra players, makes the symphony orchestra possible without loss.

Seeks No Profit.

Mr. Eastman is not seeking profit out of either, except in so far as the returns from the movies and its orchestra must pay, at least in part, the expense of the symphonic property.

Here it might be interpolated that the Atlanta project for a symphony orchestra resembles Rochester's in one respect: Namely, that the courtesy extended by Southern Enterprise, Inc., in the use of the Howard theater for the forthcoming symphony concerts will be a large supporting factor in the success of the Atlanta orchestra.

Quite different from the Rochester project, but, one might say, even more enterprising is the movement which was inaugurated last spring, and will push forward this fall to provide a symphony orchestra for Orlando, Fla., a town of ten thousand population in the winter. Sheer ambition for an orchestra; or more accurately speaking, desire for symphony music, on the part of one woman, a member of the music club, and the inspiration she put into the musical people of the little city, effected an organization of twenty-seven pieces to start with. The promoters of the orchestra are actually inducing musicians living in other Florida resort cities to move to Orlando, with the orchestra as bait, and the Orlando Chamber of Commerce has received letters during the summer from northern people expecting to take up their home in Florida, who had become interested in Orlando as a place of residence through articles about the new orchestra in the musical magazines.

Educational Value.

Mr. Eastman believes so thoroughly in the educational value of the symphony orchestra, but at the same time disbelieves so strongly in actually giving something for nothing, that one reson he went into the motion picture business in Rochester was to make the Rochester people indirectly provide their own orchestra.

The Orlando Chamber of Commerce is backing the Orlando orchestra because it already had evidence that it will bring a desirable class of new residents to that city.

Finally, Atlanta will be obliged to listen with interest, if she is willing to listen at all, to the words of Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld, managing director of the Rialto, Rivoli and Criterion theaters, of New York (motion picture houses), who is quoted by the Musical Digest concerning the kind of music people want and certainly he should know. He intimates that it is no longer popular to boast of one's bad taste in music; that the public, in fact, has developed good taste. He is talking of New York city, but what New York does and thinks, the rest of the country is not slow in doing and thinking.

Change in Past Year.

"There has been a curious change in the past year," Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld said. "I don't quite understand it, but still . . . you know we can't play the old chestnuts here any more. Every performance of the Rienzi overture or the 1812 used to bring down the house. Now they are just tolerated. Not because the music is not intrinsically good, but because, like the concert audiences, the movie public has had just a little too much of them.

"The sure-fire stuff does'nt go over any more. The people like the quieter music, Rossini, old French and Italian compositions. Or the moderns, Richard Strauss, for example. In songs the change in taste is even more marked and argues a developing discrimination. They don't want the melodramatic Italian and French operatic arias today. They want simple songs, ballads, in English. I am very glad of it. I believe that when a people begins to demand music sung in its own language, it means that the interest in music is going deeper, the audience wants to know what it is about."

"Do you know," continued Dr. Riesenfeld, "that often when the picture is not good, and they have not been very good lately, people come to hear the music. We do not give a symphony orchestra program, but we play good music which they can enjoy . . . Beethoven. Wagner, Tschaikowsky. Take the Pathique, for instance. If we see the Pathetique on a concert program we don't go to the concert naturally, because we are tired of hearing it. That doesn't mean that it isn't beautiful music. And a movie audience, remember, hasn't heard it often enough to tire of it."

Movie Music.

And remember, all of this comment of Dr. Riesenfeld's is concerned with music in the motion picture houses.

Since that is so, need we continue to harp on the old bromide (which was indeed once true) that "the peepul" don't want good music? And if other cities of Atlanta's size can have their own orchestra, need Atlanta, which is the only city annually guaranteeing the Metropolitan Opera company a week's engagement, and well patronizing the most sensational concert artists; need Atlanta push herself about the popular response to the still open subscription tests for a symphony orchestra season? We believe in Atlanta's faith in herself, as well as her appreciation, of a good thing when she sees it. The symphony orchestra is in sight. It is a good thing. Atlanta, therefore, will support it.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Use the Older Ones.

Always use your oldest eggs for hard-boiling. The shells on strictly fresh eggs will stick to the whites and make them difficult to peel.

Keeps Them Sorted.

Put the small, dainty articles into a pillow case before putting them in the electric washer. Then they will not constantly get mixed with the larger pieces and lose time for the laundress.

Borax for Blondes.

As much borax as can be got on a 25-cent silver coin added to a gallon of water is a good rinse for fair-haired lassies. It will bring out all the lights in blonde hair without injuring the hair.

Pithy Thoughts.

Buy ground coffee in small quantities, as it loses its flavor.

A pinch of salt is a decided improvement to peanut brittle.

The slice of fried ham is done when the fat has turned to a deep brown.

"I regard Loveridge as the greatest intellectual force among women in Atlanta," is the designation applied to her by Mrs. H. M. Nicholes, when invited to lend her support to this method of raising money for Tallulah Falls industrial school. "I expect to attend not only because of the federation school fund, but because I cannot fail to receive personal benefit from Dr. Loveridge's teaching."

"She always makes life sweeter and people better," is the beautiful encomium of Dr. Loveridge offered by Mrs. Cleve Webb, and subscribed to by the influential group of women sponsoring the lectures.

Tickets may be purchased at the door on Tuesday morning for $2 for the series or 75 cents for each lecture. Lectures will be given at Carnegie library in the assembly room at 11 o'clock each Tuesday morning, beginning September 18.

AMERICAN PROFESSOR WILL BECOME PEER

London, September 17.—Lord Exmouth, formerly Professor Charles Ernest Pellew, of Columbia university, has notified the authorities that he intends to take out English citizenship papers and that he will exercise his right to sit in the house of lords. It will be necessary, however, for him to establish a five years' residence in England before he can become a British subject and can take his seat.

No Trouble to Keep Skin Free From Hairs

(The Modern Beauty)

There is no need for any woman to countenance superfluous hairs, because with a paste made by mixing some powdered delatone with water it is easy to get rid of them. The paste is applied for 2 to 8 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed. This treatment will rid the skin of hair without leaving a blemish, but care should be taken to see that you get real delatone. Mix fresh as wanted. —(adv.)

WOMAN SO ILL COULD NOT WORK

Gained Strength, Weight, and Now Doing Own Work by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Marion, Ind.—"I was all run-down, nervous and bent over. I could hardly drag around, let alone do my work. I read some letters in the papers telling what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others and I thought I would try it. Then a man told my husband about his wife and what good it had done her and wanted him to have me try it. I took one bottle and could see what it did for me in a week's time, and when I had taken three bottles I had gained both in strength and weight and was doing my own work. I took it before my last baby was born and it helped me so much. I sure am glad to recommend the Vegetable Compound to any woman who suffers from female ailments, for I know by experience what it can do. I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, also the Liver Pills, too, and think them fine."—Mrs. WM. ELDRIDGE, 620 E. Grant Street, Marion, Indiana.

A record of nearly fifty years service should convince you of the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

CHAPTER LXXX.

The Heartbreak of Misunderstanding.

Gloria went back to her own apartment, all thought of food forgotten. What would Larry think now? Of course he would not understand. She had decided that nobody ever did understand when you most wanted them to. Larry was better than most people, but she did not dare to hope that he would realize that she had not wanted to talk with Morton Phelps down there in the lobby of the hotel.

"I don't want to stay here any longer," she told herself, disconsolately. "I'll simply have to stay somewhere else." And she went down the little hall that led to Valerie's room. She must pack the things that were all about, and feeling as she did there would be some consolation in being even more miserable.

She felt very sorry for herself. She had been dreading getting Valerie's belongings together, but now it seemed the only thing that she wanted to do; it made her feel even more abused than she had before.

Valerie's room was much upset, her black lace negligee, with its long silver ribbons, was thrown across the foot of the bed. A pair of tiny black mules with red heels stood in the middle of the floor, and nearby was a pile of black lingerie, with tiny silver rosebuds. A cloth of gold evening wrap with great brocaded flowers of flaming crimson trailed its vivid length over the chair that stood in front of the dressing table. On the table itself, which usually was as immaculate as if it had belonged in a hospital operating room, was a litter of small belongings that Valerie had evidently thought of packing and then discarded at the last moment. Two cigarette holders, one of black jade with bands of small emeralds, the other of dull blue enamel, lay beside a dainty cigarette case; a cut glass bottle of perfume had tipped over and deluged both case and holders. There were piles of handkerchiefs, beautifully monogrammed; veil pins, strings of beads, several lipsticks in dainty enamel holders; hatpins with heads of crystal, jade, and amber. And tossed over the whole melee was a long, airy scarf of orchid-colored tulle, weighted at the ends with amethyst tassels. It would itself about the dressing table as Valerie had delicately would her enchanting charm and beauty about the men whom she sought to use in gaining her one great desire—to free her husband from prison.

There were other things, too, that brought the tears to Gloria's eyes—a small, wooly lamb, with well-chewed ears; a small shoe, the size of a baby foot; three little gold buttons, fastened together with a fine chain, such as are used to fasten a baby's frock.

Gloria broke down and cried over those reminders of the baby who had snuggled down in her arms so contentedly; cried not so much for the baby as for Valerie, and for herself. She felt very old and very lonely; the fact that she was still in her 'teens made no difference, she told herself. She was older than many women of thirty! And there was nothing in the world that she wanted to do—nothing!

Gloria wept as she packed the belongings of Valerie and the baby.

"Probably that's the way lots of careers start," she reflected, drying her eyes at last. "Women find out that life isn't really worth living unless you do something that keeps you too busy to think. Well, that's what I'll do—only I don't see what it'll be."

She thought over the women she had met who did things. There were the actresses—remembering the one who had kissed Larry at the theater, a cold chill seemed to run over her whole body. He needn't judge her so quickly, after that! She wondered if she could be an actress. It hardly seemed likely. Even if you had talent, you had to work so hard and so long before you got a start. She had met three girls of her own age who were playing big parts in New York productions. Two were the daughters of well-known actors, and had been trained from the time they were children. One had gone on the stage at sixteen, the other at seventeen. The third had played in stock for three seasons, sometimes doing three roles a week. She had got a salary of ten dollars a week in the beginning, and had made her own costumes. At twenty she was very old, though on the stage she looked not more than twelve. She played children's parts, and when they needed a baby in one production, she brought her own. Her husband was in a stock company on the Pacific coast. She had been playing opposite him when a theatrical manager saw her and selected her for a role in a new play he was putting on. It was the biggest thing that she had ever been offered. She had taken it and made good—and now, after a year's run on Broadway, was crying herself to sleep nights because she was separated from him.

"No—I don't believe I want to be an actress," decided Gloria, as she looked one of Valerie's trunks. "And probably it's just as well that I don't."

Lovely Weddings Center Attention In Savannah, Ga.

Savannah, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—The marriage of Miss Agnes Collins and Harry Schleuning took place Saturday at 12:30 o'clock at the Cathedral of St. John the Baptist. The Rev. Father King performed the ceremony.

Miss Frances Oppenheimer was maid of honor, and wore a smart gown of brown satin crepe with hat to match. She carried a shower bouquet of Russell roses.

The bride wore a traveling gown of log cabin brown satin, with which she wore a taupe velvet hat trimmed with French flowers. She carried a bridal bouquet of bride's roses showered with lilies of the valley.

George Hoffman was the groom's best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Schleuning left immediately after the ceremony for a wedding journey in the north. On their return they will be at home after October 15 at the Lenore apartments on Gordon street.

Fallon-Thomas Wedding.

Another wedding of much interest also taking place Saturday was that of Miss Margaret Cornelia Fallon and William Carey Thomas, which was solemnized at 7 o'clock in the Calvary Baptist church, Rev. Oswell Smith performing the ceremony.

The bride entered the church with her mother, who gave her in marriage. She wore a wedding gown of white crepe de chine with beautiful ornaments of seed pearls. Her tulle veil was worn in coronet fashion with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. H. C. Ray, Jr., was matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a lovely gown of grey canton crepe beaded heavily with steel beads. She carried an arm bouquet of Columbia roses.

H. C. Ray, Jr., was the best man.

The wedding party, the two families and a few close friends were entertained at an informal reception at the home of the bride's mother immediately after the ceremony.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Thomas left for a wedding journey to West Palm Beach, Fla., where they will make their home.

Thompson-Whitfield Marriage.

The marriage of Miss Cora Howard Thompson and Charles G. Garaman Whitfield will take place Tuesday afternoon at St. John's Episcopal church at 5:30 o'clock, Rev. W. A. Jonnard performing the ceremony.

Mrs. W. C. Gilbert, Jr., will be matron of honor.

Bridesmaids will be Miss Agnes Morris and Miss Polly Brenan, of Statesboro.

Harry Coolidge will be the groom's best man, and groomsmen will be Major Russell Moore and Harry Peck.

Miss Thompson has been honored with a large number of prenuptial affairs during the past week.

Puffed Rice—the morning dainty

Shot from Guns

Steam exploded grains

Quaker Puffed Rice and Quaker Puffed Wheat are made by Professor Anderson's great process. The grains are sealed in guns, then revolved for an hour in fearful heat. When the guns are shot, over 125 million steam explosions are caused in every kernel.

Airy, flaky—8 times normal size

The grains come out as airy globules, thin, porous, crisp and toasted. The fearful heat gives them a nut-like flavor. And the broken food cells fit all the food elements to digest and feed.

No other cereal dainties in existence compare with Puffed Grains in delights.

Minerals—vitamines—bran

Quaker Puffed Wheat in milk forms a supreme dish for children. Wheat supplies 12 minerals which growing children must have. It supplies the bran they need. And milk is rich in vitamines.

Serve Puffed Grains morning, noon and night. Make whole grains tempting to the whole family.

Quaker Puffed Rice

Quaker Puffed Wheat

Serve with cream and sugar. Mix them in every dish of fruit. Crisp and douse with melted butter for hungry children in the afternoon. Millions of children are better fed because their mothers thus make whole-grain foods enticing.

Removal Stains From Clothing

Did you ever spill the beans down your white vest front? Have you ever upset a cup of coffee on the spic and span tablecloth? Ever get grass stains on your new lawn dress? Or medicine on your crepe de chine nightie? Does Mary ever come home with ice cream that should have gone into her tummy down the front of her new dress? Ever turn over an ink bottle on an expensive table cover? Does baby ever splash gruel on the fine dress Aunt Sally sent him for Christmas? Do you know the despair of trying to get out a walnut stain? Do they always seem to tar the roads you want to drive over and ruin your clothes? Ever do a little job of painting the screen door and have the paint insist on getting on your shirt? Ever cut your finger and let the blood drop on your duck pants?

If anything like this ever happened to you, you'll find that a copy of the 53-page printed book on REMOVAL OF STAINS FROM CLOTHING AND TEXTILES, prepared by government experts, is exactly what you need handy on the library shelf. Our Washington Bureau has a copy of this book for you. Fill out the coupon below and mail as directed:

Loew Vaudeville.
(At Loew's Grand)

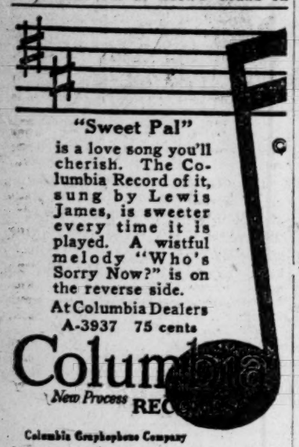
The old saying that good things always come in small packages is well borne out at Loew's Grand on the bill for the first half of the week where a dainty little sprite of a girl takes a great big vaudeville act and puts it across purely on her own delectable personality. She's in the Six Jolly Pirates and a Maid and as the maid she produces equally as much entertainment as all six of the aforesaid jolly pirates combined.

Altogether the pirates and the maid provide some real jam-tp entertainment.

Morgan and Gray, who displaced Frank Cornell on the program, offer a lively little domestic sketch which is true to life and elicits a lot of laughing approval from the crowd. The farce is cleverly constructed and has an amusing climax.

The Van brothers have a lot of clever patter and keep up a rapid barrage of jests. One of the boys is a hard working comedian. They add much to the attractiveness of their act with a saxophone duet.

Bertie and Beth Stanley sing some popular song hits which scored. They sing in close harmony and offer several novelty song hits—"Look Your Best" in picture.



"Sweet Pal"
is a love song you'll cherish. The Columbia Record of it, sung by Lewis James, is sweeter every time it is played. A wistful melody "Who's Sorry Now?" is on the reverse side.

Keith Vaudeville.
(At the Forsyth)

Personality is individuality existing within itself, with a nature as a background, said one authority.

—Simplified, personality means the last of the five acts of Keith vaudeville at the Forsyth theater for the first three days of this week. The opening song of the number proclaims it; the scenery suggests it; the pianist tells it in every note of his well-chosen melodies, and lastly and most conspicuously, Miss Ethel Parker, around whom the act revolves, is it itself.

Miss Parker, former Atlanta girl, who will be remembered by many Atlantans, presents one of the most pleasing acts shown here this season. She is assisted by Talbot Kenny.

Also, there is the act of Torcom Bezazian and Miss Edna White. Bezazian, baritone, has a splendid voice, proving ample reason for his repeated brilliant successes in Venice, Marseilles and London, before his arrival in America. His duets with Miss White, who not only sings well, but also is a solo trumpeter of repute, are highly pleasing.

The team of Fred Whitfield and Marie Ireland, remembered for its vehicle, "The Belle of Bingville," which appeared here several times, is back in a new and equally pleasing number called "Umphsville." It is a rural satire, with entirely new and wholesome lines and jokes.

Fid Gordon, the fiddling fun-maker, is a fiddling fool, if you will pardon the expression. His antics with the violin, of which his first name is an abbreviation, brought instant applause to Monday's audiences

"The Silent Partner."
(At Howard Theater.)

A real novelty in motion pictures is "The Silent Partner," a Paramount picture, featuring Leatrice Joy, Owen Moore and Robert Edeson, which opened at the Howard yesterday to excellent business.

This is a most satisfying drama and carries with it a moral, that of thrift. The story deals with a young couple who suddenly achieve wealth in stock speculation. When the husband is ruined, he learns that his wife has been his silent partner and instead of wasting the money he gave her in the days of affluence, she has saved it.

Harl Smith and his "Six Kings of Rhythm" made a distinct hit at all performances yesterday.

"Zampa," by Herold, the overture by the Howard Wonder orchestra directed by Enrico Leide and Alex Keese, was well received. One of the Our Gang comedies entitled "Lodge Night" brought many laughs and the picture "The Modern Wizard" is unique.

"A Man of Action."
(At Metropolitan.)

Thomas H. Ince's mystery-comedy, "A Man of Action," with Douglas MacLean in the role of a youth with more money than ambition who is blackjacked into a twenty-four-hour career of crime, is the best comedy in which Douglas MacLean has appeared since "The Hottentot."

The scenes of "A Man of Action" are laid in San Francisco, both among the palatial homes of Nob Hill and in the dens along Pacific street and the Barbary coast.

Featured in the excellent cast with MacLean are Marguerite de la Motte, Raymond Hatton, Arthur Stewart Hull, Wade Boteler, Arthur Millet, Kingsley Benedict, William Courtright and Katherine Lewis.

A splendid comedy, "Day Dreams," with Buster Keaton, Fun from the Press, Kinograms and an excellent musical program complete the program.

(At the Rialto.)

A western picture with a soul—that is what will be said of Zane Grey's great Paramount picture, "To the Last Man," at the Rialto, featuring Lois Wilson and Richard Dix, supported by Frank Campeau, Robert Edeson and Noah Beery. The theme dealing with a feud between cattlemen and sheepmen in the Tonto basin in Arizona during the eighties, the action dramatic and swift, the background historic, make "To the Last Man" a picture in a thousand.

As an added attraction, the Virginia Entertainers—seven young men who play and sing the latest jazz, popular and classical selections—were well received judging from the encores at last night's performance.

ATTORNEY TO ASK DEATH FOR WARD

White Plains, N. Y., September 17. After one year and four months of effort, the prosecuting officials of West Chester county late today began prosecution of Walter S. Ward, son of the millionaire baker of Brooklyn, on the charge of murdering Clarence C. Peters, of Haverhill, Mass.

Once the task of selecting a jury was finished Attorney General Sherman opened the case for the state with the announcement that the prosecution thinks it can establish beyond a shadow of a doubt that Ward killed Peters in "cold blooded, deliberate murder."

When Mr. Sherman had finished his presentation with the declaration that the case would "disprove every essential part of Ward's self-defense statement," Isaac N. Mills, Ward's chief counsel moved for dismissal of the indictment, a motion which Justice Wagner immediately denied. The court granted Attorney Mills' request that "in the introduction of certain evidence witnesses who found the body of Peters leave the room."

Court adjourned for the day.

COOLIDGE RECEIVES LEGION COMMANDER

Washington, September 17.—Alvin Owsley, national commander of the American legion, called on President Coolidge today and obtained a message to be read to the national convention of the legion at San Francisco next month.

Commander Owsley said after leaving the white house that the president had expressed an interest in the service men as strongly and as forcibly as had ever come from a chief executive. He declared the president was interested not only generally but specifically in the legion's legislative program and had asked that the legion present a list of the measures it supports so that he might give them his attention before the convening of the new congress.

Lipton To Visit Atlanta To See Stone Mountain

Sir Thomas Lipton, noted Englishman sportsman, will pay a special visit to Atlanta to see Stone Mountain and the work on the great Confederate memorial when he returns to the United States about three months hence, it was announced Monday by Hollins N. Randolph, president of the Stone Mountain Confederate Monumental association, on his return from a vacation in the Maine woods.

Mr. Randolph, with Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, called on Sir Thomas at his apartments in the Commodore Hotel, in New York, to tell him of the plans for the memorial, of the progress of the work, and to invite him to come here as the guest of the association. He accepted the invitation with enthusiasm and expressed his unbounded interest in the colossal carving.

In his youth Sir Thomas Lipton and the late Willis Ragan, of Atlanta, were chums in Charleston, S. C., and a few years ago Sir Thomas visited here as Mr. Ragan's guest.

Sir Thomas is quite familiar with the south, with southern people and southern traditions. He told Mr. Randolph and Mr. Borglum that he would take the greatest pleasure in coming here to see the memorial and to meet again his friends in this city.

Relief for Rheumatism.
(From Popular Mechanics Magazine.)

More than 4,000 sufferers from rheumatism have enjoyed an 80 per cent amelioration of symptoms under the bacteria injection treatment recently in the New York University medical college. In several instances, it is said, the improvement effected was equal to a cure.

Forsyth Players Delight Audience in "Dear Me"

"Dear Me," a musical comedy without a chorus, a romance without a villian, a play without a regret, was presented by the Forsyth Players Monday night to a delighted crowd that filled the Lyric theater comfortably and was more liberal in its applause than any first night audience in weeks.

For a fleeting moment the play threatened to get off to a slow start. Then Gus Forbes walked onto the stage, his first appearence after an absence of more than a month. His friends in the audience stopped the show for more than two minutes with their applause, the biggest ovation he has ever received in his year's engagement with the Forsyth players.

The story of the play is a sentimental one. A rich man died and left a sum of money to found a "home for artistic and literary failures" in memory of his son who failed as a playwright and then, ashamed, disappeared. In this home there is a slavey of the truly Cinderella type, played with inimitable charm by Miss Clara Joel. Three petulant old men in the home, played by William Loyd, Stuart Beebe and Eugene Head, make a deal of interesting comedy. William Loyd, known best to his audiences as a swanky villian, was exceptionally good with his personality completely merged into the bushy white hair and eye-brows and rheumatic stoop of an old man.

The Cinderella is discovered by the long lost son who has come back incognito, as a literary failure, to claim his patrimony and to see that his father's philanthropies are put to the use intended. He, still masquerading, and the quaint musician played by Forbes make her a reigning star of Broadway.

Then, humanly, she forgets.

In her forgetfulness Raymond has, for a few magnificent moments, full sway for emotional acting of striking force. He has also a few delicious moments for the best comedy acting he has ever done in Atlanta.

But, as in all good plays of sentiment, the forgetfulness of the charming heroine is but an abberation of the moment. She remembers the old things and realizes new things as well and the audience is treated to a most satisfying fade-out as the romance reaches its logical climax.

Miss Joel has an unusually trying part. She is not only called upon to be the good actress that she is but to be also a good singer. She does it gracefully.

Rankin Mansfield gave the male butterflies of the audience a generous eye full in a spiffy turn out in which he made the fall fashion plates look like photographs taken at an I. W. W. convention.

All in all, "Dear Me" was well worth watching Monday night and should be even better the rest of the week. It will be presented again each night and at matinee today, Thursday and Saturday.

New Building Code Promises Greater Safety

Providing greater safety for apartment house occupants, more economical methods of safe theater construction, more scientific use of recently developed building material such as reinforced concrete and hollow tile, the new building code of the city of Atlanta is now ready for adoption by council. The regulations, as a whole, will not be as burdensome to builders as the old ones.

The first draft of the new code, compiled after six months' work by eight experts in as many different lines of building work, was presented to council at its session Monday afternoon and a resolution was adopted providing for printing 50 copies of it for study by members of council before any attempt is made to have it adopted.

"In most particulars the new code follows the line of the old code adopted in 1910," C. J. Bowen, chief building inspector of Atlanta said Monday, "But it also considers many problems of construction and of public safety that people 13 years ago hardly dreamed would arise."

Commission of Experts.

The commission of experts who prepared the new code was composed of A. M. Schoen, chairman of the city's board of consulting engineers, chairman; Fire Chief W. B. Cody, H. D. Cutter, former engineer of the city planning commission; C. B. Bowen, chief building inspector; Hal Hents, architect; W. C. Spiker, construction engineer; B. Mifflin Hood, building material manufacturer, and T. T. Flagler, representing the Atlanta Builders' exchange.

The recommendations of the Herbert Hoover commission on standardized home building methods were followed in the main in the sections of the code dealing with small frame dwellings. They provide the maximum of durability and safety with the minimum of expense.

The apartment house problem of today, the commission found, was much different from that of 1910 when apartment structures of cloud scraping height had not become necessary because of the growth of population. New provisions in the code govern the type of material that can be used in weight-bearing walls and provisions that must be made for egress in case of fire or other disaster.

"Smokeless Towers."

All future apartment house buildings and all future theater buildings will be required to provide "smokeless towers" as means of exit. "Smokeless towers" are staircases of fire proof material separated from the main building by fire proof walls and doors. The new provisions as they apply to theaters will enable building with equal safety at less cost than the old regulations.

The value of the trade-mark is recognized by the code commission in its regulation of hollow tile as a weight-bearing material. Rigid tests of strength are required to demonstrate that all tile must be able to bear a minimum of 700 pounds pressure per square inch and all tile used in buildings must be of the tested type and must be trade-marked to undergo more rigid tests in future tested standard.

Reinforced concrete is to be made t oundergo more rigid tests in future than in the past. The old safety requirement was that it should be constructed to bear four times as much weight as would probably be placed on it. The new regulations are for six times as much strength as will probably be required of it.

No particular brands of material or trade-marks are specified as standard in the new code and members of the commission say they anticipate some kicks from manufacturers who want their brands specified. The code as a whole, however, has the unanimous indorsement of the commission and with that weight it is expected to pass council in time to become a law by January 1, 1924.

The report, as presented to council, includes 239 type-written pages. Council appropriated $100 to print 50 copies of it.

TO BUILD BRIDGES IN BROOKS COUNTY

Quitman, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—The board of county commissioners will meet in called session Wednesday for the purpose of getting under way a satisfactory program which will look to the betterment of the county highways.

Some months ago the board decided to undertake no additional permanent paving projects. Two roads have already been paved and a third road is now being completed. After this highway is opened, no further efforts will be made to permanently pave the highways for the present at least, but the bond money will be used for the purchase of steel bridges and the improvement of all the bridges in the county.

At hte called meeting Wednesday it is probable that the report of at least one of the board will show that many of the structures are in bad condition. The board has previously gone on record as being absolutely opposed to ever repairing wooden structures. These are to be replaced with either steel or concrete and it is believed the day of bridges built of lumber has passed for all time in Brooks county.

Klan Obligation Taken at Capitol, Says Marquardt

Hearing of the contempt petition, brought by Nathan Bedford Forrest Klan, No. 1 against imperial officers charged with enlisting members in a second local klan branch in violation of a restraining order was terminated Monday afternoon in Fulton superior court by agreement of counsel.

Contempt proceedings were withdrawn by W. S. Coburn, attorney for the Forrest klan, after Attorneys Ben Sullivan and Paul Etheridge, of the opposing side, agreed to withdraw an answer which contained cross charges of contempt against the petitioner.

Hearing on petition for a permanent injunction against imperial officers will not be held until an auditor has completed an examination of the records of klan No. 1 and of the imperial palace to determine legality of the recent suspension of the Atlanta klan for non-payment of dues.

"Took Obligation at Capitol."

Before the contempt hearing ended Monday, testimony was given by a number of witnesses, one of whom was Louie P. Marquardt, assistant in the solicitor's office, who said that he took the klan obligation in room 321 of the state capitol on the closing night of the recent session of the general assembly.

According to Marquardt, Representative J. O. Wood, editor of the Searchlight and prominent klansman, and M. O. Dunning, chief of staff of the Georgia klan, were present. He stated that there was no ceremony, the candidates present merely taking the obligations of membership. He did not know, he said, whether he was joining klan No. 1 or a new klan.

He was placed on the stand to show that members had been taken into a second Atlanta organization in violation of a second klan.

Room 321 of the capitol is the office of the state fish and game commissioner, who at that time was Frank Rhodes, of Athens, since succeeded by Peter S. Twitty.

Rhodes Ignorant of Meeting.

"I knew nothing in the world about it, and had never heard that room 321 was used for a klan initiation until told of this testimony," Mr. Rhodes said Monday.

"However, if the gentlemen who used the office were friends of mine, I am sure they were welcome, as I found nothing in the room that had been disturbed when I got there the next morning."

Following Marquardt, Henry J. Norton, exalted cyclops of the Forrest klan, testified that Dunning had no connection with his organization but worked under the state organization as an organizer for "klan No. 2."

Nathan Bedford Forrest, grand dragon; Ben Sullivan, titan; and H. W. Evans, imperial wizard, were named as defendants in the contempt action.

The litigation was begun recently after imperial headquarters announced withdrawal of the charter of Atlanta klan No. 1 on the ground that it was in arrears with its remittances of dues to state officials.

This action was followed by adoption of resolutions of secession by the Atlanta klan, to continue so long as present officers are in power, after which it sought to enjoin Imperial Wizard Evans and other imperial officers from forming a second klan here. A temporary restraining order was issued, and hearing on the permanent order is awaiting the auditor's report.

AUTO INJURES NEGRO

Chief Cody Uses His Car as Ambulance.

Chief W. B. Cody, of the fire department, made a record run to Grady hospital about 11 o'clock Monday morning when Daniel Mercer, negro, was hit by a speeding taxi. Chief Cody placed the victim in his car and reached the hospital before ambulances arrived at the scene of the accident.

Mercer was crossing the street at the intersection of Alabama and Forsyth when he was struck by the taxi, being rendered unconscious. A large piece of iron which he was carrying on his shoulder, struck him in the head when he was knocked down. Grady physicians say his injuries are not serious.

No charges were docketed against the driver.

FAYETTE TO ORGANIZE COMMERCE CHAMBER

Fayetteville, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—Fayetteville and Fayette county will soon have a chamber of commerce. A mass meeting will be held in the next few days to discuss the plans and perfect organization. A. O. Bialock is very active in perfecting this organization and to be certain that it is started on the right plan is asking the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce for assistance.

A large acreage of oats, rye, wheat and other winter crops will be planted in Fayette county this fall. The chamber of commerce when organized will push this feature and offer prizes on the different crops. Fayette county will make more than three times as much cotton this year than last.

Has Heart Appeal for Peeress

London, September 17.—Another British peeress is about to desert the haut monde for the movies—this time the beautiful duchess of Leinster, wife of the premier duke, marquess and earl of Ireland.

Just now the duchess is living in genteel poverty in a tiny flat at the south-coast resort of Bournemouth, trying to struggle along on an allowance of $47.50 a week.

Ten years ago the duchess was beautiful May Etheridge, musical comedy star. She met and shortly married Lord Edward Fitzgerald, the second heir to the dukedom of Leinster. A year later a third heir arrived.

"When we were hard up," she has confided, "I took my husband and the baby to stay at my mother's house in Brixton. That happened several times, and my mother worked like a slave to make us comfortable."

Brixton is a middle class suburb in South London, principally known as the site of Brixton prison, where many well-known Americans have stopped en route to the United States after the police took a dislike to them, and decided to witness their departure personally.

"Now I find myself a duchess compelled to live a miserable existence on an allowance of $47.08 a week, made to me by the duke's family," the duchess continued. "The only money I have ever had beyond that was $3.50, which I won on Papyrus in the last derby. Years ago I had beautiful jewels. Now I have nothing.

"My sister gives me most of my clothes. My nine-year-old son, the earl of Kildare, is with the duke's relations at Johnstown castle, county Kildare, in Ireland. I haven't seen my son for two years because I can't afford to go over there.

"Now you understand why I want to go to work. I think I am best qualified for the films, and I am looking for a job."

The seventh duchess of Leinster, seventh marchioness of Kildare, seventh Countess Offally, seventh viscountess of Leinster, twenty-fifth countess of Kildar and thirty-first Baroness Offaly threw off the reserve that goes with the 718-year-old nobility of the Fitzgerald family, plucked a bit of fur from the near-bearskin hearth-rug, and, using it as a moustache, shuffled across the room in the Chaplinesque manner to show her talent as a mimic.

LADY MERCY GREVILLE LURED BY FOOTLIGHTS

London, September 17. — Lady Mercy Greeville, 19 years old, the youngest daughter of the Countess of Warwick, is the latest recruit from the English nobility to the stage. She is acting the part of a domestic servant in "The Lilies of the Field." She has assumed the stage name of Nancie Parsons.

JURY COMPLETED IN PEANUT CASE

Norfolk, Va., September 17.—Trial of the suit for $3,625,00 damages under the Sherman and Clayton antitrust laws, brought by the Peanut Growers' association against the Dixie Peanut company and other alleged members of the National Peanut Cleaners and Shellers' association, got under way before Judge Groner in federal court here today. Before adjournment tonight a jury, composed of some of the leading business men in Virginia, had been selected and opening statements for the plaintiff and defense submitted.

All of the jurors declared they were not prejudiced against the cooperative market plan, which figures largely in the litigation.

Lawrence L. Levy, of San Francisco, of counsel for the growers, in his opening statement, charged that the cleaners had conspired to restrain trade in interstate commerce. He charged that the defendants had attempted to "break" the growers' association by market maniuplation and control; by attempting to induce the calling of loans made by the war finance corporation and banks to the growers and with having attempted to induce members of the growers' association not to deliver their peanuts on which they already had been given advances by the association

Shellers Made Threat.

In the course of his statement Mr. Levy declared the defendants had threatened to "put the Peanut Growers' association out of business if it cost them $1,000,000." Because of the alleged activities of the shellers, Mr. Levy asserted the growers in the summer of 1922 had been forced to sell 60,000,000 pounds at a loss of from one to two cents a pound.

Denial of the charges as set forth by Mr. Levy was made by Tazewell Taylor, of Norfolk, who, with Judge Thomas H. Wilcox, of this city, represents nine of the fifteen defendants. Mr. Taylor told the jury he expected to show that the Peanut Growers' association was itself an illegal enterprise engaged in the illegal restraint of trade and competition and operating under the guise of cooperative marketing.

Denying that the defendants had held back their peanuts, Mr. Taylor declared that the growers themselves had announced in August, September and October, 1921, that the peanut crop was to be the shortest ever known, and that in accordance with the law of supply and demand the market price naturally jumped higher. Instead of a short crop, however, Mr. Taylor said there was a bumper crop and announcement to that effect by the department of agriculture in November, 1921, forced the market down.

Marine Aviators Stage Air Raid In Mimic Fight

Camp Coolidge, Va., September 17. Marine corps aviation again held the center of the stage today in the annual maneuvers of the expeditionary force from Quantico. A huge crowd witnessed the demonstration, the roads around Fort Defiance being thronged with automobiles bearing license tags from nearly every state east of the Mississippi river. The military police accounted for more than 4,000 automobiles within their lines and many more witnessed the activities over Staunton.

The air force today worked out a problem involving the destruction of a hostile city, selecting Staunton as the town to be destroyed. Early in the afternoon fast fighting planes scouted the vicinity of Staunton, driving off "enemy" aviation forces and clearing the way for the bombing machines. They were immediately followed by squadrons of De Haviland bombing planes armed with four machine guns and equipped to drop demolition bombs of moderate weight. On the heels of the De Haviland planes came two squadrons of heavy bombers of the Martin and D. T. type, capable of carrying bombs on one ton for the Martin, or one thousand pounds for the D. T. The De Haviland planes laid down a thick smoke screen for the protection of the heavier and slower bombing planes from anti-aircraft fire and from enemy scout planes. Behind this the huge bombing planes did their work and retired followed in turn by the De Havilands and the scouting planes.

People Get Thrill.

Thousands of people in Staunton and nearby towns witnessed the demonstration and experienced all the sensations of the inhabitants of London and Paris during an air raid without the accompanying danger.

Since the beginning of the hike the active pilots of the force have compiled an average of more than thirty hours per week actual time spent in the air, or more than three hundred and sixty hours per week for the total of the combined squadrons. Estimating the average speed of the marine planes at 100 miles per hour, this would mean that the flyers have covered a total of more than 100,000 miles.

Late today the cadet regiment, 278 strong, from the Virginia Military institute, headed by General E. W. Nichols, arrived in camp for the final dress rehearsal of the battle of New Market tomorrow. The entire day tomorrow will be spent in preparation for the mimic battle and no effort will be spared to render the historic spectacle as realistic as possible.

Bartlett Injured.

Washington, September 17.—John H. Bartlett, first assistant postmaster general and former governor of New Hampshire, was injured today when his automobile was struck by a street car. Physicians said his injuries did not appear serious. The automobile was wrecked and the chauffeur was slightly injured.

HOW TO GET RID OF COLDS AND CATARRH

A Simple, Safe, Inexpensive Method that Clears Out the Head, Nose and Throat.

There are many people suffering from chronic catarrh who would like to know how they can stop catching cold after cold, for they must realize that sooner or later this may lead to deafness and other serious troubles.

Dr. Blosser, for years a specialist in catarrh, is the discoverer of a pleasant, direct method that can be used by women and children, as well as men. His remedy is made from medicinal herbs, flowers and berries which you smoke in a dainty pipe or cigarette, and inhale the vapor into all the air passages of the head, nose throat and lungs, carrying medicine where sprays, douches and salves cannot possibly reach. It contains no cubebs, tobacco or habit-forming drugs.

Dr. Blosser's Remedy is effective in all forms of colds, catarrh, asthma, catarrhal headaches and ear troubles that may lead to deafness. You will breathe better and feel better after using it.

1 DEAD, 22 HURT IN FLORIDA WRECK

Dothan, Ala., September 17.—One person, Mrs. I. T. Lane, of Dothan, Ala., was killed last night when a Louisville & Nashville eastbound passenger train crashed into a northbound excursion train of the Atlanta & St. Andrews Bay railroad here, railroad officials announced today. Hospital authorities reported that a Mrs. Frances Holland, of Dothan, was also killed in the wreck, but railroad officials have not confirmed this. Twenty-two others were injured, at least two of whom, it is feared, may die.

PLANS FOR TRIBUTE TO DEAD COMPLETE

Taranto, Italy, September 17.—Arrangements for the ceremony off Phaleron on Wednesday in which the Greek fleet will salute an allied naval squadron in accordance with the settlement of the Greco-Italian incident, were announced here today.

The Italian squadron will join the French cruiser, Jean Bart, and the British battle cruiser, Hood, ten miles off Phaleron, and the combined force, under command of the Italian admiral, Solari, will steam before the Greek fleet, which will salute the Italian flags with 21 guns. The Greek vessels in the ceremony will include the cruiser Giorgios Averoff, and the battleship Lemnos, formerly the U. S. S. Idaho. As soon as the ceremony is over the Italian squadron will sail for Corfu.

While the religious ceremony for the Italian victims of the massacre near Janina, which precipitated the crisis, is being held in the Catholic cathedral in Athens, requiem mass will be celebrated aboard the battleship Conte Di Canvour, for General Telini and the other victims of the massacre.

The bodies of the slain officers are expected to arrive here Thursday aboard the battleship San Marco. They will be received by all the civil, military and ecclesiastical authorities, patriotic associations and the entire garrison of fascista militia.

The bodies will be sent to Rome where a solemn tribute will be paid with the king and his entire cabinet participating.

BLACK MONEY

Next Week: "DANCERS IN THE DARK."
By Dorothy Speare.

He gave her a look to which Rhona responded, shyly but unmistakably; she knew, as well as he did, that they were getting fond of each other's society. They continued to meet on Sundays, and three or four went by, and still she had nothing to tell that related to the mystery of Hannaford and Granett.

Three weeks elapsed before Matherfiled had anything to tell, either. Then he walked into Hetherwick's chambers one morning with news in his face.

"Traced it!" he said. "Knew I should! That five-pound note—brand-new. Only a question of time to do that, of course."

"Well?" inquired Hetherwick.

"It was one of twenty fivers paid by the cashier of the London & Country bank in Piccadilly to the secretary of Vivian's," continued Matherfield. "Date—day before Hannaford's death. Vivian's, let me tell you, is a swell night club. Now then, how did that note get into the hands of Granett? That's going to be a stiff un!"

"So stiff that I'm afraid you mustn't ask me to go in at it!" agreed Hetherwick good-humoredly. "I must stick to my own line—when the chance comes."

The chance came on the following Sunday, when, in pursuance of now established custom, he met Rhona.

"News—at last!" she said, as they turned up the platform. "Something's happened—but what it means I don't know."

"There are things to explain; I'd better explain them first," she went on as they began their lunch. "Our arrangements down there at Riversreade, for instance. They're like this: Lady Riversreade and I always breakfast together at the Court, about 9 o'clock.

"At 10 we go across the grounds to the home. There we have a sort of formal office—two rooms, one of which, the first opening from the hall, I have, the other, opening out of it, is Lady Riversreade's private sanctum.

"In the hall itself we have an ex-army man, Mitchell, as hall porter, to attend to the door and so on.

"A good many people, chiefly medical men and folk interested in homes and hospitals, call, wanting to look over and to know about the place.

"I interview them first; if I think it necessary or desirable, I take them in to Lady Riversreade. Well, on Friday morning, Mitchell came into my room with a card bearing the name 'Dr. Cyprian Baseverie.' Instead of being an engraved card, it was printed—that was the first thing I noticed. We never refuse doctors; so I told Mitchell to bring Dr. Baseverie to me. I want to describe him particularly, and you must listen most attentively. Figure then, to yourself, a man of medium height, comfortably plump, forty-five years of age, dressed very correctly, immaculate as to linen and neckwear, with a new silk hat, pearl-mounted umbrella.'"

"Fashable medico sort," commented Hetherwick. But—himself?"

"Now, his face," continued Rhona. "A face the color of old ivory, eyes black as sloes, and the pallor of the face heightened by a rather heavy black mustache and equally black, slightly crinkled hair, thick enough above the ears, but becoming sparse and thin on the crown. Imagine, too, a pair of full red lips above a round but determined chin, and a decidedly hooked nose, and you have—the man I'm describing!"

"Um!" reflected Hetherwick. "A foreigner, I'd judge, from your description."

"That's just what I thought, myself," agreed Rhona. "But the creature's manner and speech were English enough—very English. His explanation of his presence was reasonable and commonplace enough—he was deeply interested in the sort of cases we had in the Home, and desired to acquaint himself with our methods and arrangements and so I carried in his card to Lady Riversreade. She is always accessible when there's a doctor in the case, and in two minutes Dr. Baseverie was closeted with her.

"Now, although Dr. Baseverie had said to me that he desired to see the Home—which, of course, meant his being taken round, he was not taken round. He never left that room from the moment he entered it until the moment in which he left it. And he remained in it an entire hour!"

"With Lady Riversreade?"

"With Lady Riversreade! She never left it, either. At the end of the hour the door suddenly opened and Dr. Baseverie appeared, hat, gloves and umbrella in hand. He half turned as he came out and said a few words to Lady Riversreade. I heard them. He said: 'Well, then, next Friday morning at the same time? Then he nodded, stepped into my room, closed the door behind him, made me a very polite, smiling bow as he passed my desk, and went out."

The Night Club.

Lady Riversreade was much disturbed by Baseverie's visit, Rhona went on.

"In fact, I didn't see her again that day, and at five o'clock her maid told me she had gone up to town," she said.

"Next morning?" suggested Hetherwick.

"Next morning she was just as usual, and things went on in the usual way."

Rhona said she had looked in the medical directory, but could not find Baseverie's name. He was coming back next Frdaly, she told Hetherwick.

"The thing to do, is to watch and follow him when he goes away!" said Heatherwick.

"I'm afraid I'm no use for that! He'd know me."

"But I've got the very man—my clerk, one Mapperley."

Next day Hetherwick told Matherfield the story that he had heard from Rhona. Matherfield grew thoughtful.

"Well, Mr. Hetherwick," he said after a pause, "if this Lady Riversreade is mixed up in it, the thing to do is to go back and get her history. In the meantime, I'm hard at work on my own clues."

"Any luck?" asked Hetherwick.

"Scarcely that. The five-pound note is a difficult matter. It was given in change at Vivian's Night Club—but they've no recollection whatever about that particular note or night. Still, the fact remains—that note came through Vivian's, and, through one of its frequenters, to Granett."

"And the medicine bottle?" suggested Hetherwick.

"Ah, there is more chance!" responded Matherfield. "That's only a question of time! I've got a man going round all the chemists in the West Central district."

"I suppose there's no doubt that there was poison in that bottle?" inquired Hetherwick.

"According to the specialists, none," replied Matherfield. "And in the glass, too! Let me know what you find out about Baseverie, Mr. Hetherwick."

Hetherwick duly coached Mapperley in the part he wanted him to play; and as Hetherwick was breakfasting Saturday morning Mapperley walked into his room.

"Spotted him at once at Victoria," he reported. "Followed him down there. He was at Riversreade an hour. Then he went back to Dorking—had lunch at Red Lion. He stopped there till four oclock, lunching and idling. Went back to town by the four-twenty-nine, arriving six-five. I followed him then to the Cafe de Paris. He dined there and hung about till past ten. And then he went to Vivian's Night Club."

Hetherwick pricked up his ears at that. Vivian's Night Club!

Here, at any rate, seemed to be a link in the chain. The five-pound note found on Granett had been traced to Vivian's Night Club: now Mappperley had tracked Lady Riversreade's mysterious visitor to the same resort.

"To Vivian's Night Club, eh, Mapperley?" he said. "Let's see—where is that?"

"Entrance is in Candlestick Passage, off St. Martin's Lane," replied Mapperley. "You didn't give me any further order than to see where he went, finally, after returning to town. So when I'd run him to earth at Vivian's, I went home. I argued that if he was wanted, further, Vivian's would find him."

For the second time in the course of his investigations, Hetherwick's thoughts turned to his friend Boxley. Boxley's love of intimate acquaintance with all sides of London life had doubtless led him to look in at Vivian's; he looked up Boxley.

Boxley knew Vivian's well enough—innocent and innocuous now, said he, what with all these new regulations and so on: degenerated, indeed, or improved, whichever way you regard it, into a supper club and that sort of thing. Dancing? Oh, yes, there was dancing, and so on—but things had altered, altered.

"Well, I dont want to dance there," said Hetherwick. "What I want to know is something about a man who, I believe, frequents the place—a somewhat notable man."

Hetherwick retailed Rhonas description of Baseverie; Boxley nodded.

"I know that man—by sight," he said. "Seen him there. I believe he's something to do with the proprietorship: that place is owned by a small syndicate. But I don't know his name."

Hetherwick, meeting Rhona at the statioin next day, found his arm immediately grasped in Rhonas right hand and himself twisted round.

"If you want to see Lady Riversreade in the flesh, there she is!" whispered Rhona. "Came up by the same train—there, going toward bookstall, a tall man with her!"

A fine, handsome, capable-looking woman Hetherwick said to himself.

"Who's the man?" he asked, looking from Lady Riversreade to her companion, a tall, bronzed man of military appearance.

"Major Penteney" replied Rhona. "He's a friend of hers. I believe he's in love with her."

"Anything happen on Friday?"

"Nothing—except that Dr. Baseverie called, and was with her an hour."

"No—on the contrary, she seemed quite cool after he'd gone," said Rhona. "She made no reference to his visit."

* * * * *

Candlestick Passage, unfamiliar to Hetherwick until that evening, wore a very commonplace, not to say shabby, complexion, and there was nothing in its atmosphere to suggest adventure or romance. Hetherwick and Matherfield went there Monday evening and as they approached the outer entrance, a tall woman emerged, and turned down the passage toward the street. Hetherwick softly seized his companion's arm.

"Lady Riversreade!" he exclaimed. Matherfield turned sharply.

"That?" he said incredulously. "Coming out of here! Certain?"

"Dead sure!" affirmed Hetherwick. "Come on! Lets see where she goes."

"Good!" agreed Matherfield. "Come on, then! Easily keep her in sight."

Lady Riversreade at that moment was making for a cab-rank.

They watched her charter and enter a taxicab, in another minute it moved away. But it had scarcely moved when Matherfield and Hetherwick jumped in one behind it instructing the driver to follow.

"This is getting a bit thick, Mr. Hetherwick," remarked Matherfield as they rode along. "Your clerk tracks his man to Vivian's on Friday night: we find Lady Riversreade coming out of Vivian's on Monday night! Now, I shouldn't think Lady Riversreade, whom we hear of chiefly as a humanitarian, a likely sort of lady to visit Vivian's!"

"She came out of Vivian's, anyway!" replied Hetherwick.

"Then, of course, she's been in!" said Matherfield. "But why? I should say—to have a meeting with Baseverie, or with somebody representing him, or having something to do with the business that took him to Riversreade Court. What business is it? Has it anything to do with our business? I think I must ask Lady Riversreade what she knows about Vivian's and Dr. Baseverie, and incidentally, if she ever heard of a place called Sellithwaite and a police superintendent named Hennaford? Eh? But we're leaving the region of the fashionable hotels."

Their cab went away by Paddington Green and made up St. Mary's Terrace. Presently the other cab came to a standstill in front of a block of high buildings. Its passenger alighted and went inside.

Matherfield paid and dismissed their driver, and crossing over to the opposite side of the roadway, pointed out to Hetherwick the block of flats into which Lady Riversreade had disappeared.

"Big place," he muttered. "Regular rabbitwarren. I know this district. You see all these houses on this side, Mr. Hetherwick? They're all lodging-houses, and I know a man here, lodging house keeper, who will let us have his front parlor window to watch from."

But time dragged slowly by in the stuffy and shabby little room in which they took up a position, and from the window of which Matherfield kept a constant watch on the entrance of the flats opposite.

Midnight came and went, but nothing had happened. Daylight came over the housetops at four o'clock. They had seen nothing up to then.

Matherfield reached a hand for his overcoat and hat.

"Now, Mr. Hetherwick!" he said sharply, "this has got to be a one-man job! There'll be nothing extraordinary in one man going along the streets to catch an early morning train, but it would look a bit suspicious if two men went together on the same errand and the same track! I'm off after her; I'll run her down—I'm used to that sort of thing. You go to your chambers and get some sleep. I'll look in later and tell you what news I have. Sharp's the word, now!"

He was out of the room and the house within the next few seconds: and Hetherwick, half vexed for having lingered while Matherfield thus unceremoniously took the job into his own hands, caught a southbound train and at 6 o'clock tumbled into bed. Four hours later Mapperley, his clerk, called.

"Got some more information last night," he said. "That man Baseverie has a share in Vivian's place—sort of director, I think. A clerk there, Flowers, is a friend of mine."

"Did you see Baseverie there?"

PATHFINDER PARTY FINDS ROADS GOOD

Fitzgerald, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—The official pathfinder car of The Atlanta Constitution arrived in Fitzgerald this afternoon, members of the party reporting the condition of the Dixie Central highway from Atlanta to Fitzgerald in good average condition, expect between Hawkinsville and Abbeville where bridge construction necessitates changing the routing via Rochelle instead of Abbeville. The roads from Hawkinsville to Fitzgerald via Rochelle are in good condition, according to the report made here at a special good roads meeting of the chamber of commerce, at which O. J. Willoughby, of The Constitution, was a guest of the chamber.

The complete report of conditions, given by the pathfinder is: Atlanta to Barnesville good to excellent; Barnesville to Macon good to excellent with the exception of a few miles that have yet not been top soiled: Macon to Perry good to excellent, with the exception of about five or six miles where the road is heavy for lack of rain; Perry to Hawkinsville good but heavy in places; Hawkinsville to Fitzgerald via Rochelle good, but heavy in spots with one or two places that might become muddy after heavy rainfall.

Mr. Willoughby stated that C. D. McRae, chairman of the county commissioners at Rochelle, gave him assurance that this country road would be kept in condition for travel throughout the year, in order to assure tourists using the Central Dixie highway a good road from Atlanta to Waycross. The pathfinder party reported a hearty reception on the part of the business and civic interests in the various towns visited.

I. O. O. F. May Name Permanent Site for Meet

Cincinnati, September 17.—A permanent meeting place for its sessions and the erection of a magnificient edifice that would prove an inspiration to Odd Fellows was recommended today at the opening session of the convention of the sovereign grand lodge I. O. O. F., in the annual report of Judge Lucien J. Easton, of St. Joseph, Mo., grand sire and commander of the sovereign grand lodge.

"This sovereign body, in justice to the high character it possesses and to the confidence of the brotherhood in it, ought to choose a permanent meeting place where its sessions may be devoted to the business before it," said the grand sire.

The report of J. Ed Kroh, grand secretary showed that during the year the order spent $7,708,132 for relief, an increase of nearly $50,000 over the amount spent the year before. The grand total of receipts amounted to $26,706.

Featuring tonight's program was a banquet given by the Odd Fellows Press association in honor of the officers of the sovereign grand lodge and a reception to Judge Eastin.

It was estimated that sixty thousand Odd Fellows and Rebekkahs represent every state in the union and every province in Canada were in Cincinnati.

Wadsworth Plans To Request Hike For Ellis Island

New York, September 17.—Increased appropriations for the Ellis Island immigrant station will be recommended to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon by Assistant Secretary Eliot Wadsworth, who today made an official inspection of the island.

Mr. Wadsworth said that he would not only recommend that facilities be improved and the detention buildings enlarged but would suggest changes in the methods of handling immigrants in order to eliminate red tape.

His visit to the island was understood to have resulted from the recent criticism of the station by the British ambassador. Although he said that a "white wash report" on conditions was impossible, he declared he had found the administration efficient, especially as regards the hospital.

ESCAPED PRISONER KILLED BY POSSE

Tallahassee, Fla., September 17.—William Galloway, negro, sent to the state prison farm from Palm Beach county in 1920 for five years on charges of grand larceny, was shot and killed near State Road camp near Wellborn Saturday, according to information received by the prison authorities.

Galloway was killed by a posse that sought his recapture after his escape from the camp. It was stated in the report that he refused to surrender when members of the posse cornered him. Instead he drew a large caliber pistol on the captain of the camp but was shot before he could fire it. He was from South McAlester, Okla.

STRICKEN BY STORM, VESSEL MAKES PORT

Los Angeles, Cal., September 17.—The battered five master barkentine Montfalcone, 109 days out from New Orleans with a cargo for Los Angeles, arrived last night. She was partly dismasted, her rigging was in shreds and her deckhead was gone.

She had hardly left New Orleans before she fell afoul of a series of hurricanes and it was 69 days later that the old windjammer stumbled into Colon. There the tug Peacock, Pacific bound, took her in tow August 7. Bad weather was encountered also on the voyage north from Panama.

FLEET TO ASSEMBLE ON PORTO RICAN COAST

San Diego, Cal., September 17.—Admiral Robert E. Coontz, commander of the U. S. fleet, today announced that one hundred and forty-one warships and auxiliaries with thirty battle planes, scout planes and bombers had been ordered to assemble early in January on the east coast of Porto Rico. This fleet will carry out the winter maneuvers in the Caribbean sea.

High Death Rate.

Washington, September 17.—Maternal mortality was greater in the United States during 1921 than in nineteen of the more important foreign nations, it was shown by statistics made public by the children's bureau of the department of labor. The death rate in the United States in that year from child birth was 6.8 for every 1,000 live births.

News, Views And Reviews

STOCK LETTER.

New York, September 17.—Further cuts in gasoline prices affected the oil stocks again today, such issues as Cosden and Sinclair making new lows for the year. Rails were firm and the general line of industrial stocks advanced fractionally. The market as a whole was irregular, and while there were one or two rallies, the trend was very uncertain. Money dropped to 4 per cent but had no influence on prices. The heavy liquidation of last week seems to have been completed and a rally is looked for by experienced traders.—Fenner & Beane.

COTTON LETTER.

New Orleans, September 17.—New high levels were again established in today's session and the trading on the whole reflected a scarcity of contracts. The buying was urgent and a goodly part of it consists of covering.

The sharp advance was due to heavy rains which were reported by official and private sources over widely scattered sections of Oklahoma, Texas and Mississippi valley. Accompanying these arrives were complaints of serious damage, retarded movement and picking. The movement in some instances will be delayed enough to interfere with the fulfilling of commitments for the last half of September.

Spot news was equally as bullish, our reports in particular speak of an urgent demand with advancing quotations.

Exports were the largest in some time, about 170,000 against 11,600 last year.

Contracts were more in demand when those influences were broadcast and the upward trend met with little opposition, except perhaps from those who were satisfied to take profits.

Prior to the close the market was again flooded with telegrams from Texas, reporting a much tighter basis with rains still continuing, some points in central Texas having as much as four inches of rain.

The advance today showed a net gain in values of over seven dollars a bale since Saturday's close.—Fenner & Beane.

COTTON LETTER.

New York, September 17.—Although cable advices today do not credit the report of Saturday that the British government will help Lancashire spinners, this advice did not deny such a possibility. Led by continued vigorous demand in Liverpool under trade calling of cotton that market was higher than due today and brought the first direct influence upon demand here. Weather reports from the west are unfavorable, and this contributed to the early morning buying and influenced considerably more purchases in the afternoon. The People's National Bank, Rock Hill, S. C., state that a canvass of South Carolina banks indicates a yield for that state of 530,000 bales. This no doubt will be a surprise, as a few weeks ago 1,000,000 bales was counted upon. But the chief thing in the market at this time of crop movement is demand, and it is running good. So long as this is the case there is little for the owners of cotton to fear, except those who may be anxious to seize quick profits, and it appears they would do well to accept preiods of strength for liquidating. On the other hand, with each market reaction, there are fresh buyers to take the sales and bulls are in harness ready to drive prices further up if it is possible to do so. October Liverpool due Tuesday, 16.15.—Orvis Bros. & Co.

COTTON LETTER.

New Orleans, September 17.—Torrential rains in parts of Texas and Oklahoma and general rains over the major portion of the belt with better cables than anticipated, were some of the contributing factors to the day's advance. Exports from Galveston and Houston were very large, and there was reported more inquiries and orders for spots from Liverpool in the last three days than for the past month. While many have thought that hedge selling and the increased movement would likely hold the advance in check, any decline meets both trade and speculative buying. With weather conditions unfavorable, thereby retarding the movement and damaging the crop and the likely withdrawal of offerings, we continue to feel that the market will continue its upward trend with only moderate and temporary recession—J. D. Hayward & Sons.

COTTON LETTER.

New York, September 17.—Today's bullish developments caused heavy covering, heavy replacing of long lines by bull interests and sharply stimulated the trade demand. Impression created that the heavy rains will not only damage the grade but check the new crop movement. The latter is of special significance, owing to the depleted local stock and increasing difficulty of replenishment, and has been reflected in the relative strength of the near months. Spot interests have been good buyers of October, which sold 40 over December during the afternoon. Sentiment is again very bullish and it looks as if this buying movement will carry prices still higher—Livingston & Co.

New Orleans, September 17.—The sudden break in the weather all over Texas since Saturday, having caused very serious damage to the cotton crop in that state and annihilated the expectations of increased yield, aroused by last week's almost ideal weather conditions, the inherent bullishness of the cotton situation has found expression in a sensation advance. As at this period of the year unsettled weather conditions are generally protracted, and as there is every indication of the rains extending into the eastern belt, we feel that we have only just entered a new stage of advancing markets and that much higher prices must yet be looked for.—E. B. Norman & Co.

COTTON LETTER.

New York, September 17.—The market has shown symptoms of developing into a runaway affair, as offerings have been light while the demand has continued to broaden, both for the trade itself and for outside interests as well. Apparently the trade is becoming genuinely anxious over the outlook, and while there is still a feeling that as the movement approaches its peak in the course of the next few weeks prices will give way, there is no high degree of confidence about that, as the south appears better organized than ever before to protect its leading crop and distribute the marketing over a longer period, and there are also many, both mills and merchants, waiting for a decline to buy. Speculative longs, who took profits recently, have been buying back their cotton again today, influenced by the heavy rains reported in the southwest and the continued complaints of increasing weevil damage in the eastern and central belts. Contracts have lately been passing steadily into strong trade hands, and unless the long predicted increase in the volume of selling against the crop comes into evidence in the near future and increases the supply of contracts, it looks that prices will be forced to still higher levels. The market is in dangerous territory, as every one realizes, but whether the price is as yet high enough to confine consumption within the limits of a narrow supply is by no means clear and seems doubtful in view of the continued trade demand—Post & Flagg.

COTTON LETTER.

New York, September 17.—The unfortunate aspect of the present situation is that this advance has been so rapid, that spinners have been unable to buy the cotton to manufacture and sell at a reasonable profit to consumers, and unless mills can operate at some profit, they might curtail and close down until cotton is cheaper or goods advance materially.—J. W. Jay & Co.

COTTON LETTER.

New York, September 17.—Liverpool was slightly better than expected this morning, and our market showed a sharp advance as the result of heavy rains throughout the western belt and a sharp advance in the basis of Texas. These rains in the west are very unsatisfactory, as they are affecting the grades of the cotton which are open on the stalk and, naturally, are causing much uneasiness among those who desire to buy the better grades. Heavy covering by those who had sold in anticipation of a decline on the early movement made its appearance, carrying the market into new high levels. As long as the basis in Texas holds and the weather continues unfavorable, a higher market can be expected. Naturally at these prices, due caution must be observed regarding the market. The situation certainly has no signs of weakness at the present time. Futures in Liverpool are due tomorrow: October, 16.16; January, 15.42.—Hubbard Bros. & Co.

COTTON LETTER.

New Orleans, September 17.—Sensitive in the extreme to unfavorable weather developments which tend to lower the grade of what appears to be an inadequate crop this year and, perhaps, reduce the indicated yield all the more because of the probability of insects becoming more numerous and destructive, the market scored a further advance of about $7 per bale today. There were general rains in Oklahoma and Texas over the week-end and prospects are for more in the southwest with probability of rain working into the Mississippi valley and south Atlantic states in the immediate future. Contributing to the big advance in values today were the large exports to Europe, which were of enormous proportion, figuring as follows: Today, 177,000 vs. 22,000; since Friday, 179,000 vs. 73,000; since August 1, 541,000 vs. 392,000. Present indications are that this year's crop will hardly be any larger outside of Texas than it was last year, when the yield outside of Texas was only 6,540,000 bales, or probably less than American mill requirements, since domestic mills consumed 6,991,000 bales of American cotton last season. In that case, or on that basis, Europe would have to look mainly to Texas for its requirements this season, and as the general impression is that Texas will do well to make four million bales this year, Europe and Japan, with no reserves of consequence on hand, will likely be in a plight as to securing their needs for this season, as exports, including Canada and Mexico, last year were 4,880,000 bales. From another angle the prospective situation appears just as bullish, if not more so, for with an indicated yield of around 10,-500,000, and realizing that the world consumed 12,631,000 of American last season, there is an apparent prospective deficit in supplies of about 2,000,000 bales. Coming, as they have during the last half of September when fields are white with cotton, damage to the grade by rains is inevitable, the basis will probably stiffen, making it difficult for buyers to fill the last half of September commitments, which may be large. The danger ahead is the possibility of a tropical storm or an early killing frost overtaking much late cotton in Texas and Oklahoma.—H. & B. Beer.

$3,000,000 LOANED S. C. COTTON MEN BY GEORGIA BANK

Savannah, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—News from Charleston today confirms the report that the Citizens & Southern Bank, with its home house in Savannah and banks also in Macon, Augusta, and Atlanta, has arranged to extend financial aid to the amount of $3,000,000 in South Carolina for the handling of the crops now being harvested, specifically cotton of the cooperative growers' association. The War Finance corporation and the banks of South Carolina will supply the rest of the needed funds for handling the crop of the South Carolina Cotton Growers' cooperative association.

Officials of the Citizens and Southern Bank in Atlanta, Monday night could not verify the report of the transaction. It was stated that certain interests had been working on a money loan transaction, but the reports of consumation of the deal was neither verified nor denied.

Prison Doctor Blasts Theory Of Adrenaline

Boston, September 17.—Dr. Amos O. Squire, physician at Sing Sing prison, told the delegates to the American Prison association convention here today that it was impossible to revive life by the injection of a solution of adrenaline chlorate in the heart wall after electrocution. He said that he had experimented with twenty men and that it was found to be impossible to bring them back to life. He had officiated at the executions of 114 persons at Sing Sing.

"At most of our autopsies we are able to produce fibrillar contraction of the heart by touching the wall with an instrument," Dr. Squire said, "and sometimes we can produce this for over an hour after death. The injection of a solution of adrenaline chlorate in the heart wall does not produce any contraction of the heart muscle, so it can be seen that it is impossible to revive life by this means after electrocution."

Dr. Squire said capital punishment had not been such a deterrent factor as its advocates had hoped it would be.

"In the United States in 1922 with a population of about 110,000,000 people," he added, "there were approximately 9,500 homicides and but 114 executions, whereas in Great Britain and Wales, with approximately 40,-000,000 people, there were but 63 murders."

More Quake Dead Named by Consul In Cable to U. S.

Washington, September 17.—The names of eight more Americans "reported dead or missing" in the Japanese earthquake were forwarded to the state department today by Ambassador Woods and Consul Dickover at Kobe. They were: Mrs. T. W. Chisholm and child, P. C. Schefer, Mrs. Chambers, Mrs. Nora C. E. Hilton, Mr. Shelley, of Standard Oil company; Irvin Skootski and Olga Milostawky. The first seven were said by Mr. Woods to be "reported dead" and the other by consul Dickover to be "reported missing."

WAYCROSS SCHOOLS ENROLL OVER 1,800

Waycross, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—Waycross public schools opened this morning for what school officials believe will be the most successful year in the history of the local schools. Over 1,800 pupils have already registered for the white schools and many others are expected to enter before the close of the week. The total enrollment for the entire session last year totalled only 1,800. Appropriate exercises marked the opening of the school year at Central school Superintendent A. G. Miller, Colonel John W. Bennet, president of the board of education, and Dr. J. S. Sibley, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, delivered short talks to the student body. The greater part of the morning was consumed in the distribution of books and the assignment of work. Regular work will begin in the majority of schools tomorrow morning.

INTEREST IS SHOWN IN "MODEL SCHOOL"

Quitman, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—Since the state board of education had printed and distributed through the state pamphlets giving a photograph and detailed description of the new school building at Barney, in the upper edge of Brooks county, in which the board declared that this building is a satisfactory model for a rural school, County Superintendent Sizemore has received many inquiries for plans and building particulars. These requests have come from various sections of the state, both urban and rural, and indicate there is a desire on the part of school trustees to secure the best plans possible for their contemplated buildings.

GENERAL TRAVIS HURT WHILE PLAYING POLO

Savannah, Ga., September 17.—General Robert J. Travis, commanding the 55th brigade of field artillery, U. S. A., is confined to his bed with a broken left forearm. He was injured yesterday while practicing polo in the Spark extension. This is the second injury to General Travis in the past few weeks while engaged in this pastime.

HARRIS IS INDORSED BY CROWD AT HOMER

Homer, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—Senator W. J. Harris addressed a large crowd at the courthouse here this morning at 9:30. At the end of his speech his record in the senate was indorsed unanimously.

Oldest Citizen Dies.

Cumming, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—Richard Otwell, 98, the oldest citizen of Cumming and Forsyth county, died here Sunday afternoon. For 75 years "Uncle Dick" had been a familiar figure on the streets of Cumming. He was buried this afternoon at the Cumming cemetery.

CHARLES L. M'AFEE SOUGHT BY MOTHER

Mrs. C. M. McAfee, 44 Page street, is trying to locate her son, Charles L. McAfee, 24, who disappeared from his home Thursday. When he left home he wore a pair of blue cotton trousers, brown hat, and was in his shirt sleeves. He is an ex-service man and in poor health.

BODY OF SWIMMER SOUGHT AT SAVANNAH

Savannah, Ga., September 17.—Search for the body of Fred W. Donnelly, 35 years of age, and an employee of the Union Taxi Service, who was drowned yesterday morning while swimming at Cedar Hammock, was continued today.

Donnelly dived off a rowboat in which were two companions, Joseph Nelson and Ben Sanders. He was not seen after he struck the water.

TONE IS STEADIER IN CURB MARKET

New York, September 17.—Price movements were somewhat mixed in today's fairly active curb market. Generally, however, a steadier tone prevailed.

Industrial sales bid up during the greater part of the trading, Gillette Safety Razor rebounding two points from last week's decline, Durant Motors also made a comeback, advancing 2 1-2 points to 35. Reo Motors after recovering in the early trading closed practically unchanged. Glen Alden Coal moved up fractionally but Reading coal rights, inactive trading, receded slightly. Standard Oil of Indiana led in point of activity and closed the day nearly a point higher. Standards of Kentucky advanced 1 and New York 1 3-8. Solar Refining jumped 5 points on a small turnover and Ohio Oil fell off 2 on small transactions.

Most of the activity in the mining group was in the penny shares and while trading was active net changes were relatively unimportant.

ALLEGED SWINDLER HUNTED IN AUGUSTA

Augusta, Ga., September 17.—Sheriff J. T. Plunkett was asked today to find a man giving his name as R. G. Bryson, who spent several days in Augusta posing as a world war veteran, and who left here Saturday night in an automobile which he purchased from a local dealer by means of a check on a local bank which the dealer says has proven to be worthless.

Bryson, according to G. M. Jones, local automobile dealer, gained the confidence of two prominent Augusta business men, who introduced him to officials of a bank here and vouched for his reliability. A check for a considerable sum, drawn on a bank in Richmond, Va., was deposited at the local bank, according to the story given the sheriff, and Bryson issued checks against the account here.

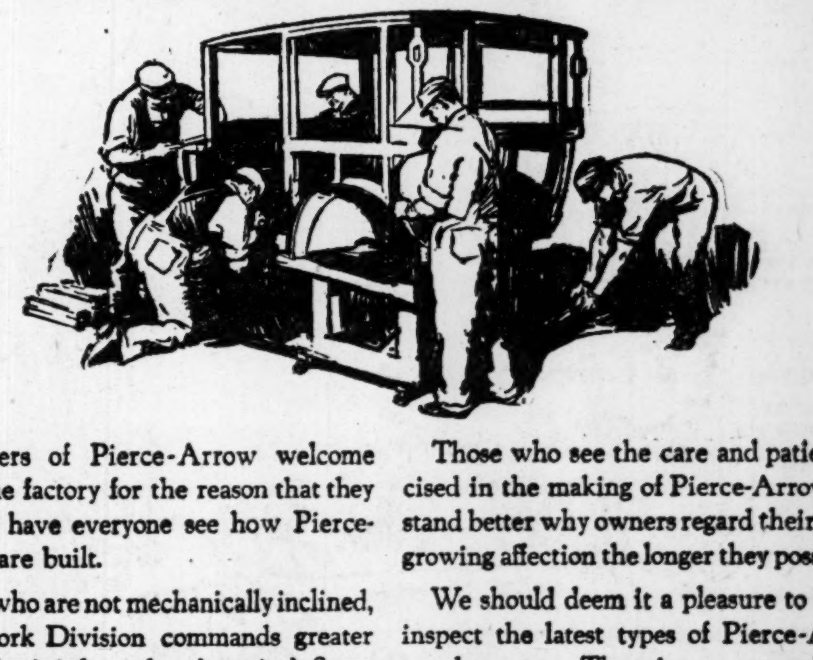
Before leaving here Saturday night he bought a second hand car from Jones for $375, and, according to Jones, the check is worthless. The sheriff was told that Bryson also gave another worthless check to a gasoline dealer where he had the tank of his car filled for the trip. During Bryson's stay in Augusta he is said to have given the Y. M. C. A. here a check for membership in the association.

Bryson is described to the sheriff as a young man of splendid appearance, having sandy hair and a florid complexion. He wears gold rimmed glasses and an American Legion pin. He is about five feet five inches tall, weighs about 140 pounds and is about 28 years old.

WOMEN TO EXHIBIT PRODUCTS AT FAIR

Sparta, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—The club women of Hancock county, especially in Devereaux, Culverton and Mayfield and Jewell, are making preparations to have their individual exhibits at the Hancock county fair next month. In several instances women from the villages will prepare an exhibit as a community affair.

PIERCE



The makers of Pierce-Arrow welcome visitors to the factory for the reason that they are proud to have everyone see how Pierce-Arrow cars are built.

For those who are not mechanically inclined, the Coachwork Division commands greater admiration, for it is here that America's finest motor car bodies are hand-wrought.

Those who see the care and patience exercised in the making of Pierce-Arrows understand better why owners regard their cars with growing affection the longer they possess them.

We should deem it a pleasure to have you inspect the latest types of Pierce-Arrow at our showrooms. There is one among the twelve models which should interest you especially.

New York, September 17.—There were advances ranging all the way from $6.50 to $7.60 per bale in the cotton market here today owing to unfavorable weather and crop advances from the southwest and very heavy exports. The latter evidently were regarded as indicating an active demand for early Texas cotton, and October contracts led the advance here, selling up to 29.42 or 152 points above the closing quotation of Saturday. October closed at 29.25 with the general market closing firm at a net advance of 105 to 135 points.

The market opened firm at an advance of 45 to 61 points excited general buying on reports of rains in the southwest, the continued firmness of Liverpool and reports of an advancing basis in Texas. The market met a great deal of realizing, but it was virtually ready absorbed on reactions of 20 or 25 points during the middle of the day and the buying became still more active and excited during the middle of the afternoon on the detailed weather reports confirming the earlier rain news from the western belt, and the big exports for the day. Toward the end of last week there had been a disposition to take profits on long contracts owing partly to a hope that continued good weather in Texas, might mean a better supply of white cotton in that section or even some increase in estimates of the crop. The rain news of today caused renewed apprehension of a further scaling down of crop figures, and private advices reaching here from a number of Texas points suggested that merchants who had previously sold cotton for early new crop shipment, were competing with fresh buyers for the available supply at an advancing basis. As a result there was hurried buying by sellers of last week either to replace long contracts or to cover short sales, while an active demand was also reported from the trade. December sold up to 29.10 and January to 28.48, with the general list showing net advances of 130 to 152 points in the late trading. Last prices were 18 or 20 points off from the best under realizing. Exports today were 176,915 bales, ranking among the biggest day's exports on record. Exports so far this season, 516,087. Port receipts, 80,895, United States port stocks, 265,873.

NEW HIGH LEVELS AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, September 17.—While it was mainly a feature market in cotton today and the heavy and general rains in the western belt were the most important influence, the extremely large export movement created much bullish sentiment and was a factor in the trading in the second half of the session. The opening was higher and the rise was rapid at several stages of the day's trading. New high levels for the season were reached and there were no important setbacks from the advance which late in the day amounted to 135 to 160 points, or $8 a bale, on the strongest months. October rose to 28.72 cents a pound. The close was at net gains on the day of 112 to 143 points and the closing sales of October ranged from 28.55 to 28.62.

The tone was excited when the market opened, as a flood of the most unfavorable kind of crop and weather comment came from Texas and Oklahoma and portions of Arkansas and Louisiana, the gist of which was that the crop had suffered severely under what many crop observers considered to be the most heavy and general rains of the season in the western belt. Rains were extremely heavy over large areas in Texas where the crop was said to be all open. Strength of the late trading was partly due to expectations that the rains would spread into more eastern portions of the belt during the night. Houston cleared 51,417 bales of cotton for foreign export and a little later Galveston cleared 117,860 bales for foreign export, in addition to which 31,383 bales were cleared from Galveston for shipment coastwise. Total foreign clearances from all ports for the day amounted to 176,915 bales, the largest single day's export yet reported this season. Including coastwise clearances, the total shipments from all ports amounted to 215,131 bales.

Interest March and September 1st payable in New York, Atlanta, Savannah, Macon or Augusta. Registerable as to principal. 2% Federal Income Tax paid. Denomination $1,000, $500 and $100. Callable as a whole at 105. Last maturity callable in lots of $100,000, at 105.

Citizens & Southern Bank, Atlanta, Trustee

ATLANTA-BILTMORE: The Atlanta-Biltmore will be the largest and most modern city hotel in the South. The property consists of an entire city block owned in fee upon which is being erected a 12-story fireproof hotel of latest approved hotel architecture, containing approximately 550 guest rooms and 480 baths, and a high-grade residential apartment containing 120 rooms. The management will be under direction of Mr. John McE. Bowman, under whose supervision the Biltmore, Commodore, Belmont and other well-known hotels have been so successfully operated.

SECURITY: This issue will be a direct obligation of the Atlanta-Biltmore Hotel Company and secured by a direct closed first mortgage on the entire property, consisting of land, buildings, furnishings and equipment, value of which is conservatively estimated at $6,500,000. In addition the bonds bear the unconditional guaranty both as to principal and interest of Mr. William Candler, whose personal financial statement is on file with the Trustee at all times.

EARNINGS: Mr. Bowman has conservatively estimated the net earnings for bond interest after all charges, including adequate depreciation, of over $675,000 per annum, or over three times maximum bond interest and over twice combined interest charges and maturity requirements.

A few Bonds left in 1936 and 1943 maturities only.

New York, September 17.—Price changes in today's bond market were generally confined to fractions with an irregular trend. The volume was somewhat smaller than was handled on most days last week.

While some of the European issues moved up fractionally the French issues declined slightly. Lyons sixes dropped 1 3-4. Cuba 5s of 1904 dropped a point. Active United States government bonds improved, advanced ranging from 1-32 to 4-32 of a point.

Industrials displayed conflicting price movements. Advances of a point or more were recorded by Humble Oil 5 1-2 and Armour and Company 4 1-2s, while Wilson and Company convertibles 6s declined 1 1-8 and United Retail Stores 6s 1.

There were unconfirmed reports of new financing by the Shell Union Oil Company, through an issue of common stock. A definite statement was promised by company officials for tomorrow.

DAY'S SUMMARY

Total stock sales, 653,000 shares.
20 industrials averaged 89.41 et gain, .36.
20 railroads averaged 81.07; net gain, .30.
High, 1923, 90.51; low, 79.53.

New York, September 17.—Stock prices displayed somewhat steadier tone is rather dull trading today the volume of transaction falling considerably below that of last week. Closing prices were shaded slightly from the day's tops and in numerous instances, fell below the final quotations of Saturday.

There was little in the news to influence traders. Bear traders accepted Premier Poincare's Sunday admonishion as unfavorable to the progress of Ruhr negotiations and oil shares were adversely affected by another cut in gasoline prices. Despite intermittent selling and slow trading on the advances, most of the popular leaders moved slightly forward and the averages gained fractionally, being aided by moderate gains by several of the standard railroad issues.

Bethlehem Steel 8 per cent preferred, declined 2 1-2 points and Youngstown Sheet and Tube slumped 4 3-4 points, but United States Steel advanced fractionally, and Baldwin and Lima Locomotive moved up about a point. American Can closed 1 1-8 higher on the day.

Tobacco shares were bid up slightly, American Sumatra gaining 2 points, and Tobacco Products more than a point. Woolworth climbed 5 1-2 points, Associated Dry Goods, 1 3-4, and Gimbel Brothers 1. Beechnut moved up two points.

Gains of a point or more were recorded also by American Agricultural Chemical, Chandler Motors, Dupont, Famous Players, Mack Truck, Pacific Gas and Electric Utah Copper and several of the industrial specialties. On the other hand, Columbia Carbon, American Sugar and Cluett Peabody registered losses of a point or more.

Among the railroad, Northern Pacific and Union Pacific gained 1 1-8, and Great Northern, preferred, 1 5-8. Rock Island 7 per cent preferred sagged 1 1-2.

Market Street railway, preferred, dropped 7 3-4, and the second preferred 6 1-2.

Call money opened at five per cent. Eased later to 4 1-2 per cent and closed at four. Time money rates stiffened somewhat with the shorter loans, commanding 5 1-2 per cent, and those of longer duration going at 5 3-4 per cent.

With the exception of demand sterling, which held steady around $4.54, foreign exchange rates generally were lower. French francs eased 7 1-2 points to 5.79 cents, and German marks were quoted at 55 cents for 100,000,000. Spanish exchange again improved slightly.

SLIGHT UPTURN IN WHEAT PRICES

Chicago, September 17. — Wheat prices averaged a little higher today, helped more or less by assertions that rallies were to be looked for after more than a week's decline. The market closed unsettled, at a range varying from 1-8 cent off to 3-8 cent net gain, with December 102 to 102 1-8 and May 107 3-8@107 1-2. Corn finished at 3-8 to 1 5-8 cent advance, oats 1 1-4 to 1-4 cent down and provisions showing a set back of 5 cents to 17@20 cents.

Bulls in the wheat market were inclined to emphasize the fact that Winnipeg and Minneapolis quotations both were higher than on Saturday and that wet weather in the Canadian Northwest might check farm deliveries for several days. Reports were also current that Japan had bought a liberal quantity of wheat and flour on the Pacific coast. Demand here however, lacked volume and an increase of the United States visible supply total led to a reaction during which deferred deliveries dropped temporarily under any recent lower figures. Then, buying enlarged somewhat and the market was swinging upward again as the day drew to an end.

Part of the comparative firmness shown by wheat appeared to be due to strength in corn values. Numerous traders who had been skeptical that recent frosts had done serious damage to corn restored their opinion today after having investigated many Illinois fields. In some sections, damage was estimated at 25 to 50 per cent. On the other hand, export inquiry for wheat was slow, shippers here being told Canadian wheat could be bought to better advantage.

Despite larger receipts here, corn scored an all-round advance in price. Oats were depressed by hedging sales.

Provisions went lower in line with hog values.

GRAIN LETTER.

Chicago, September 17. — Wheat — Aside from short covering the most important buying centered in the December and indicated export business. The seaboard, however, estimated only 200,000 bushels worked in all positions over night and reported cables out of line this morning. After this buying was satisfied, selling pressure continued mostly in May and the market turned weak. Cash basis relatively firm. There are practically sixty million bushels of wheat in the visible supply and this would seem a very heavy load, particularly with increased pressure of Canadian hedges and a reduction of premiums. No. 1 northern in Winnipeg was 5 cents lower relatively today.

Corn—Shorts covered freely early but the buying let up and the market was affected by weakness in wheat and a less snappy demand for spot offerings. Receipts estimated at 400 cars. Advices reported damage done to the crop by recent freezes and the forecast for general rains over the belt led to expectations of additional losses through failure of the crop to dry out properly.

Oats—Early steadiness attracted hedging pressure in the nearby months and northwest liquidation in the May. Shorts and commission houses bought on the decline. Cash basis relatively steady. Country offerings to arrive moderate.

Provisions—Scattered selling on lower hogs found support indifferent. Hogs 10 to 15 cents lower, top $9.20.—Fenner & Beane.

Activity in Paint Industry Is Good Sign, Says Barnum

BY R. L. BARNUM.

New York, September 17.—Professional traders sold stocks short during the morning session but prices came back after which little was done. Oil shares were the softest today on further cuts in gasoline prices.

Cotton attracted the most attention, advancing on options for some months as much as 125 points from Saturday's closing on unfavorable weather reports. No satisfactory explanation could be found it is understood that this year's crop would be below the ten year average. Sugar, despite the talk in the trade of a shortage had an advance and then at the very time of the year when it should have been advancing, was declining to new low levels for the year.

Copper sold at 13 5-8 cents a pound, a decline of 1-8 of a cent from last week's low which was the lowest for the year. Buyers are showing a waiting attitude and some dealers are willing to cut prices to get business. The copper market at London was also weak and for the same reason.

Prominent bankers from all parts of the country making up the advisory council of the federal reserve board are holding a conference with members of the federal reserve board and Secretary Mellon to discuss general trade and financial conditions. No new developments are expected from the meeting.

One good sign of the times, judging the trend of general trade, is the amount of paint being made and used. The public does not use paint when it is in an economical frame of mind and either through choice or necessity is saving money. For the first six months of this year, 441 paint manufacturers produced 247,154,000 pounds of paint, an increase of the same period of last year of 18.5 per cent. These figures were compiled by the government and made public today.

Some prominent Wall street men will arrive here tomorrow on the Majestic, including Charles Steele, a partner of J. P. Morgan & Co., W. H Vanderbilt, Vice President Spencer of Southern Pacific, who have been in England studying the effect of the railway mergers and B. M. Baruch. Baruch left here late in the summer just as the stock market was making its low prices for the year. He frankly admitted then in sailing that he was long of stocks and predicted that those in a similar position would make money. Since the low price for the year was made July 31 there has been a recovery of over 5 points, but Baruch does not buy stocks to make five points.

Farmers, business men and the general public have a big stake in the hearings which began here today before the interstate commerce commission of plans for comprehensive developments of the port of New York. For years it has been realized that this country's most important port was far behind those of foreign countries. It has also been realized that the largest factor in transportation cost is in the terminal charge and costs here are excessively high because under the old system every railroad acting for itself there is much duplication of service. Our best business men here are behind the port of New York authority which has been given legal powers by the state of New Jersey and New York to go ahead and develop steamship and railroad terminal facilities. So far the railroads have been fighting to protect their old terminal rights but the time has now come when for the good of the country as a whole they are likely to be forced out of their old position which will mean much in reducing the transportation and distribution costs in the volume, of both domestic and foreign trade handled here.

Placing of only $214,000,000 foreign loans here during the first six months of this year against $674,000,000 for the first half of 1922 reflects unsettled condition abroad and also explains to some degree our unsatisfactory foreign trade. Refunding operations during the first half of this year, and the paying off of old loans, amounted to only $21,000,000 against $125,000,000 for the same period of 1922, and this decline partly explains why new loans have been much smaller.

Good, old fashioned advice is given to the coal consuming public by the coal investigating committee of the Massachusetts legislature which has been looking into the causes behind the anthracite strike. It tells the public to use substitutes for anthracite and thus give the anthracite industry "the spanking which it deserves for acting like a spoiled child. Every time it frets we have to feed it candy. Let us quit this practice."

Illinois Central, which announces improvement plans calling for total expenditures of $145,000,000 evidently is planning to do some financing.

DAILY STOCK FEATURE

Over Fenner & Beane's Private Leased Wire

CONTINENTAL CAN: Continental Can moved against the downward trend and advanced to 53 around noon. There seems to be constructive forces at work in this issue that seem to be operating for higher prices.

STANDARD OIL OF INDIANA: Standard Oil of Indiana continued to show strength and a heavy accumulation. Altogether over 250,000 shares have been accumulated around present levels during the past month.

COSDEN: Cosden developed a reactionary trend and sold at new low levels for the year. The dividend meeting on Thursday will be watched with extreme interest.

Sugar.

New York, September 17.—The local raw sugar market was steady and unchanged at 4⅞ cents for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 6.65 for centrifugal. Trading was not very attractive and sales aggregating only 5,100 bags of Porto Ricos and 4,000 bags of Cubas, both for first half October shipment.

There was not much activity in raw sugars futures, although the undertone was steady with offerings light. There were early advances of 3 to 5 points on covering and buying by houses with Wall Street and Cuban connections carrying December contracts up to 4.43, but in the afternoon realizing checked the upward movement and prices reacted. The close was 1 to 3 points net higher, closing: September, 4.82; December, 4.42; March, 3.70; May, 3.80.

The market for refined sugar was unchanged at 8.40 for fine granulated, although one refiner is still accepting orders at 8.25. The demand was light, but withdrawals on old contracts continue of fair proportions. Refined futures, nominal.

BLUNDER

A man with a broad face should avoid wearing a hat with deep dents in the sides. They make the hat appear too small and the contour line of the head to run to a peak at the top. A hat with no dents or very slight ones will conform more to the lines of the face and tend to lengthen it.

INNER RING KNEW, CLAIMS SAUNDERS

Memphis, Tenn., September 17.—Clarence Saunders, who testified today in the hearing of his petition for a receivership for the Piggly Wiggly corporation, of which he was formerly president, that in the selling campaign to dispose of stock of Piggly Wiggly incorporated, he had acted as agent for the corporation, but had represented the sale as in behalf of himself as an individual and other owners of the stock, was on the stand when the hearing adjourned late today until tomorrow when his examination will be continued.

The Piggly Wiggly founder, who retired from the presidency of the corporation, the parent concern, and the stores company several weeks ago following five months of disagreement with members of the financial "pool" who backed his venture in stock of the stores company in Wall street, explained that he had represented the sale as being in his personal behalf so as not "to alarm the stockholders of the corporation."

"In the campaign to resell 50,000 shares of outstanding stock I wanted to place all the responsibility on my own shoulders and I determined to keep the fact of the corporation's operations secret until the final crash," he said.

Only Those "Inside" Knew.

In advertisements published in connection with the selling drive, Mr. Saunders declared he held the stock personally and that his personal fortune was at stake, cross examination of the witness developed.

Only those "on the inside," knew the exact state of the corporation's affairs, according to the witness who also stated that his representations in the stock sale were known to the directors fully.

Following a series of questions and sharp arguments by opposing counsel relative to an accounting for the alleged expenditure of approximately $2,000,000 by Mr. Saunders during the course of the stock operations, C. L. Marsilliott, before whom as federal master in chancery the hearing is being held, directed that two bookkeepers, representing either litigant, investigate all the documentary evidence bearing on this matter and report as early as possible to the master the result of their inquiry.

The former Piggly Wiggly executive was the only witness today in the hearing which had been continued from the day of its beginning three weeks ago.

FOSTER TO STAND RETRIAL AS "RED"

Lansing, Mich., September 17.—William Z. Foster, Chicago labor leader, must stand re-trial soon on charges of violating the Michigan anti-syndicalism law, Assistant State Attorney General O. L. Smith announced today. The jury in Foster's first trial, held at St. Joseph, Mich., disagreed.

Foster is one of 76 persons who face charges growing out of a raid by state officers on an alleged communists' meeting in Berrien county in August, 1922. C. E. Ruthenberg, the only other defendant to go on trial, was convicted. The assistant attorney general said today that trials of others under indictment probably will be delayed until the state supreme court has acted on Ruthenberg's appeal.

Wave of Gratitude Sweeps Over Japan For Quake Relief

Kobe, September 11.—(Via Shanghai,—(By the Associated Press.)—From coolie workers to the highest officials here the most profound impression is observable, created by the world-wide outpouring of sympathy and material aid for the stricken districts of Japan.

The vernacular press is filled with reports of the manner in which the nations of the world, particularly the United States, are moving to supply relief, and it is a common experience to hear Japanese residents express their gratitude to foreigners in shops and restaurants.

Manifesting calmness and even cheerfulness, the general public is repressing any outward show of sorrow. At the same time every avenue of aid is being utilized to the fullest extent. The record of the Kobe foreign community is remarkable. For several days its residents have been caring for more foreign refugees than were includede in their own population. Every foreign home at Kobe is filled to capacity with foreign refugees. The main center of relief work is the Oriental Hotel, which has been thronged since Tuesday. The maner in which Kobe residents have extended themselves to provide clothing is a point in the crowds which jam the orante rotunda of the hotel. The lobby seems that of a hotel accommodating a convention rather than a gathering of the destitute.

The ceaseless hunt for missing relatives and friends, which has been continued since the disaster, is indicated by big placards in the hotel rotunda.

Reviews Catastrophe.

Tokio, September 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—In a statement addressed to the whole nation Premier Yamamoto reviews the catastrophe which devastated five prefectures, cost thousands of lives and rendered millions of people homeless. He congratulated the nation on its presence of mind in the face of its most terrible calamity and declares that, although there were some instances to the contrary, peace and order were generally well maintained.

The statement expresses the deep sense of gratitude on the part of the government and people of Japan for the sympathy and practical help forthcoming from foreign nations.

The premier declares that the reconstruction of the capital will be a real test of the resourcefulness of the Japanese and that it will require the efforts of the whole country to create something better and greater than the former city. With that aim, the government has assembled the best available wisdom of the country in the form of a reconstruction commission, the members of which will have the rank of cabinet ministers.

PRICE OF GASOLINE REDUCED IN NORTH

New York, September 17.—The tank wagon price of gasoline today was reduced one cent a gallon in New England and eight Atlantic seaboard states by the Standard Oil company of New Jersey and the Gulf Refining company. The new price ranges from 18 cents in Washington, D. C., to 21 cents in Virginia where there is a state tax of three cents on each gallon.

The Texas company announced it would meet the reduction. The territory in which the cut was announced by the Standard of New Jersey includes New Jersey, North and South Carolina. The new price in most of the territory affected is 18 cents a gallon.

Atlanta dealers Monday expressed the opinion that the cut in gasoline prices along the north Atlantic seaboard was a natural reaction caused by cuts in other sections of the country and that these reductions would not affect motor fuel prices in Atlanta. Gasoline prices in North and South Carolina and in other seaboard states to the north were said to be in excess of the prevailing Atlanta price. Several cuts in the commodity have been experienced in Georgia since cuts have been made in these states and local firms consider these reductions as a natural and probable tendency of large interests to even the price in all sections of the United States.

SOUTHERN HAS EXHIBIT AT BIG CHEMICAL SHOW

New York, September 17.—Mineral resources of the south are displayed to great advantage by the exhibit of the Southern railway system at the ninth National Exposition of Chemical Industries which opened September 17 at the Grand Central Palace in New York.

Attending the exposition are men from all over the country interested in all branches of chemical and mineral industries. The Southern's exhibit gives them a comprehensive view of the great variety of raw materials to be found in the south and the opportunities for the location of a wide range of industries using these materials.

The exhibit occupies four booths, three of which are combined in one for the exhibit proper, while the fourth is used as an office. It is so arranged that visitors who are interested in any particular class of materials find all the samples of that class grouped, facilitating study and comparison.

While the Southern has made exhibits at each annual chemical exposition for several years, this is declared to be the most elaborate exhibit it has ever made and it is thought that a number of important industries will be attracted to the south as a result.

NINE ALIENS FLEE AFTER JAIL BREAK

Crookston, Minn., September 17.—Nine aliens, being held in the Polk county jail for deportation, escaped early today by unlocking the cage door from the inside, and leaving the jail through a window, the bars of which had been sawed. A general alarm has been sent out. The men are believed to have left the city by an early morning train.

FLORIDA MAN HEIR TO NEW YORK FORTUNE

Miami, Fla., September 17.—Thomas M. Culberson, of this city has received notice that he has been named as one of the principal beneficiaries in the will of his aunt, Margaret A. Means, of New York, the gross value of the state being estimated at $636,546. After expenses, taxes and certain other bequests are paid, Mr. Culbertson is to get one-third of the residue of the estate, estimated at about $187,000.

Not to Lower Track.

Quitman, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—The recently published plan of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad to lower the tracks in Quitman to provide safe passage way under the overhead bridge of the South Georgia railroad, has been abandoned, for the present, at least, it was learned today.

INCREASE SHOWN IN CHILD LABOR

Washington, September 17.—An apparent increase of 38.6 per cent in child labor over the corresponding period last year was shown in statistics made public today by the children's bureau of the department of labor, covering the first six months of the current year in thirty selected cities.

The survey was based on the number of miners between the ages of 14 and 16 years who received first working permits. It was pointed out that although the figures were considered representative, they did not necessarily show the actual number of children at work. Those working in violation of the law, it was explained, could not be shown, and in some cases increases might indicate more rigid enforcement of registration laws.

In most instances the figures for the first six months of 1923, although carrying big increases over last year, were substantially below those of 1920. Child labor reached its peak in the war years, the figures indicated, and began to slump in 1920 at the beginning of the business depression. With better times in 1922 the number of miners taking out their first working permits began to mount again.

Vacation Permits Not Counted.

The latest figures indicated still further increases, generally accounted for by the fact that factories and mills are busy and business is prospering. The largest jump was in Waterbury, Conn., where 217, or almost eight times as many children received permission to work as during the first six months of 1922. Other Connecticut cities reported increases of from 98 to 176 per cent. In Manchester, Milwaukee and Louisville from four to five times as many certificates were issued as during the corresponding months a year ago.

Other cities reporting large gains were Springfield, Mass., 215 per cent; Pittsburgh, 127 per cent; San Francisco, 85 per cent; Indianapolis, 75 per cent; Birmingham, 63 per cent; Baltimore, 56 per cent; and Philadelphia, 51 per cent. New York city, with 18,992 permits, showed an increase of 17.4 per cent.

Special permits issued for vacation employment were not included in the survey, and the bureau reported that the number of school children taking jobs for the summer months was much larger than usual.

Permits issued for the first six months of 1923 included Baltimore, 1,978; Milwaukee, 1,933; Newark, N. J., 1,091; Philadelphia, Pa., 2,779; Springfield, Mass., 365; San Francisco, 207; Birmingham, 124; New Orleans, 1,234 and Indianapolis, 360.

CHARGED MET DEATH OF FOSTER-MOTHER

Atlantic City, N. J., September 17.—Mrs. May MacNeill was arrested at her home in this city yesterday for the murder of her foster mother, Mrs. Hannah Seeley, whose body, with the throat cut, was found beside two bloody butcher knives on the porch of her home at Egg Habor, N. J., a year ago.

Mrs. Seeley was declared a suicide at the time, but another investigation led to the indictment of Mrs. MacNeill.

PRINCE ACCORDED WARM WELCOME

High River, Alberta, September 17.—Cowboys, ranchers and townspeople of the High River district accorded the Prince of Wales a royal welcome when his special train arrived here late last night.

For the first time since his arrival in Canada the prince walked from the station to the main street of the town unaccompanied by either secret service men or police.

"They are my neighbors, why should they not greet me?" asked the royal rancher of his secretary.

JERUSALEM REPORTS ARAB REVOLUTION

Jerusalem, September 17.—Authoritative reports say that a revolution has broken out in trans-Jordania against the Emir Abullah. The emir's camp was attacked yesterday by Adwan and Bell, tribesmen. The attackers are reported to have suffered heavy losses.

Advices from Jerusalem September 5 reported a revolt of 3,000 Arabs who demanded equitable taxation, expulsion of foreigners and a parliamentary government.

Following the appointment, Mr. Richardson was the guest of honor at an entertainment given by fellow accountants. The sixth division is composed of Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Georgia, Florida and Mississippi.

New Bridge Planned.

Quitman, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—It is understood the Atlantic Coast Line railroad will soon begin the construction of a new modern steel bridge over the Withlacoochee river, near Quitman. Surveys have been completed and mechanical drawings made for the new structure and the bridge crew will soon be on the scene, according to reports.

Ready for Probe Of Department Of Agriculture

Organization Session Will Be Held in Senate Chamber Today.

All is in readiness for opening today of the legislative investigation of the state department of agriculture. Hearings will be held in the senate chamber at the capitol, the first session being scheduled for ten o'clock this morning. The probe will be made by a special committee from both houses, named under authorization of a joint resolution adopted at the last session.

It is not expected that the committee will get down to actual delving into records of the department at Tuesday's session, probability being that the day will be devoted to preliminary organization, arrangement of a plan of procedure and compiling of lists of witnesses to be subpoenaed.

Ready for Probe.

At the department of agriculture, it was stated Monday, everything was in readiness for the investigation. "In fact," said officials, "there has been no need for preparations. We have been ready and willing at all times for an unbiased investigation and feel confident that the committee named will give us that. Whatever information the committee desires, is at its disposal and can be furnished upon request."

Under the resolution authorizing investigation, the committee must complete its probe within sixty-five days after adjournment of the 1923 session of the legislature, and submit its report and recommendations to the 1924 session.

Sam Olive, of Augusta, former president of the state senate, will represent the department. Mr. Olive acted in a similar capacity this summer for the state highway department at a legislative investigation of that branch of state activities.

Passage of the investigatory resolution in the legislature was the outgrowth of a fight on the agricultural department led by Representative Charles E. Stewart, of Atkinson county. Both upper and lower houses adopted resolutions and a deadlock over differences in the wording of the two resulted. This was broken on the final night of the session.

Objected to Committee.

Representative Stewart later charged that the committee which was named by George Carswell, president of the senate, and W. Cecil Neill, speaker of the house, was "handpicked" and that its report could just as well be written without a hearing.

Several weeks ago, he also stated that he would not attend the investigation nor present evidence in support of charges he had made. These charges were to the effect that the department was more of a "political machine" than a department of use and value to the farmers. He also personally attacked Commissioner of Agriculture J. J. Brown in the course of a speech on the house floor, threatening to institute impeachment proceedings against that official.

It has since been reported by friends of Stewart, however, that he has changed his mind and will appear before the committee.

The committee which will conduct the investigation is composed of Senators George W. Lankford, W. R. Little, F. A. Smith and T. E. Green, and Representatives O. R. Bennett, E. B. McGarity, E. B. Dykes, H. L. Howard, G. R. Calloway, Carl N. Guess, J. D. Davis and C. W. Parker.

OFFICERS CAPTURE ESCAPED CONVICTS SLEEPING BY ROAD

Clarkesville, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—Jack Harrington, Leonard Fitzgibbons and John Mills, the three convicts who escaped from the gang here Friday, were captured at 2 o'clock Sunday morning six miles north of Murphy, N. C., by Warden C. B. Sorrells, Tatum Robertson and Zeb Wood when the gasoline gave out in the automobile stolen by the three from a salesman of the Gate City Ice Cream company, four miles north of Murphy. The three convicts undertook to make their way through the mountains to Jellico Plains, Tenn., but by missing their way they took a circuitous route of forty miles. When captured they were within four miles of the point where they abandoned the stolen car. The officers followed them by the peculiar foot prints of the men. When captured they were apparently asleep, only a few feet from the road. Fitzgibbons was the only one armed. They had no money and one of them still had on stripes.

BRISTOL MAN FOUND SLAIN IN MYSTERY

Waycross, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—Cole Patterson, 30, was found dead with five bullet wounds in his chest, late yesterday in Bristol, according to word reaching here today. Authorities in Bristol have no clues in attempting to identify the slayers, although the body was found within thirty minutes after the tragedy, the messages said. A coroner's inquest is to be held tomorrow morning. Pierce county authorities are making strenuous efforts to find a motive for the killing. Patterson is survived by two brothers, Marvin and L. J. Patterson.

COLUMBUS SCHOOLS ESTABLISH RECORD

Columbus, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—Columbus public schools opened this morning with the largest initial enrollment in their history.

A faculty of 159 was on hand to welcome the pupils enrolled in the various classes. Of the 159 teachers, 116 will instruct the white children, while the remaining 37 will serve in the colored schools.

With a record-breaking enrollment and a faculty composed of able teachers, Superintendent Roland B. Daniels has expressed himself as being exceedingly optimistic over the prospects for the 1923-24 term.

U. S. COURT CONVENES IN SAVANNAH NOV. 5

Savannah, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—Judge W. H. Barrett has notified the United States district attorney's office in Savannah of intention of starting court here on November 5 or 6. Two weeks will be devoted to civil cases followed by a full four weeks of criminal cases. The docket is an important one and comprises indictments charging violations of income tax, prohibition and custom laws. November term at Augusta may be postponed to December, followed by a January term at Valdosta, and later a term at Albany.

ATLANTA MERCHANTS TO ADVERTISE FAIR

Atlanta merchants will do all in their power to help boost attendance at the Southeastern fair this year. In accordance with this plan, 50,000 slips which can easily be slipped into business envelopes have been printed, urging attendance. Merchants are requested to communicate with the chamber of commerce and get these slips, which will be furnished free. It is asked that one of the slips be enclosed in each letter mailed in order that the event may be thoroughly advertised.

BIDS WANTED.

The Town of Sweetwater, Tenn., will, until 12 o'clock noon September 24, 1923, receive sealed bids upon the following work: approximately 66,250 square yards paving, 35,600 cubic yards excavation, 40,500 lineal feet curbing, catch basins, storm sewers, and other work as outlined on plans and estimates now on file in the office of the City Recorder.

The above is for the purpose of improving Main, North, McCaslin, Walnut, Oak, High, Church, Morris, Monroe, Mayes and State streets.

Sealed bids will also be received upon a sanitary sewer system having approximately the following quantities:
12-inch pipe and less 50,000 lineal feet.
12-inch to 18-inch pipe 1,500 lineal feet.
100 cubic yards reinforced concrete.

Bids will be received upon the items of paving and sanitary sewers as a whole and not separately. Plans and specifications can be secured from the city recorder at his office in the city hall.

All bids must be accompanied by a certified check or bidder's bond to the amount of 10 per cent of bids to insure contract and bond in case the bid is accepted.

Bidders are required to bid upon every item set out in proposal sheets.

The Town of Sweetwater reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

This September 14, 1923.

BOSWORTH REVIVAL ENDS MONDAY NIGHT

The losing service of the series of revival meetings conducted for the past four weeks in the Gospel Tabernacle, on Capitol avenue, by Evangelist F. F. Bosworth, was held Monday night, the largest crowd of the month attending to hear the life story of the evangelist.

Scores were turned away because the tabernacle was taxed to capacity with Atlantans who have attended regularly during the past four weeks.

The closing service was most impressive, Evangelist Bosworth devoting the hour to relating his experiences in life. At the close of the service hundreds pressed forward to shake the hand of members of the Bosworth party which includes Evangelist and Mrs. F. F. Bosworth, Rev. and Mrs. B. B. Bosworth, and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Fitch.

The party leaves Atlanta Tuesday for Toccoa, where a ten-day meeting will be held, after which a series of meetings will be held in Fitzgerald, former home of the evangelist.

He said he was saved in Fitzgerald, after he had been told he could not live. He said he had been ill and told he would soon die, so he traveled from Illinois to Fitzgerald to see his family before dying, and that while in Fitzgerald, a woman prayed for him and he was healed instantly. He recounted many cases of persons miraculously cured of all manner of diseases in meetings in various parts of the United States which he has conducted.

The meetings have been highly successful, according to an announcement made by Rev. R. A. Forrest, pastor.

SAYS WORLD FACES 'MORAL BANKRUPTCY'

Evangelist Walt Holcomb, in charge of revival services now in progress at Wesley Memorial church, extended his activities to the Peachtree Arcade Monday at noon when he and a number of co-workers held a thirty-minute special song and prayer service on the basement floor of the building.

Officials of Wesley Memorial church announced Sunday that noon day services would be held regularly in the Arcade and the first of these unique services attracted a crowd of more than 500. Solos by Erle Stapleton, a special prayer service and a short talk by Evangelist Holcomb featured the noon meeting.

Monday night's service at the church was attended by a tremendous throng who heard an interesting sermon on the subject, "Prepare Ye the Way of the Lord." He declared that the world "is in moral bankruptcy and the receiver is just now being appointed." "If foreclosure should come tonight," he continued, "the devil would get more assets out of Atlanta thou God would get."

"A great leveling process must take place in the world," the evangelist said. "Jesus is the great leveler. If you can get capital and labor to meet on the level where Jesus stands, there will be no more rough places between them. When men get violence out of their minds, then world peace will be here, and not till then. And when the mountains are pulled down, and the valleys are filled up, the crooked places made straight, and the rough places made smooth, then 'all flesh shall see the salvation of our God.'"

Revival services will continue each night this week at Wesley Memorial church, beginning with a special song service at 7:30, with noon service in Peachtree Arcade daily.

MUSCOGEE FACTIONS WARM UP IN FIGHT

Columbus, Ga., September 17.—(Special.)—At the close of the first week of active campaigning in the Neill bill fight to determine whether the present method of electing the board of commissioners of roads and revenues in Muscogee county shall be changed or not, both sides are claiming progress and appear confident of success in the election to be held on October 6.

Both forces seem particularly interested in securing the vote of the women of the county, whom, it is thought, hold the balance of power in the election. In addition to the general campaign committee opposing the Neill bill, which is headed by Howard Bickerstaff, there is a woman's campaign committee, with Mrs. Marshall Morton as vice chairman, and a W. C. T. U. campaign committee with Mrs. Charles A. Davis, chairman. The two latter committees are making an effort to carry the women's vote against the Neill bill.

The past week was marked by advertisements from the advocates of the Neill bill, in which the present system of selecting the commissioners by a limited number of men rather than, as the proposed measure would have it, by a direct election by the people, was made as issue.

Speaker Neill, who is also chairman of the Enfranchisement league, issued a statement in which he claimed that Muscogee county had the highest assessments of any county in the state as compared to actual valuations; while Chairman Bickerstaff, of the opposition, states that the Neill bill "system" is responsible for higher tax rates in other counties which have it than the rates in muscogee.

PEPPER AND REED DECLINE TO TALK ON G. O. P. CHOICE

Washington, September 17.—Senators Pepper and Reed, of Pennsylvania, after a conference today with President Coolidge, issued a joint statement regarding the 1924 presidential situation, saying that they found it unwise for the present to express any preference between Mr. Coolidge and Governor Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, for the Republican nomination for president.

MRS. MAYME SIMMONS DIES AT RESIDENCE

Mrs. Mayme Elizabeth Simmons, 31, died Monday at the residence, 329 Greenwood avenue. She was a prominent member of the First Baptist church, a member of the better films committee and an efficient worker in the First Baptist Sunday school.

She is survived by her husband, Joe R. Simmons; a daughter, Madge Simmons; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Stradley; a brother, W. C. Stradley; four sisters, Mrs. T. L. Roper, Mrs. J. P. Glazier, Lucy Stradley and Miss Nell Stradley. Hunter-Blanchard-Gartrell in charge.

FORD TRACTORS TO BE DISPLAYED; FAIR ADDS SHOW

W. B. Fitzgerald and C. E. Stewart have been delegated by the Detroit headquarters of the Ford Motor company to present at the Southeastern Fair one of the most complete expositions of the applied tractor ever staged in this section of the country, officials and representatives of the Ford interests announced Monday.

The delegates in charge of the Atlanta show have been here for a month arranging for exhibition of the big tractors. Motion pictures illustrating efficiency of the tractor and showing advantages of using tractors over other forms of power will be shown.

A small tractor show was held at Ponce de Leon park by the Ford company in August, but the Lakewood show will eclipse any other display ever held in the southeast, it is stated.

DIES AFTER DRINKING HALF-PINT OF LIQUOR

W. O. Fuller, 48 years of age, of 146 West Hunter street, died suddenly at his home at 9 o'clock Monday night. A few minutes before his death, according to Mrs. Fuller, he had ordered a half pint of whisky and swallowed the contents at one time.

According to his widow, Fuller had been drinking heavily for two weeks, and had not worked for several days.

Fuller, it is believed, had grown despondent over his inability to secure regular employment. For several weeks he had worked at intervals as a vegetable vender and was only able to provide meager support for his wife and four small children.

Funeral arrangements are held in abeyance pending arrival of out-of-town relatives of the dead man.
